MISSING MERCHANT.

Whereabouts of George Degraff, of Seattle, a Mystery.

PRICE OF SUGAR ADVANCED.

Train Robbed by Four Masked Men in Montana—The Outfit Rush—News Along the Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Adam Grant, of Murphy, Grant & Co., states that the case of Geo. Degraff, the missing Seattle merchant, is surrounded with much mystery. Said he:

We have never attached Mr. Degraff's store, as has been reported in the dispatches from Seattle, because we have absolutely no cause to do so. He never owed much, and we were amply secured for his account during the many years that we have done business with him. His non-arrival here has given us much trouble and anxiety, and we do not know what to make of it.

There was produced the last telegram received from Seattle, which said:

Degraff's affairs are all right. Have you learned of him?

H. R. Coates, Chief of Police Crowley, said, when seen, he had received no notification of Degraff's disappearance officially, and he had taken no steps whatever to trace the man. A private detective firm of this city, which has, by advice from Seattle, followed the case very closely, expressed the cautious opinion yesterday that Degraff arrived here Wednesday, October 1, and was seen in company with some tough water front characters on the Thursday following. The theory of this detective is that Degraff has been robbed and strangled on some outgoing vessel. Merchants who have known Degraff for years say he has been known as an exceptionally steady man, and one who is not likely to indulge in any follies that would lead him into trouble.

The President in St. Louis. St. Louis, Oct. 11.—President Harrison arrived this morning. The trip from Kansas City was uneventful. On his arrival the president was taken in charge by Governor Francis, Mayor Noonan, and the reception committee, and given a military escort to the Southern hotel, where a military salute was fired, and the multitude cheered. The president reviewed the procession from the balcony of the hotel.

Gone to San Francisco. PORT TOWNSEND, Oct. 11.—The United States revenue cutter Rush left at 11 o'clock this morning for the winter station at San Francisco.

ON HIS DEATHBED.

Justice Miller May Pass Away at Any Moment.

DOCTORS SAY HE IS DYING.

Great Excitement in St. Petersburg Over the Battle of a Young Medical Student.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—1:30 p. m.—Justice Miller is gradually sinking. Dr. Lincoln says he is dying. May pass away at any moment.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The Sun Washington special says: Justice Miller, by common consent, has been regarded as the strongest man on the supreme bench, ever since he took his seat thereon. On two occasions he was selected as chief justice by the appointing power. President Grant decided to nominate him for that office, but it was argued that it would be an affront to Justice Noah H. Swayne, who had served a longer time than Justice Miller, and as a compromise, Morrison R. Waite was chosen. During Mr. Cleveland's administration the question of promoting Justice Miller was seriously considered by the president, when Chief Justice Waite died, but he was persuaded by his party associates, who decided that such a course was unwise, and Melville W. Fuller was appointed chief justice instead. Justice Miller has always been a strong authority on constitutional law, in which line he has earned a reputation second only to that of Chief Justice Marshall. He has been the legal adviser of the president of the United States on many intricate questions, and it is probably true that no American jurist ever stood as high in the estimation of the leading men of both political parties. He passed the time limit of years in 1890, but never gave any indication of a desire to take advantage of, nor indeed was there any reason why he should until the present time. He has been as vigorous physically as mentally as most men are at 80, and has constantly done his full share of work on the bench.

NEWS IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Emperor William Wants a More Perfect Union of Germany.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The alleged interview with the German emperor, reported in the Parisian papers, is not credited in Berlin. The emperor is well known to be ardently desirous of uniting the German provinces now held by Russia, and whose inhabitants are as much attached to Germany as those of Alsace-Lorraine are opposed to her rule. Through the interview published by Gillias is supposed to be an intention, if the same sort of irregularities continue of the emperor's views. Since his visit to Russia he has expressed more than once a deep interest in his fellow-countrymen of the Russian-Baltic provinces, and he is said to have made a remark, during his visit to Austria, implying that a union of Germany was imperfect while these provinces remained under Russian dominion. Much privation is already felt in Thuringia and other parts of Germany on account of the new American tariff, it being no longer profitable to export nearly equal articles, such as toys, which engaged the industry of numerous families. Local measures are being taken for the relief of those thrown out of work.

A SALOON FIGHT.

Masked Men Had a Saloon and Do Some Shooting.

CALESTON, Cal., Oct. 11.—Near the Bradford quicksilver mine in Lake county last evening several masked men raided the saloon kept by Stephen Rich and wife. As soon as the raiders entered the place shooting began right and left, and Mrs. Rich was fatally wounded, being shot three or four times. Her husband was also wounded, and W. R. McGuire was shot dead. During the fight Mrs. Rich pulled the mask off one man and she recognized him as Kenny Arcaro, an employee at the mine. Fred Bennett, a hanger-on at the saloon, escaped through a window. Tar and feathers, supposed to have been intended for him, were afterwards found near by. The raid was no doubt made to permanently clear the saloon of the persons occupying it, particularly Bennett.

