GEN. BELKNAP DEAD.

Secretary Tracy Will Resign to Become a Senator.

JUSTICE MILLER WILL DIE.

The Romance Ended—A Mother Defrauded to Save Her Son—Canada Wants to Reciprocate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Gen. William N. Belknap, ex-secretary of war, died in bed this morning in his room in the Evans building on New York avenue in this city. The room in which he was found, joined his office room, and was only occupied by the general during his wife's absence from the city. General Belknap was last seen alive Saturday night about midnight, and was on his way to his room, apparently in excellent health. Mrs. Belknap, whois in New York City, has been notified of her husband's sudden death.

General William North Belknap was born in Newberg, New York, in September, 1829. He graduated at Princeton college in 1848, and in 1851 he removed to Keokuk, Iowa, where he practiced law. Belknap served through the war, beginning his services as major of an Iowa regiment and at the close was brevetted general. In October, 1869, he was appointed secretary of war. This office he retained during General Grant's administration until March, 1876, when in consequences of charges of official corruption, he resigned. He was impeached and tried before the senate for receiving bribes for the appointment of post traders, and acquitted on technical grounds for want of jurisdiction.

The coroner's inquest shows that the general suffered from fatty degeneration of the heart, and that the immediate cause of death was inflammation of the heart.

THE END OF A ROMANCE.

Thomas Murphy, an English Earl's Son-in law, Dies Unforgiven.

BOSTON, Oct. 13—The death of Thomas P. Murphey at Barney hospital yesterday closes a romance in local life. In 1879 he eloped with Lady Blanche Elizabeth Mary, daughter of the Earl of Gainesborough, and grand-daughter of the seventeenth Earl of Errol. Lady Blanche was the first born of the Earl of Gainesborough, and a most beautiful woman. Young Murphy was organist in the private chapel of the Earl of Gainesborough, and was dependent upon his slender income from that source. He was handsome and accomplished, and easily won Lady Blanche's love while instructing her in music. The earl renounced her, they went to New York, then to North Conway, New Hamshire, where they built a house a short distance from the village, and there spent the remaining years of their lives. Lady Blanche died about eight years ago. A cablegram was sent to the earl and the answer was: "Send her home to me and let me look on her face once more." The body was carried to Portland and then sent to England. The earl had forgiven his daughter, but would not forgive the man who had won her love. Murphy remained on his lonely farm after the departure of his wifes body until a short time ago, when he was stricken down with typhoid fever. Friends secured his admission to Barney hospital, where he died,

WANT RECIPROCITY.

Canada Makes a Proposition to the United States.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A Washington dispatch says that R. Bond, colonial secretary of New Foundland, has been here for a week or more preparing the way for the negotiation of a fishing treaty between New Foundland and the United States. He has been instructed by the British foreign office and the New Foundland government to submit a proposal to Sir Julian Pauncefote for a tariff arrangement whereby American fishermen may obtain all the bait they want and have all the privileges of trading and selling fish, oil, etc., and getting supplies without other charges than lighthouse dues, etc. In return all he asks is that the produce of New Foundland fisheries and crude minerals from that country, such as copper and iron ore, shall be admitted duty free into the United States.

Affairs in Lisbon.

LISBON, Oct. 13.—The new ministry held a long a conference Saturday and yesterday and concluded it could not accept the financial scheme which the late minister of finance was negotiating with Paris bankers when he resigned. It is still doubtful whether the ministerial crisis is ended.

TO SAVE HER SON.

A Mother Who Bribed a Physician to Testify to Her Son's Insanity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The story of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the widowed mother of a young man awaiting trial in this city on a charge of murder in the first degree, has just been made public. On May 13, Alphonze Heppine shot and killed Clinton Reynolds. Mrs. Heppine employed a well known firm of lawyers to defend her son. Two months afterwards [illegible] these doctors were appointed to examine into the mental condition of young Heppine. The doctors declared the murderer insane. The mother becoming distressed at the continued confinement of her boy in prison, sent friends to Judge Martine, in whose court the young man was being tried. These friends made a statement which has resulted in the arrest of a millionaire contractor and a physician. The charge against the first is grand larceny, and the doctor will be accused of conspiracy. Mrs. Heppine has made affidavits that she first paid $40,000, and then other sums to the contractor, whose name is Linfield, for the purpose of bribing the doctors to say her son was insane. It is alleged that the doctor was paid for his opinion. He arrived last night on the City of Rome from Europe. Linfield asserts he disbursed the money he received from Mrs. Heppine for the object for which she gave it.

