The "Hearts of Oak" Co., carrying two(2) complete sets of scenery will enable them to produce the play with all its spectacular effects, the same as during its long run at the Fifth Avenue theatre, New York City.

Last Friday the train to the front on the Oregon Pacific found a broken bridge just above Lyons, the result of the falling of a tree which perversely concluded to cross the track the accident delayed the train about five hours.

No word has yet been received from the woman who disappeared on the overland train the other evening. It is to be hoped that she had more reason for leaving than the Minnesota husband who gave the alarm that his wife had mysteriously disappeared and 400 people turned out to search for her. After eighteen hours' of search she was found in her own bed, where she had retired to sulk because her husband said the potatoes weren't done enough.

"Hearts of Oak" at the opera house to-night will be one of the events of the season. The play was first produced at the California theatre twelve years ago, and strange as it may seem, there are still remaining three of the original caste; the author, Mr. James A. Herne, still playing "Terry Dennison," also Mr. Chas. H. Clark and Mr. Cheppindale, retaining their original roles of "Uncle Davy" and "Owen Garraway" Miss Marion Abbott, now playing the big Crystal, for a long time assumed the part of "Little Crystal." The baby has to be changed every season, as they will grow, but each season seems to bring a little one fully as cute as the former.

Wasco County Levy.

The Times-Mountaineer says: We are informed by the assessor that the valuation of taxable property is nearly two million and a half this year in comparison with $2,600,000 last year. This is a very good showing, considering the heavy loss last winter and the failure of crops the fall previous. The commissioners are well pleased, and very likely will not increase the tax levy.

MINING CLAIMS.

Further in Regard to the Santiam District.

Mr. J. W. Gardiner resumes the description of the mining claims in the Santiam district:

The Golden City mining company was organized July 23, 1889; place of business, Albany; field of operation, the Santiam mining district; board of directors, E. J. Lanning, E. R. Barker, H. W. Giddings, A. D. Barker, B. H. Barker, Geo. P. Harris, L. H. Montanye. Officers: E. J. Lanning, president; E. R. Barker, vice-president; L. H. Montanye, secretary.

This organization was made to work the following claims on Canal Fork mountain: G. B., King Solomon, Mountain Lion, Mountain Lynx, Silver King, Champion, Mascot, Yellow Jacket, Bull of Cedar and Little Mary. The G. B. and King Solomon claims having the greatest amount of development work done at this time. The G. B. has a tunnel 100 feet, running a cross formation to the ledge, at the end of which there is a hollow sounding, indicating an immense deposit of soft ore, which they will soon cut into. This is regarded as very fine property.

THE KING SOLOMON.

The development here consists of open cuts, shallow shafts, which has already proved the ledge to be immense valne, as it is a large ledge 40 feet wide. Considerable prospecting has been done on the other claims belonging to this company, showing them to be valuable.

THE MAMMOTH.

For several years this property was worked, and a great deal of gold taken off, then in the mill $40,000 was taken out from the ore extracted from one small stone alone. The old workings comprise 12 or 15 hundred of square work, besides what stoping was done. The new tunnel is now in 500 odd feet, 100 feet more is supposed will cut the ledge, which is a large strong one. A contract is now let, and the men are working on it. This is property of a Portland company.

THE PORTLAND

Mine in the Portland gulch is still in good shape, the tunnels is 100 feet, and valued at $50 a ton or more. This property belongs to a Portland company.

THE WHITE ELEPHANT

Was located Aug. 4, 1888, by J. McChesney, D. P. Donley, and C. E. Brownell. This is a strong ledge of $30 to $50 ore.

THE ECLIPSE

Was located Aug. 4, 1888, by J. McChesney, D. P. Donley and C. E. Brownell. The work here shows the same kind of ore as the other.

THE LEADVILLE

Was located by H. McChesney, A. Brownell and N. A. Chambers. Here is one of the finest prospects that we have been able to find in the Portland gulch, 55 per cent. lead, 50 ounces silver and $10 gold.

THE GRAY EAGLE

Was located Aug. 4, 1888, by C. E. Brownell, N. A. Chambers, and J. McChesney; a good showing here.

At another time we will write something more about the prospects in Canal Fork mountain.

Over the Line Fence.

Tuesday last a man named Huber, and Henry Johnson, living on adjoining farms just over the line, in Columbia county, had a dispute as to the pasture of a piece of land, says the Hillsboro Independent. Johnson was seriously though not fatally shot by Huber, on approaching the latter in a threatening attitude. The bullet penetrated the flesh below the middle of the right collar bone. Huber came to Hillsboro on Tuesday and gave himself up, and he was placed under $300 bonds for his appearance here next week when he will have a preliminary hearing.

