HIS NATIVE STATE.

President Harrison Visits Scenes of His Early Childhood

A VERY WARM WELCOME.

His Speech to the People of Lawrenceburg, Ohio—An Old Friend Calls Him "Ben."

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 7.—To-day has been one of occasions for the chief magistrate of the nation. Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana have joined in doing him homage and in the land of Dixie the greeting was no less warm than in the native state of President Harrison. It was hardly more than daybreak when the presidential train passed through Newport and Covington, but the president was up and bowed acknowledgment to the bustling, enthusiastic Kentuckians that crowded the depots as the train passed through.

Cincinnati was reached at 7:30 a. m. Despite the early hour several thousand people gathered at the Central depot to greet the president. At 8 the train pulled out. The principal event of the day was to come.

Near North Bend, Ohio, the old Harrison homestead was reached, and the train came to a stop just at the house in which Benjamin Harrison first saw the light, and but a few yards from the white shaft that marks the tomb of his illustrious ancestor, ex-President William Henry Harrison. The occasion was not one for words, and as the president passed to the rear platform he was unaccompanied. The rest of the party delicately left him to the solemn memories that the scenes of his childhood and youth called forth.

After a brief stop the train passed on, but the president was visibly affected by the sights that brought so many tender memories to his mind, and when the little town of Lawrenceburg was reached his voice was heavy with emotion as he addressed the crowd of neighbors and friends that thronged to greet him.

"My friends," said the president, "I want to thank you very cordially for this greeting. All scenes about here are very familiar to me. My own boyhood and early manhood was spent, memories crowd in upon me here, are very full of interest, very full of pleasure and very full of sadness. They bring back to my mind those who once made the old home very dear—the most precious spot on earth. I have passed with bowed head the place where they rest. We are here in our generation with the work of those who are gone upon us. Let us see, each of us, that in the family, in the neighborhood and in the state we do at least with equal courage, grace and kindness, the work so bravely, kindly and generously done by those who filled our places fifty years ago. Now, for I must hurry on, to those old friends and those new friends who have come in since Lawrenceburg was familiar to me, I extend again my hearty thanks for this welcome, and in parting, will introduce one of the members of my cabinet who accompanies me, General Tracy, secretary of the navy. Secretary Tracy contented himself by merely bowing to the enthusiastic crowd, and he and the president had time to shake a few eager hands extended as the train pulled out.

At Milan and Osgood large crowds also assembled, but the president merely appeared on the rear platform and introduced Secretary Tracy, bowed to the cheering Indians, and the train passed through.

When the village of Washington was reached many old friends of the president greeted him. An old gray-haired man elbowed his way through the crowd to the president, and grasping his hand, said, "How are ye, Ben? I am glad to see ye; I voted for your grandfather and then voted for you, and I hope, Ben, I'll have a chance to vote for you again. You don't mind if I call you Ben?" Great laughter from the crowds. The president assured his visitor that his old friends he hoped to always remain the "Ben" of yore, and the crowd loudly applauded the sentiment. This encouraged an old lady to exclaim as she grasped the president's hand, "I feel as though I am related to you, Mr. Harrison; your grandfather and mine ate roast turkey and pig together, and that makes us related, doesn't it?" (Great laughter.) The president bowed an affirmative to this logic.

DAYVILLE, Ill., Oct. 7.—The president is certainly making his Western trip a period of unalloyed pleasure. The generous welcome which the citizens of his native state tendered him at every stop in Indiana was particularly pleasing to the president. The principal event of the day was the reception at Terre Haute. A stand had been erected and fully 10,000 people assembled to greet the party. The arrival of the train

A WIFE'S SUICIDE.

In a Fit of Remorse She Takes Strychnine.

WEDDING NIGHT SUICIDE.

Burlington Engineer—A Life Sentence—A Terrible Powder Explosion—Winn's Wife's Wedding.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Lulu Rogers, 19 years old, a wife, and the mother of two children, committed suicide to-day by taking a dose of strychnine. Her husband, William J. Rogers, is a car conductor, and on returning from work yesterday morning at one o'clock, found his wife out. The quarrel which ensued and the remorse for her conduct is believed to have led to the dose. She left an affectionate note, begging her husband's forgiveness.

SEEKING CRAZY.

A California Girl Who Committed Suicide on Her Wedding Day.

Redwood, Cal., Oct. 7.—Mrs. George Wehrin (nee Miss Louise E. Selinger), who committed suicide on her wedding night, was buried yesterday. The husband was overcome. A letter arrived for the dead girl at the same time from Kansas City, from her brother. The letter was written on Oct. 1, in German. An extract was worded as follows:

Louise, you know you are a very strange girl, but you know there is something wrong with you; that you tell twenty-five lies on your head, and you had better think well before you marry.