STAGE ROBBERY.

A Mere Boy Does the Deed and Is Caught.

UKIAH, Cal., Oct. 13.—The overland stage was robbed last night, 18 miles north of this place. The Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box and the U. S. mail were taken. While the robber was cutting the mails sacks open the driver, McDaniels, snapped his pistol at him but it would not go off. The robber retreated and fired two shots at the driver, neither of which took effect.

The robber was caught at Cloverdale this afternoon. He proved to be a boy about 18 years old, and a stranger in this country. He traveled some 60 miles on foot before he was captured. He succeeded in getting about one hundred dollars from the stage. He has admitted that he committed the crime.

Opposition Will Be Tried—The Jury Says It Was Not Murder—Eastern News.

HARRISON, Pa., Oct. 13.—The people in this and surrounding towns are greatly excited over the strange disappearance of Flora Malloy, aged two and a half years, and remarkably beautiful. Wednesday she was playing by her father's side, while he was standing in front of his residence, in the most thickly populated portion of the town, talking to a friend. When the friend walked away the little one had disappeared. By Wednesday night 300 men were patrolling the woods. The number hourly increased and the search was kept up night and day until to-day there were upwards of 2000 people engaged in looking for the child. The belief is that the child was stolen by Italians.

THE END APPROACHING.

Justice Miller Still Alive But Cannot Recover.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—12 M.—Associate Justice Miller is still alive, but his vitality is becoming exhausted, and his death is momentarily expected. At 11 o'clock this morning the robust form of the justice was lying utterly unconscious, hovering between life and death. Drs. Lincoln and Cooke express surprise at the tenacity with which the patient clings to life. Mrs. Tucalin, daughter of the justice, will arrive in Washington from Omaha to-morrow afternoon, also his neice, Miss Corkhill. Professor Watson, who has charge of the sick room, said this morning that no arrangements for the funeral had yet been considered. The whole matter, he said, would be determined upon at a meeting of the supreme court, after which the family arrangements will be made.

At 3; 10 this afternoon the attendants at Justice Millers bedside reported that he was barely alive.

THE END COMES.

Midnight.—Justice Miller is dead.

Poisoned the Meat.

OZARK, Ala., Oct. 13.—The people of this neighborhood were startled this morning by information that Clayton Lloyd, a farmer, 35 years of age, had last night poisoned his wife and children with rat poison. The poison was placed in meat, and when cooked for dinner the little children partook of it, three of them falling dead at the table. Mrs. Lloyd was taken deathly sick and in a few hours died. The baby breathed its last this morning. Lloyd bears a very unsavory reputation and has been in jail. He wished to wed a young woman in Texas, where he has been for some time, and to accomplish this end he secretly slipped back, ended the life of his wife and children, and then took the train. Lloyd's family have long stood in dread of him. He has on several occasions made threats to kill them. Lloyd was captured last night at Donaldsonville, La., a little station on the Alabama Midland railroad. He arrived here to-day, and threats are made to lynch him.

THE VILE CHINAMEN.

Steal An Indian Woman For Prostitution.

PORT TOWNSEND, Oct. 13.—On arrival here of the steamer Mexico from Alaska to-day, a chinaman named Ah Mon, was arrested by the chief of police, charged with kidnapping Annie, an Indian woman of the Struckee tribe, Fort Wrangle. He was taken before U. S. Commissioner Swan. The evidence produced proved Ah Mon used the woman for the purpose of prostitution on the way down. There were over a hundred chinamen on board. Mon paid the woman's father $20 for her. It was found there is no law covering this case and the chinaman was discharged on payment of costs.

Opposition Tactics.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 13.—The annual convention of the Laundrymen's National Association met in this city to-day with 75 members present from all parts of the country. In his annual address President Doremus, of Chicago, denounced the Chinese and advised the local organizations to starve them out by inducing landlords not to lease rooms to them, and where Chinamen were located to start opposition establishments and take their trade.

BOSTON VS. DAKOTA.

How the Maiden Tamed the Uncultured Cowboy.

St. Paul Pioneer Press.

There were three passengers in the Deadwood stage; a long-legged cowboy, a bespectacled and highly refined old maid from Boston and a man who had nothing to do but listen.

"Yer needn't tell me anything about Injuns," continued the cowboy, replying to a remark of the old maid's. "I've lived with 'em an' seen 'em. They're treacherous filthy critters. I've had their bullets an' their arrows into me, an' I ter they ain't no good Injun but a dead Injun."

