Let the Appropriation Be Sufficient

The question of how much money ought to be appropriated by the legislature for the purpose of making an Oregon exhibit of decent proportations at the Columbian exposition to be held at Chicago is being pretty generally discussed by the press of the state. Just the amount needed we are not able to judge, but by all means let the appropriation be sufficient to make a showing for the state that when Oregonians attend the fair they will be proud to name the state from which they have gone. —Newberg Graphic.

THE SANTIAM MINES.

The Work Progresses And Every Prospect Pleases.

As was mentioned in our report previously made, Mr. Frank Reed staid at the mines until yesterday, to get the result of the first work of the mill. That result is highly gratifying and realizes in the fullest the expectations of the owners. The superintendant of the mill came out with Mr. Reed, and will return in a few days with the remainder of the supplies for a all winter's run.

Just as soon as the 1000 foot tramway is completed that run will be commenced and the music of the stamps—of course barring accident—will not cease, night or day, until spring.

The company are already talking of putting in a thirty thousand dollar plant for work in the spring, and are confident that they can clean up enough from the work through the winter to pay for the large plant.

This means a great deal for Albany, and means employment and prosperity for many men. All success to the Santiam mines and all success to the men who have overcome obstacles and finally put them in running and paying shape. And please bear in mind that it is Albany men who have done this.

Prune Growing and Irrigation.

The following new incorporations filed articles with the secretary of state yesterday as follows:

The Corvallis and Benton Co. Prune Co., with E. R. Lake, Robt. Johnson, J. R. Markley, S. M. Stock and M. S. Neugass as the incorporators. The objects in which this incorporation intend to engage is, 1st, the purchasing, bonding, leasing, and selling of lands, upon which to cultivate prunes and such other fruits; the purchasing of prune and such other fruit trees, and for the planting, cultivation and caring for such trees; the owning, holding and disposing of said property, etc. Corvallis is the place for the principal office, and the capital stock is fixed at $18,000 divided into 150 shares.

Hill's Cemetery Association of Gaston, Oregon. The estimated value of property is $5000. A. Hill, Newton J. Walker and John F. Wilcox are the trustees and incorporators.

Commonwealth Investment and Banking company, Portland being he place of business. The capital stock is $50,000, divided into 500 shares. J. P. Marshall, Eugene D. White, J. W. Hill, A. H. Tanner and others being the incorporators.

Samuel P. Sturgis, C. H. Leadbetter and Samuel Rothchild, of Umatilla county, have associated themselves together and formed the Umatilla Irrigation Company, the capital stock being $1,000,000, divided into 70,000 shares, and the principal place of business being Pendleton. The object of the company is to irrigate lands in the vicinity of Pendleton with water from the storage reservoirs and otherwise and for power purposes. Surveyors are to go into the field at once to make preliminary surveys to demonstrate the practicability of the scheme, and estimate its cost. The people of Pendleton and the country tributary would receive great benefit from the success of this company. It is thought that as much as 2000 horse power can be put on the hills above Pendleton for the use of the manufacturing enterprises located there. This alone means a great deal for Pendleton. In case the company carries on its present intentions, as much as 100,000 acres of land north and west of Pendleton will be irrigated and made to "blossom as the rose." This will be of incalculable benefit to Umatilla county.—Salem Statesman.

That Baby Home.

The Oregonian sizes up the East Portland Baby Home as follows: "The grand jury report upon the East Portland Baby Home probablp exhauts the powers of that body in the matter, but it comes to nothing practically. The grand jury finds that the charges made against the institution; that it is badly housed, poorly equipped and loosely managed, though conducted with the best intentions, are founded and points out that certain things ought to be done. The institution ought to be placed under control of the county court; books ought to be kept; burial certificates ought to be required, and so on. This is very true; but the judgment of the grand jury that these things ought to be done brings us no nearer doing them. The county court has business enough without taking personal supervision of the Baby Home, and personal supervision is what it needs The facts is that neither the county nor the state has the proper machinery to control institutions of this kind. This whole incident reveals the urgent need of a state board of charities and corrections."

The New County.