VOICES OF THE DAY.

"How foolish 'twas," the lamb exclaimed one day.

"When Groul's fond parents christened him a jay."

Her face would stop a clock; 'tis true, 'Twas his face as passing fair.

The beauty that's in printed there.

There is no doubt that while you weep You find that love is blind;

That's why she finds good points in you That no one else can find.

Here lies a man who while he lived Was happy as a linnet;

He always laid with on the earth, And now he's lying in it.

Dramatic Close of a Letter on Poisonous Acids.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—An extraordinary story is telegraphed from St. Petersburg. It is probable no romance has ever imagined a more dramatic incident. A young professor of medicine, Koucharky by name, closed a lecture on poisonous acids, given in the laboratory of the university, by pouring into a glass some drops of one of the poisons, saying, as he drank them, "In two minutes you are going to see a man die before your eyes. Gentleman, I bid you farewell." The students rushed up and tried to administer an antidote, but it was powerless. At the expiration of the time he had

A PIRATE CRAB.

She Picked up a Trading Vessel—Eleven of the Crew Taken.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Advises received per the steamship Belgic, which arrived yesterday, state that the revenue cruiser Ling Fong reported having seen near Foo Chow a large pirate junk firing at a peaceful trader. A gunboat was sent out by the authorities and returned with eleven prisoners, who had been captured from the piratical craft. All these men were beheaded. One of them through the horrors of his position or from the tortures he had been subjected to, went raving mad and refused to kneel before the executioner, so the latter had to take "pot shots" at him, and eventually decapitated him in slices. Piracy is becoming quite rife in the province. News is also received of a pirate craft having seized a trading junk and massacred in cold blood the whole crew of 39 men.

AN INTERMINABLE DESERT.

What most impresses you about this strange scene is the frightful desolation. It is a desert of interminable extent, where nothing grows. Not a blade or sprout of any sort of vegetation is to be discovered, for the simple reason that there is no sunlight to support vegetable life. Over the vast, less expanse of plain, hill and valley your eyes wander fruitlessly in search of tree, shrub or even seaweed. There is nothing save the grayish shelly ooze.

BLACK AND ENCANNY.

One unpleasant thing about the fish is that they are all black. Every one of them is of the same inky hue, with fierce jaws and enormous eyes that stare at you greedily. Some are eel-like—for instance, a kind of shark that you would imagine was a big eel, exists only in these depths. There are plenty of actual eels, too. In fact, the water is swarming with so constituted as to be able to withstand the extraordinary conditions. In order that they shall be able to live comfortably under a pressure of three tons to the square inch these fish are made of skeletons so soft and pliable that they can thrust a needle easily through the bones and the tissue of which their flesh is composed is loose and pulpy. Under the pressure they are ordinarily subjected to they are as firm and compact as any surface fish. But when taken out of the water with a deep sea dredge or otherwise,

METHODS OF ILLUMINATION.

One of the most interesting things you take notice of in walking about on the ocean's floor, is the method of artificial lighting employed by very many of the fishes. You see whole torchlight processions go by each fish actually carrying a torch of its own, which serves the double purpose of lighting its path and attracting its prey. The new invention of luminous bait was an idea applied by the so-called angler fish of the deep sea.

PROBABLY TO BE MARRIED.

A Rich American Widow Causes Paris Society to Speculate. A Paris dispatch says that society here is again busy with the private affairs of Mrs. Harriet Ayers, a rich American widow. It is said that she must certainly contemplate matrimony, for she is having a magnificent assortment of robes and costumes made at Worth's. Her name is linked with that of a well-known artist, though it is understood that she does not have any intention of changing her name. The great French milliner says she is the best customer he has had this season, which means a great deal from a man who will curl his lip at a $50,000 order from anybody. A lady who has seen some of the dresses declares they include bridal and traveling robes worth $65,000. People wonder if Mrs. Ayers is going to spruce a big sensation in the American colony soon.

AGITATION OVER THE TARIFF LAW IN FRANCE.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—The agitation over the new United States tariff law has been greater than ever during the last week. The wildest ideas as to the scope and effect of the law are prevalent. Lyons virulently remonstrated against the heavily increased duties on silk. Bordeaux was equally excited about wine, and the whole of France was in a condition of extreme irritation. M. Lockray treats the idea of European Zollverein against America as utopian. He holds that France, unassisted by other countries, can open the gates of the American Chinese wall by proffering by the word "Reciprocity," which figure in the new laws.