"Have you ever read Helen Hunt's 'Romola'?" midly asked the old maid.

"Helen hunted what?" replied the cowboy, with a heavy accent on the what.

"'Romola,' 'Romola,' a book, written by Helen Hunt. Have you never read it?"

"No, I never read Roman, an' if it's anything about Injuns I don't want ter read it. I know how you Eastern folks feels about Injuns. That's because you don't know anything erbout 'em."

After this there was a silence for some time. Finally the Boston lady discovered a hillside covered with yellow flowers. She gazed at them admiringly for a moment, then turning to the centaur, said:

"You are acquainted, I suppose, sir, with the flora fauna of this region?"

"With the who?"

"The flora and fauna."

The cowboy turned to the window, and with a sudden motion of his head and lips, sent a yellow jet of tobacco juice nearly to the straggling fence on the side of the road. He then deliberately crossed his long legs, pulled his slouch hat over his eyes and sank back into a corner of the car. Although the Boston dame addressed him several times afterward, he did not speak another word all the way to Deadwood.

WHO WILL IT BE.

A Daring Stage Robber Is Found To Be A Mere Boy.

ONLY $20 FOR A WOMAN.

Killed By a Runaway Team—Death of Justice Miller—Democrats Nominate Gead Mayor of San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—An article appears in the Washington Gazette stating that the figures for the Dunnell re-apportionment bill were made up at the census office. Dunnell is chairman of the house committee on the eleventh census, and called for these figures early in the count, in order to base the apportionment bill upon them.

"Observe the figures closely," said the clerk, "and you will see that taking the population of several states as returned and alloting a member to every 180,000 inhabitants, it will make it very difficult for the democrats to elect the next president unless the next fall shall demonstrate that the republican line in the west is weakened by the passage of the McKinley bill. For example, the states now called republican, among them California and Iowa, will have an electoral vote of 218, while the states classed as democratic will have but 161 votes. Then there are placed in the doubtful column Connecticut, Indiana, New York and West Virginia. The democrats would have to carry all four of these to elect a president while the republicans would need to carry but one."

SEC. TRACY'S AMBITION.

Will Resign a Cabinet Position to Accept a U. S. Senatorship.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Naval officers who are close to the secretary believe there is a great deal of truth in the rumors connecting his name with the United States senatorship, vice Evarts. This conviction is not based so much on any information they have as to the secretary's aspirations in this direction, as on the reports they receive from personal friends from New York explaining the situation there. This has formed one of the principal topics of private correspondence between the officials of the navy department and their friends in New York during the past week and letters received here have produced one general conclusion that the next senator from New York will be the present secretary of the navy. Were it necessary for Mr. Tracy to leave the navy department at once in order to accept it, he would probably be loath to do so, but as he would not be sworn in as a senator until December, 1891, he could still remain at the head of the navy department another year, by which time work connected with the building up of the navy, so far as this administration is concerned will be completed

BELIEVED HERSELF A DUCK

The Strange Hallucination of an Otherwise Sensible Woman.

A strange hallucination is entertained by Mrs. Josephine Babbitt, the aged mother of Mr. Richard Babbitt, a prominent farmer of Tennessee. She fancies she is a duck and will sit by the hour in a corner of the fence on broken particles of crockery, which she mistakes for eggs. If disturbed she flies out with extended neck and waving arms. The old lady's family are very much mortified and distressed at the absurd delusion she entertains, but are unable to control her in it, for, with the exception of the one hallucination, she is perfectly sane, and even very sensible, so affording no excuse for depriving her of her liberty. It is with difficulty that she can be gotten to leave her nest even at night or to take her meals.

The doctors attribute her affliction to the solitary life she leads, for she has not for the past fifteen years left her home but on two occasions, then but for a day once and a couple of hours on the other. Her friends say they are at a loss to account for the turn her diseased imagination has taken, as she would never keep ducks about her, nor would she ever eat them. Her hallucination seemed to be of a sudden growth, for after retiring one night in apparently good spirits and rational as to mind, she rose early the next morning, awakening her family by a loud quacking, and though she dressed herself with her usual care, proceeded to gather all the broken crockery on the place and to settle herself on it.

If approached with caution and asked any questions in regard to the farm work, etc., she will answer quietly and rationally as long as she suspects no attempts to move her. She has just passed her 71st birthday.
