POSTOFFICE MATTERS.

How the Business Expands and Some Hints That Should be Observed.

How the business of the United States post-office department has grown in almost discontinuous years is known by all. A circular, containing much information, has been placed in our hands, from which we propose to make quotations from time to time. This morning's quota:

Over six millions pieces of mail matter are sent annually to the dead letter office because of incorrect, illegible, or deficient addresses, insufficient postage, insecure inclosing, whereby matter mailed becomes separated from the envelope or wrapper, or the failure to be called for, or delivery to the person addressed. This is a daily average of over 20,000 pieces.

Packages and parcels are recorded, and where they do not disclose the name and address of the owner are filed; if not called for or claimed within two years they are disposed of at public auction and the proceeds converted into the United States treasury.

A large proportion of the packages and parcels sent to the dead letter office fail to be restored to the owners because of the absence on the wrappers or inclosures of anything to indicate ownership thereof.

Packages and all matter mailed at less than letter rates of postage, should, in addition to the name and address of the sender upon the envelope or wrapper, bear in connection therewith a request for its return in the event of non-delivery, in which case it is also returnable directly to the sender from the post-office addressed, charged with return postage at the rate required for the class of matter to which it belongs.

A Dog-Gone Shame.

Three of Marion county's most respected citizens have been subjected to a gross insult at the hands of County Assessor Placker by. When the late assessment was being copied it was discovered that but three dogs had been assessed, although 800 had been assessed. Of these, one belonged to a man named Metuire and another to a Mr. McCully. The two beasts were given in as worth $35. The third dog was the property of A. O. Condit, the county treasurer, and the valuation placed on the animal was $25. When it came time to copy the dog assessments into the rolls there was found to be no "dog column," so the canines were counted in with the pigs—put in the pig pen, as it were. This it is that has stirred county's new assessment sheet three more dogs than the county is entitled to, and thus it is, also, that three dogs are slandered. The hog census has been padded.—Salon Statesman.

The Second Crop.

The Oregonian mentions second crop raspberries as follows: Mr. David Cole yesterday left two boxes of fine ripe raspberries of the second crop of this year at the Oregonian office. He thought they were something of a novelty and imagined that his farm at Belle Haven, out on the slough, was a great fruit producer. Second growth raspberries, or perhaps of potatoes, are so rarely found in the room of the Oregonian's reporters. Their tables are covered with this sort of stuff up to the time of the first hard frost, generally about Christmas. Mr. Cole will become a wintered raspberries for his customers, and a diner after he has been dining a few years.

Polk Pioneers.

The members of Polk county met again at Monmouth Tuesday for the purpose of adopting a constitution and by-laws for the government of the recently organized camp of pioneers. The organization shall be known by the name of the Polk County Pioneer association. All persons residing in Polk county who came to Oregon prior to January 1855, and their children born prior to said date, shall be eligible to membership. All meetings of the association shall be held at Monmouth.

The Next Press Association.

President L. Samuels, of the Oregon State Press Association, yesterday fixed the time for holding the next annual convention. At the last business meeting of the association held in Portland last month, Astoria was selected as the place for holding the next annual meeting, but the late was left blank, and President Samuels was authorized to choose the time. He yesterday decided on August 27, 28 and 29, and Oregon journalists can paste this in their hats, so as not to forget it.

In the Law's Clutches.

D. Crowder, a resident of Albany for the past year or so, was arrested and brought down here by Deputy United States Marshal Miller. He was arrested on a warrant based upon an indictment found in Kansas in 1889, charging him with peddling a United States secret service officer, and in this manner procuring free transportation on a railroad. He has employed counsel and will endeavor to secure his liberty. The indictment appears to be all right.—Oregonian.

Mining Claims.

J. W. Gardner, H. W. White and G. P. Harris, have located the Southern Pacific, Central Pacific, Union Pacific, Kansas Pacific and North Pacific mining claims in the Santiam mining district, Was. McLeod, the Lexington, in the Calapoosa district, and Geo. P. Harris, the Mountain Lion, in the Santiam district.

LEBANON NOTES.

Benjamin Barker gave us lately a branch off a Terra Japonica tree which is growing in his yard in Lebanon. The tree bore fruit this year, which gave rise to numerous conjectures concerning its real name. The Terra Japonica is identical with the cat-chu of commerce and is much used in medicine and also as a tanning agent.

The Camp Fire, given by the G. A. R., Saturday evening, Sept. 27, at the Union hall, promises to be one of the most salient features of the occasion will be pork and beans. There will be songs, recitations and army reminiscences by those who were there and can speak from experience. The W. R. C. will serve ice cream and cake. The public are cordially invited.

Married, at the residence of the bride's mother in Lebanon, Sept. 24, h. Prof. R. N. Wright and Miss Mildred Ballard. The couple started on a bridal tour Thursday morning. Professor and his bride have the well wishes of many friends.