The Times-Mountaineer says a mass meeting was held in Antelope on the 65th for the purpose of taking steps towards asking the next legislature to create a new county out of Wasco and a small strip of Crook county. It is thought that Sherman county will figure on extending their boundary about twelve miles south.

SAMUEL E. YOUNG.

IN MEMORIAM.

At a regular session of the Ladies Missionary Society, of the 1st Presbyterian Church of Albany, Ogn, held Oct. 25, 1890, it was unanimously voted to draw up resolutions of condolence in memory of Mrs Helen C. Simpson.

WHEREAS Our heavenly Father in his wise Providence has called to her rest, after a season of suffering our sister Helen C. Simpson, therefore be it

Resolved That this society has lost a dear sister, who from its incipiency has been an earnest worker in the cause of Missions longing to build up the Master's kingdom in the hearts of those with whom she was brought in contact. The daily conversation of this "Mother in Israel," is a lasting example to us that "The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

Resolved, That we extend our sympathies to the sorrowing and bereaved children, brothers and sisters in their affliction and commend them to, "Our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel."

"For He himself hath told thee
Of tribulation here;
Be still and let Him mould thee
For changeless glory there."

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Society a copy furnished to the friends of the deceased and a copy to each of the papers for publication.

CLARA MORRIS, TO-NIGHT.

The Great Actress Will Play Camille. One of Her Best Pieces.

A large number of seats have been reserved for "Camille" tonight, so that Miss Morris will make her debut in Albany before a large and fashionable audience. Only rarely is the opportunity presented to see so great an artist, and it is anticipated that a notable gathering will witness her performances of "Camille," Miss Morris possesses an element of success that few people can ever attain. She unites art and heart. In her both are blended, and where one controls the other assists. Greatness is not a word great enough to describe Clara Morris. She is matchless, indescribably grand. Possessed of the grace of the late Matilda Heron, and the fire and soul of Bernhardt, she has other feelings of grandeur that either of those named or both could never attain. She absorbs herself in her work. It was Camille, not Clara Morris, that suffered and sighed and raved and died. She is as completely lost to her own personality on the stage as if nature for the time being had deprived her of reason. Hence her power. She is so natural and easy in the portrayal of character that it is almost impossible to believe that she is a mere artiste. The lowering of the curtain only reminds people that they are in a theatre, and that they are weeping for artificial woe. But is Clara Morris' woe artificial? Surely not. Her tears are as genuine as ever crept from the fountain of a saddened heart. Criticism of her acting would only be absurd. She is away beyond criticism, and the critics of the future have to adopt her as a standard. Her voice, her manner, her actions are simply the exquisitiveness of perfection, and it is only to be regretted that her art and heart cannot live forever. Reserve your seats at Will & Link before they are all taken.

REMARKABLE GENIUS.

Has Hatched Out How To Accomplish An Object Without Work.

Astoria wants a railroad and wants it badly, and is bound to have it. The Astorian relates how they have decided to get it without work:

"I'll tell you" said a prominent citizen, one of a group discussing the railroad situation, "I'll tell you how to get a railroad." "How?" interjected several of the party.

"Make the legislature pave the way." The gentleman then went on and unfolded a plan, which if opposition of the Union and Northern Pacific can be staved off would doubtless prove successful.

The gentleman's idea is to have the legislature pass a law similar to the one introduced a few sessions ago, which provided that one railroad shall have the right of way over the track of another company upon payment of a fair pro rata of the earnings, to be fixed by the state board of railroad commissioners.

That is to say. If a road was built from this city to Hunters, the cars of the Astoria company would have the right of way to be run over the tracks of the Northern Pacific into Portland; thence on and to any part of the state the cars could be run over any line to any point of destination, subject, of course, to the orders of the train dispatcher on the connecting lines.

The plan is a simple one and the gentleman predicted that if such a law could be passed through the legislature, a line of railroad from this city to Hunters would be built within three months after the bill had been signed by the governor.

A Compliment.