A niece of Groner's, who was quite intimate with deceased, said: "Louise was a strange girl and from what we saw of her we have come to the conclusion that she was not right in her head. From the first day she was engaged to George she treated him harshly and did not appear to like him. I don't think she was ever engaged to anyone else, for she told me she had several chances to get married in Portland but had refused them all. She was apparently opposed to marriage toward the last, and told my uncle she would take poison some day."

Wehrin said to a friend that if he could get his money back he would tell something about the marriage. The stomach of the deceased was removed by order of the coroner and will be sent to San Francisco to have the contents analyzed. Wehrin, who is a cookman for a prominent family of this city, put all his money, it is stated, into a cottage he bought for his bride and gave a mortgage on the place for a few hundred dollars to his co-worker. The cottage was sold to him by Mrs. Groner, aunt of the deceased girl.

IMPORTANT MOVE.

The Proposition to Establish a Popedom in England Revived.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Le Matin, of Paris, publishes an article asserting that a movement is brooding in England among the leaders of the Roman Catholic and Anglican parties to appoint a special pope for England. As an evidence of the truth of this statement Le Matin calls attention to the recent all Catholic congress held at Cologne, where the established church of England was represented by the bishop of Salisbury and the archbishop of Canterbury. America by Jenner, the former bishop, now bishop of New Zealand. There were also present Hinchiff, representing the Orthodox Greek church of Russia, and Hincinetti, several Janesists from Holland. The conference led to no definite result, though there was a vague scheme to establish a popedom in England.

THE BURLINGTON ROAD.

It Seeks a Pacific Terminus—Arnold's Sentence.

UNION, Or., Oct. 7.—A corps of engineers are in the Blue mountains thirty miles west of Union, making a preliminary survey across the mountains in the interest of the Burlington & Missouri river railway company. It is stated that it is the intention of the Burlington & Missouri to extend its road to the Pacific coast and that the terminus will probably be somewhere on the Puget Sound.

C. E. Arnold was to-day sentenced by Judge Atford to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary, for killing E. A. Shafer at Hilgard in March last.

They Appraise the Estate.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The appraisers of the estate of William P. Fuller, of the firm of Whittier, Fuller & Co., who died on the 17th of May, have submitted their report. The total estate is valued at $1,771,262.

WINNIE DAVIS' WEDDING.

Gossips and Rumors About the Postponement of Her Marriage.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Report came from New Orleans that Miss Winnie Davis, daughter of Jeff Davis, will not marry Alfred Wilkinson, because of his poor financial condition. Wilkinson is out of town and his sister will neither confirm nor deny the report.

Dr. Thomas Emery, at whose house Miss Winnie Davis was a guest when she first met Mr. Wilkinson, says in regard to the report from New Orleans that their engagement has been broken off, that he had no definite information, and did not believe it was true.

As far as the reported postponement was concerned, he knew no time had ever been fixed for the wedding. "There has been a report," he said, "that the wedding has been postponed from September to next June. I don't believe Miss Davis ever intended to marry earlier than that, anyway, out of respect to her father's memory. As a matter of fact, Mr. Wilkinson did not suffer any considerable loss in the burning of the family home."

PRISONERS TO BE RELEASED.

England to Extend Clemency to Dynamite Men Now in Prison.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A London correspondent cables as follows this morning: I have good reason to believe that the government has decided to release under certain conditions, a number of unfortunate men who are now serving life sentences in British prisons for complicity in the earlier dynamite outrages or attempted outrages. Recent investigations have proved practically beyond doubt that many of the men, probably the majority, were victims of "agents." This discovery, coupled with the fact that no blood was shed by the prisoners, and that they have already endured heavy penalties of years in prison, has induced the government to recommend the crown to give a merciful consideration to their case.

A MURDERER ESCAPES.

Assumes His Wife's Clothes and Deceives the Jailor.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 7.—Bill Howard, who is under sentence for the murder of a confederate in the Moonshine whisky business over a year ago, escaped from prison here this morning. Howard's wife was allowed to spend the night in the cell with her husband. This morning Howard, dressed in his wife's clothing, came down the stairs of the jail with an infant in his arms and, leaving the baby at a relative's house, fled before the jailer had discovered the trick that had been played on him.

WHAT NOTED PEOPLE DO.