Between the hours of 6 and 8 in the morning, a train loaded with rock and lumber passed down one of the hills at this place. One of the wheels of the engine was stuck in a building material. This is an indication of prosperous times and good quality of work.

A Cold Bath.

The steamer South Bend sank in the Willapa river one night last week. About 2 o'clock at night she was awakened by water pouring into her cabin where they were sleeping. To their horror they discovered that the steamer was to the water's edge, and that they only had time to jump to a rowboat and escape. The steamer lies on her side in one of the deepest parts of the river, and is almost entirely out of sight. The cause of the accident is as yet unknown.

Unfortunate.

C. P. Davis's young son, who had an arm broken recently while imitating circus artist on a rope, is surely a child of misfortune, says the Pendleton East Oregonian. Yesterday, while wheeling a baby, he happened to step on a pistol cylinder, full of cartridges, which had been carelessly thrown away by some one. One of the cartridges exploded, the ball passing very near the boy's face, and burning his eyes so severely with powder that he is hardly able to see this morning. The cylinder was after and found, with one chamber empty.

Grange Meeting.

The Dalles Sun says: The W. C. and Sherman counties business council, Patrons of Husbandry, met with Highland grange at Kingsley on the 9th, inst. President John Medler presided and William Holder, state grange lecturer, acted as secretary. Seven granges were represented and the utmost good feeling prevailed. One of the results of the meeting was the formation of a cooperative business association, mention of which was made in these columns last week.

A Valuable Bovine.

The Astoria Pioneer says that B. F. Hall, residing up the river in the vicinity of Hall's ferry, has a half roan Durham cow which brought him four calves inside of eleven months, all alive and doing well, and good grass the past season gave about five gallons of rich milk each day. The first two calves came in April, 1889, and the next two last March, the former both being males and the latter a male and female. A man with a few cows like that could stock the ranges of Eastern Oregon.

For the Mines.

The Albany Mining and Milling Company are sending in their Santa Fe mines, a large amount of material and provisions, and yesterday C. Kendrick, an experienced mill man, went in to work for them in charge of their new machinery.

Death from Accident.

Prof. J. C. Kezel, of that faction of the United Brethren church that is putting up a new college building at Philomath, is reported to have been fatally injured by falling from the building in course of construction and died yesterday.

About Completed.

The gathering of straw for the Lebanon paper mills has been completed, and their immense sheds are full. The material is also on the ground and the mills will be pushed to completion and put to work as soon as possible.

THE W. O. T. U. ENTERTAINMENT.

Last evening was the second and last evening of a fair, and a grand success it was. The programme was well carried out and very entertaining. The duet by Mrs. Chamberlain and Mr. Pritchard was the only part of the programme that was not rendered. Mr. Pritchard being ill. The booths were all well attended, and the evening especially interesting.

Business Change.

John Isom Jr. has purchased the confectionery store and business of Francis Pfeiffer for $7000, and will take immediate possession. The business will be continued at the old stand without interruption.

Slaughtering Cattle.

The Dalles Times-Mountaineer says that, this afternoon, a freight train, west-bound, when passing Cape Horn, came on a bank of cattle. The whistle was blown, and brakes set; but the animals crowded the track so it was impossible to pass. In this portion of the road it requires considerable power to overcome the grade, and it was impossible to stop suddenly. Consequently the locomotive ran over several of the cattle, throwing it from the track. The engine, driver and fireman had no time to jump, and escaped uninjured. A ramp in one of the cars had a leg broken, and was otherwise bruised. There were several cattle killed, and pieces of beef-steak were scattered all over a distance over the track. The cars were loaded with wheat and general merchandise.

An Old Gun.

The wandering Lila Arke, an old German with a French name, passed through the city on Sunday last, says the Pomeroy Independent, with a little Mexican burro packed down to the ground. The old man had one of General Scott's old field pieces, which some American lost in the Mexican war. The gun was made by S. North, Middletown, Conn., U. S., in 1845. The old man told in fair German that he had been a wanderer for six years. He had been in all the old mining camps of this coast.

Terrific Accident.

A frightful accident occurred about ten miles east of Union Friday evening. Mr. R. D. Nelson was hauling a load of wood from the mountains when the team became unmanageable and ran away. The load was turned over, Mr. Nelson falling beneath. His right leg was broken just below the knee and his left foot was torn entirely off. It is probable that he also received internal injuries. He died at 3 o'clock the next morning.

The Dalles Times-Mountaineer says that a post of opals has been taken up near Madras, and is now being worked under the mining laws. A fine specimen of rough opal found there was sent to W. W. Baker of Walla Walla. Jewelers pronounce it a first-class article. This opal mine will prove very valuable to its owners, and is but another of the many latent resources of the Pacific Northwest.

Hi Plummer's seven acres of hops turned out 10,000 pounds, the eight acres of John Groves yielded 13,000 pounds, and from eleven acres Joda Morrison took 20,000 pounds. They have had opportunities to unload at from 35 to 37 cents, but are waiting for better figures.—Dalles Itemizer.