The handsome majority received by Judge W. G. Piper as a district judge in his new home in Idaho is a deserved compliment to a talented gentleman, and will the subject of cangratulation from his many friends in this city and Salem, where he has formerly resided.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

To the honorable circuit court of Linn county, we the grand jury for the county of Linn, and state of Oregon, for the regular October term of the circuit court of the state of Oregon, county of Linn, respectfully submit the following report of their examination of the public premises and offices, pertaining to the courts of justice in said county, to-wit:

First, We visited the county jail and found the same in fair condition.

We also visited the sheriff's, clerk's, recorder's, treasurer's and school superintendent's offices and found them in fair condition, and the books and records properly kept and in fair condition.

We, the undersigned, respectfully recommend that the entire court house of said county be furnished with electric lights, with a meter.

We further recommend that a new set of township maps, in book form, for the recorder's office be purchased, as the old maps are out of date and badly won and unfit for use and a disgrace to the county.

We further recommend that the clerk and recorder of said county be authorized to purchase any and all necessary books for their offices.

Respectfully submitted this 30th day of October, A. D., 1890.

MORE BURGLARIES.

H. C. Clement's House Ransacked—Criminals Getting Thick.

The Tacoma News says: "Each day now brings forth its tales of burglaries that occurred the preceding night, and it begins to look as if there was an organized band of burglars in the city who have grown over bold through their success in eluding capture. On Sunday night the residence of H. C. Clement on south C street was entered, but the burglar was scared off with a shot from a Winchester rifle before he secured anything.

On the same evening the residence of A. F. Elliott at 619 north second street was also entered and the house ransacked and a few articles taken.

Early yesterday morning as Councilman McGoldrick was driving from his home to his mill, two men attempted to stop him, but by a liberal use of the whip he succeeded in getting by them."

Mr. Clement used to be a resident of Albany.

A Hardship.

The Salem Journal says: James Beaty, living down by Lake Labish owns a barn which he has rented to a neighbor and in which the neighbor's horses were kept. These horses were taken sick and the stock inspector decided one of them had nasal gleet and he was condemned and shot. The barn was also condemned and oders given by the stock inspector that it be not used again. It is quite a good building and Mr. Beaty now needs the use of it, but what to do he does not know. It seems as if their ought to be some way of disinfecting or fumigating a barn so that there would be no danger of using it again and not cause a loss and inconvenience. Mr. Beaty does not think the horse which was condemned from there had anything worse than a bad cold, anyhow, and feels perfectly safe in using the barn if he were allowed to so. The state live stock commission should adopt some particular form of disinfecting to be observed that would allow a poor man the use of his barn. The present system works a hardship.

He Saved the Fly.

Forest and Stream.

Captain ——, of the Royal Artillery, says he was salmon-fishing on the southwest Miramichi, above Boisetown. In an unlucky and unguarded moment, as he was rather hastily swinging around his salmon-rod, preparatory to casting, his large hook caught in the thin part of an ear of T. P. one of the captain's men, who, as ardent and a better fisherman than his master, was intently watching the motions of a large salmon which the captain was endeavoring to secure. Seizing the line with both hands so as to save his ear as far as possible, T. P. walked slowly up to his master to be relieved from the hook. "Break it off. captain; break it off!" said one of the party. "No, no," said the captain "I am going to do no such thing. Would you have me destroy my best fly?" And so quickly taking a sharp penknife out of his pocket and slitting the lobe of his servant's ear, he thus safely removed the favorite fly uninjured The story was related to me by the sufferer, who bore on his body confirmatory evidence of the truth of his statement.

A Ripe Old Age.

J. H. Hol[illegible] and [illegible]fe, of [illegible]elcherville, [illegible]s, have celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary, a[illegible] still hale and hearty. The s[illegible] of their long ife and good he[illegible] is that they correct any sligh[illegible]ent promptly, and in that wa[illegible] avoid serious sickness. Like most every one else, they are more frequently troubled with constipation than any other physical disorder. To correct this they take St. Patrick's Pills in preference to any other, because, as Mr. Holcomb says, "They are a mild pill and, besides keep the whole system in good order. We prize them very highly." For sale by Foshay & Mason. Druggists.
