The Merrill-Abbott combination, which is to be here on Monday and Tuesday evenings, October 20 and 21 promises to be an attraction that will fill the opera house.

Everybody should add their names to the list of subscribers to raise a sufficient sum to guarantee the coming here, and against loss, of the famous emotional actress Clara Morrie.

The event of many years in this city will be the appearance of the greatest of all emotional actresses, Miss Clara Morris and her excellent company. It will not only be a fashionable affair but a treat for people that will perhaps not again have the opportunity of enjoying.

Mayor Cowan's family have had an intelligent and valuable dog called Fay the present of a friend, which on that account and for its own sake, was highly valued Yesterday a passing buggy ran over it, resulting in its death, much to their sorrow.

The appearance in this city of Clara Morris, America's greatest actress, supported by a large and fine company, will be the red letter theatrical event of many seasons. We have never been favored with so famous a star and such an organization, and the house should be crowded to the doors with a large and fashionable audience. She will be here on the evening of October 31.

A pleasant evening party, the first of the season, was recently given at the residence of F. S. Ingram. The music was furnished by D. Hogan and W. H. Looney. Other active parties in making the evening pleasant and successful were George Hoflich, H. Holing and Mr. Wolfgard. The evening was spent in tripping the light fantastic toe, and all were highly pleased.

A MISSING PARTNER.

J. S. Antonelle is Looking Very Anxiously for J. A. Doe, the Railroad Man.

The facts of the following in relation to the firm well known in this city we gleaned from the Oregonian:

There is one less railroad contractor in Portland than there was.

The firm of Antonelle & Doe have been in existence only about two years. Long prior to that Mr. Antonelle had been doing a contracting business. He became acquainted, however, with Mr. Doe, and as Doe's father-in-law, Mr. J. D. Kennedy, of San Francisco, was a man with no end of money, being president of a large lumber company, Mr. Antonelle took advantage of Mr. Kennedy's proposition to go upon his (Antonelle's) bond for quite a large sum. Then Kennedy suggested that Doe be taken in as a partner. So the firm of Antonelle & Doe came into existence, but it is now threatened with dissolution.

The affairs of the firm are not in very good shape, as Antonelle has been sick, and has trusted to Doe the management of the accounts. Antonelle & Doe contracted for the La Grande extension of the Union Pacific to Elgin, and Mr. Antonelle thinks a profit on the deal should easily enough have been declared of $25,000. The contract price was $82,000, and Doe's books show and expenditure of only $28,000. Then there is the San Francisco sea-wall contract, the exact amount of which is not known. The authorities have, however, held back $30,000 on it as a small portion to insure certain corrections. Then there is $39,000 due on the City Hall contract. More than this, Mr. Doe has sold a contractor's plant which Mr. Antonelle bought for $12,000, for $2000. There has also been considerable extra work done on the La Grande-Elgin line, not originally contracted for, but amounting to $15,000.

So that, take it altogether, Mr. Antonelle is anxious to meet his partner and force a settlement from him. Doe has a family in San Francisco, where he is well known.

The above statements in the case are substantially those made by Antonelle to his attorneys yesterday. Antonelle could not be seen by a reporter. He left on the six o'clock train last evening for San Francisco. Antonelle claims that Doe has drawn a large sum of money due the firm from the railroad office, and has gone away. Doe, he thinks, left Portland for San Francisco last Saturday.

A WONDERFUL ARRAY.

New Goods In Quantities To Suit the Most Fastidious.

In the matters of extent and quantity, Mr. W. R. Graham, Merchant Tailor, has just received a stock of elegant suiting goods that is simply unsurpassed. They embody both English and American manufacture of all wool cloths that are simply superb, and will work up into suits of the very best and most fashionable make to be had anywhere.

The goods are in almost endless variety of style and pattern, so that the taste of every individual can be exactly met. Lovers of handsome goods can receive a great treat to go and examine these just for the sake of seeing them. They were purchased and shipped before the McKinley bill went into operation, so that no extra tariff charges will be added.

Under Sentence.

The murderers of the Fredrickson in Pacific county Washington, last year, who are now under sentence of death at Oysterville, are said to be quite cheerful. The trio look to be in remarkably good health and are quite fat, appearing as though no cares or worries ever came to their mind. Edwards, who is the best looking of the three is a man nearly six feet in height, with a full black beard, slight tinged with gray. He uses good language when conversing and is quite a ready talker. It is said he devotes all of his time in writing a history of his life. Gibbons is a very large man weighing fully 200 pounds, and has a rougher appearance although not appearing to be a man who is steeped in crime. Rose and Gibbons seem to be quite cheerful and do not appear at all cast down with there impending fate.

Build Cottages.

Hundreds of desirable dwelling houses could probably be rented, without trouble, in this city, if they were in existence. And what better investment could be made than to erect cottages and rent them to those who are seeking homes here. They could not fail to meet with a lively demand at highly renumerative figures. The investors in that kind of property would realize a handsome dividend, besides helping materially in advancing the interests of the city. Build more houses at once.