Henry Watterston was originally intended for a pianist by his father. Madame Modjeska owns one of the largest farms in Los Angeles county, California. Mr. Buckle, the editor of the London Times, is reputed to receive a salary of $25,000 a year. Wilkie Collins' grave in the northern part of Kensal Green cemetery is marked by a neat, unadorned marble cross. Mr. George Meredith has become a convert to vegetarianism and intends, it is said, to write a novel in support of this theory of living. Father P. L. Chapelle, a Catholic priest, of Washington, D. C., who is about to be elevated to a bishopric, is a Frenchman by birth, and has a missionary uncle in Hayti. Colonel John Benton and N. M. Johnson, respectively democratic and republican candidates for congress in North Dakota, will jointly discuss the tariff throughout the campaign. George Washington of Newport, Ky., the temporary chairman of the Blue Grass state constitution convention, is a direct descendant of Samuel, a brother of the immortal George. Marshall Field Jr., a Harvard sophomore and a son of a wealthy merchant in Chicago, has become a Roman Catholic in order that he can marry Miss Houck, the daughter of a rich brewer. Mr. Albert Bruce Joy, the well-known sculptor, arrived in New York from England, on the Majestic, a week ago, and with occasional absences in other parts of the country, will be here for a month to come. One of Mr. Joy's most recent works, a statue of Bishop Berkeley, for Clonay cathedral, in Ireland, has a peculiar interest for Americans. Steamer on Fire. New York, Oct. 7.—The steamer Alamo from Galveston arrived this morning with her cargo of cotton on fire. She was towed to Red Hook flats and will open her holds so the firemen can get to the flames.

ASSAULTER SLAYED.

A Lady Who Could Defend Her Honor to the Death.

ENGINEERS IN BLUE ETS.

Clemency to Dynamite—Dressed in His Wife's Apparel a Murderer Escapes—Severe Storm.

DEAL, Or., Oct. 7.—F. F. Templeton was shot and instantly killed about 10 o'clock Sunday night by Mrs. Hainey, living five miles from town on the Smith river road. Templeton was a 35 year old, a married man and a savior by trade. He and Mr. Hainey had taken up homesteads on Smith river. Sunday evening Hainey left for the river to finish a house for Templeton, who was to sleep with Hainey's family yesterday. Templeton was a large, stout man. Mrs. Hainey is quite small and delicate. She told her husband that she was afraid of Templeton, as he had insulted her several times. About 10 o'clock Templeton made an assault upon Mrs. Hainey with his person incidentally exposed. She told him to stand back. He attempted to lay hold of her, when she fired, missing him. He then rushed at her, and she fired a second shot, the ball striking him in the neck, causing him to fall from the base of the rain. He fell on the floor, where he lay until the coroner was summoned yesterday. There being no near neighbors, and the night very dark, Mrs. Hainey was compelled to remain all night in the house with the dead man. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of justifiable killing.

WOMAN FORGER ON TRIAL.

How She Secured $45,000 From a Rhode Island Bank.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 7.—The trial of Nettie L. Clarke, a young music teacher, who was arrested in New York July 3d for a $45,000 forgery, committed on the Mechanics' Savings Bank of this city, was begun in the court of common pleas to-day. There was a perfect mob of women, not half of the applicants being able to get into the court room. The prosecution proved the forgery, and the method whereby Miss Clarke worked this iron clad bank. The connection of Rowland Hazard, the millionaire manufacturer, with the case proved to be one of a friendly aid to a woman, who pleaded ignorance of banking affairs. One new disclosure was the use to which she put the $43,300 paid to Allen B. Ralph. It was for the purpose of taking up a $45,000 note, purporting to have been made to her by Ed. S. Pierce, of Worcester. This note has been destroyed and its genuineness cannot be tested by cross-examination. The defense will probably be undue influence and that Miss Clarke merely passed a note forged by another.

A Monster Ferryboat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The monster ferryboat, Ukiah, is rapidly nearing completion and in a week will be ready for her much-talked-of trial trip. The Ukiah is rated as first-class in her line of vessels and it is thought her engines will develop a high rate of speed on her trial trip. She has been supplied with a vertical beam engine, having a sixty-five inch cylinder and twelve-inch stroke. The boilers, two in number, are each twenty-five feet long and eleven feet in diameter. The total cost of the Ukiah will be not less than $175,000.

A Defaulting Secretary.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—Daniel Zeimer, of this city, has been missing since Wednesday, September 17th. He was secretary of American Council, No. 7, Order Chosen Friends, and when not engaged in that business solicited orders for several wholesale liquor houses. It is stated that he is indebted to the amount of $600.

A Whitecap Outrage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Whitecaps are at work at Abasco, N. J. John Newman was taken from his bed by a party of four men, who stripped him and rode him about on a rail trimmed with barbed wire. It appears that he had been drinking freely of late and has abused his wife and family.

Forged a Check.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Maud Yates, wife of Frederick Yates, son of Edmund Yates, editor of the London World, who is separated from her husband, was to-day committed for trial on a charge of uttering a check with the object of defrauding her father-in-law.

Politics Caused It.

LIVINGSTON, Tex., Oct. 7.—Tonight Demit Jones, of Leggett, was called out of a saloon by Jim Parker and Alex Lowe. As he stepped out of the door he was fatally shot by the men. Uriah Freeman then came and began shooting at Parker and Lowe, who returned the fire. Lowe was killed outright. Parker is shot in the stomach and cannot live and Freeman is shot in the left arm and breast. The doctors say he will die. The tragedy had its origin in politics.