THE BENEFITS OF IRRIGATION.

Barren Areas in Eastern Oregon Could Be Made Very Productive.

William Ham. Hall, ex-state engineer of California and late supervising engineer of the United States irrigation survey, was in Portland Monday. In regard to irrigation schemes in Eastern Oregon, Mr. Hall expressed himself very plainly, and as he is the best authority on irrigation on this coast, his opinions are worth consideration:

"There are," Mr. Hall said, "six good irrigation enterprises in Eastern Oregon and possibly ten or twelve which are entirely feasible, and with the co-operation and sympathy of the people, they could be carried out, rendering fertile from 50,000 to 100,000 acres of land each, which is now non-producing or yielding only a fifth of the crop that could be obtained with water.

"A curious state of affairs, however, exists. It requires both organized enterprise and a basis of credit to construct any of these systems of irrigation, and a direct outlay of from $500,000, to $1,000,000 in each case. This amount of outside capital invested in a district should of itself be a great consideration. Then the land, which at present is worth $1 25 per acre, would be worth $50. Lands which are barren now, with plenty of water would produce 40 or 50 bushels of wheat per acre.

"It would naturally be supposed that the people of Eastern Oregon would be anxious to encourage and co-operate with irrigation companies. In California irrigation districts, landowners are willing to pay from $5 to $15 per acre as a bonus, and a yearly rental of from $2.50 to $4.00. They have learned the value of water and freely pay the rates. But the people of this state seem to think they can enjoy all the privileges of irrigation without sharing any of the costs.

"The Baker valley irrigation scheme is to irrigate 90,000 acres of land from a ditch to be supplied by the Powder river. A dam 137 feet high will be built across the river damming up the waters over an area of 1600 acres. There will be between 50,000 and 60,000 acres of otherwise poor land thus irrigated and rendered capable of producing prolific crops. The scheme is in the hands of responsible parties and is entirely feasible. The company has as yet asked for no bonus, but a contract of $2 per acre water rate per year for the land thus benefitted. Although the requirements are so reasonable the people show great unwillingness to co-operate, and if this policy on the part of the farmers is continued the scheme is likely to fall through. The leading papers of this state can best benefit the people, particularly of the eastern portion of the state, by educating them on the benefits accruing from irrigation.

"In Washington the Northern Pacific railway company is taking steps to irrigate the North Yakima valley, a district known as Sunnyside, and comprising 100,000 acres on the Lower Yakima. The waters of four lakes, with a drainage area of 18 square miles, will be stored, and distributed by canal 130 miles in length, which are now being located. The water will cover the area to be irrigated to a depth of four feet. Half of this land belongs to the Northern Pacific Railway Company."

Girl Chosen for a Leader.

During the revolution in Buenos Ayres a young girl named Eufrasia Catral played an important part. She showed an immense amount courage, and was chosen by an operative society as their leader during the demonstrations of joy at the fall of Celman. The girl, who has a slender yet powerful figure, beautiful face, and dark curling hair, was dressed in white, with a red scarf, and rode in a triumphal car decorated with flags and flowers, and answered the applause of the crowd by gently waving a branch of palm. When the procession reached the principal square the car stopped, and the youthful patriot made a speech, pointing out the importance of the demonstration, and crying, "Long live the Republic!" The enthusiastic crowd took the horses out of the car, and it was dragged by a number of young men to the meeting house of the union, where the girl was forced to speak once more. She is now considered the "first citizeness" of Buenos Ayres.

A Matter of Interest.

The proceedings of all county commissioners' courts, and other county financial business should be thoroughly known by the people, so that all shall be properly posted in regard to them, and prepared to act at the proper time when necessary. The only way to effect this object is to have the proceedings of the commissioners meeting published in full in the newspapers. To do this an act of the legislature should empower the counties to advertise in the papers, and the proceedings should be published in full. The cost would be trifling and the advantages would be many. It is a matter that the incoming legislators should look up and be prepared before hand, to start the ball a rolling in a shape to make the law sure of a passage.

An Indication.

One of the pointers as to the business growth and prosperity, is the fact that there is not a vacant house in the city, and every available room, for family use, is engaged. People are constantly seeking dwelling houses, and many more would move here if they could procure places to live in. We are informed that a gentleman from Seattle shipped his goods here with the intention of remaining but being unable to find a residence returned to Seattle without taking his goods from the depot. This shows that the business of the city is constantly increasing.

Good Pure Water.

The most essential article to promote good health is good, pure water. It is a well known fact, of course, that no water, in its natural state, can be absolutely pure, but in cities it is impossible to get the natural water that is even relatively pure. The only recourse then is to use artificial means to purify the water. A filter is the best and only economical means of accomplishing this end. There is no question upon this point whatever, and our enterprising merchants, Messrs. Smith & Senders, deserve great credit for taking up the famous Pasteur filter, which is acknowledged to be the best in the world. Its use gives absolute purity of water.