Grand Ball.

Arrangements are being made for a grand ball to be given by the Albany fire department at the opera house on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 27th, the proceeds to go towards buying two fire extinguishers for the Rescue Hook and Ladder truck. Everybody should be interested in this as the extinguishers are a great benefit in taking care of small fires. Come one, come all.

Obituary.

Another one of Linn county early settlers passed away on Nov. 9, 1890, at the age of 74 years and 4 months. James G. Jurkins was born in Ohio and moved to Oregon with the tide of 1852, and secured a donation claim adjoining Rev. S. G. Irvine's place at Oakville. He served in the war in Captain Waters' company from this county. The funeral was attended yesterday at Oakville, conducted by Dr. Irvine.

A Preacher in Trouble.

It is reported from Milton, Oregon, that quite an exciting scene occurred there on Wednesday. It seems that the Methodist minister of Milton, Rev. A. C. Spencer, has for some time been occupying the editorial chair of the local newspaper, and his scriptures upon certain local events have created some discord among the citizens. On Wednesday, as our informant states, a gentleman named Bailey met Rev. Spencer on the street and a discussion ensued which resulted in a quarrel. The lie was passed and Bailey countered upon the reverend gentleman's nose. The constable interfered at this juncture and further trouble was prevented.

A Railway Rumor.

The Astorian says that Huntington's plan is to connect with the Central Pacific road in Nevada near Winnemucca, then come through Pengra pass into Oregon, strike the main line of the Southern Pacific at or near Springfield or Eugene, thence use the Albany & Astoria road and thus reach this city. This is not all rumor, either, as active work on the former is in progress, and there is no doubt that Huntington will have a connection from the Central lead into Oregon and if so, the balance of the of the programme may yet be carried out as above stated.

A Kick on Short-Weight Butter.

Pendleton grocerymen, also their customers, are kicking. It appears that the honest farmer who sells butter frequently makes his rolls considerably under weight in order to more quickly pay off his mortgage. Two-pound rolls are found to weigh one and one-half or one and three-quarters pounds, and the one pound rolls are equally deceptive. The dealers say they are willing to pay good prices for butter, but want to receive all they pay for.

Three States Firm.

Seattle Times: California, Oregon and Washington are to be congratulated as being the only states that have stood firmly to republican principals, and by their votes have shown they are in favor of protection to American industries. In a little while, when this great question is more fully understood by the masses, the old strongholds will fall again into line and stay there.

Familiar Names.

U. S. Grant, postmaster at Dallas. Oregon, says that George Washington, of that place. has skipped out to parts unknown. George should have had more respect for the father of his country than to throw such a stigma on the familiar name of George Washington. The assistant postmaster at Dallas is Miss Nellie Grant.—Salem Journal.

All the Same in Albany.

The Free Press says that it don't know how it is elsewhere, but so far as Detroit is concerned the golden autumn leaf has not been a success. It has simply been a yallow, sun-baked, frizzled leaf with a bug on it, and the tramp has come along and offered to rake it into the gutter for ten cents a bushel.

Ladies Aid Society.

An entertainment will be given by the Albany Ladies Aid Society, at the opera house on Wednesday evening, Nov. 26. The principal feature of the evening will be the appearance of the Peak Sisters, but many other pleasing attractions will be added. The proceeds will be applied towards the building of the Orphans Hom.

Uncle Samuel's Work.

The Oregonian says: "Major Handbury, United States engineers, has returned from a trip down the Columbia. He visited the jetty to inspect the progress of work there. Nothing is being done in the way of extending the jetty. Six weeks of fine weather was wasted, while the plant lay idle and the men waited for the appropriation bill to be passed, and so no rock was put in alongside the last piles driven at the tramway to steady them, and since work was begun there has been considerable rough weather and it has not qeen practical to put the piledriver at work. The work of depositing rock along the jetty has been going on vigorously, and about 15,000 tons were put in during October. It is carried out as far as possible, but sometimes it is so rough that the waves break over the tramway and the trains cannot go out near the end. It is so late that no attempt will be made to extend the tramway this fall, but piles are being got ready and work will be begun about next April, and the tramway will be completed during the summer. The channel is deepening, and the sand is filling in on the south side of the jetty clear out to the end, and the sands are bare for miles there at half tide, and before long the sand will have filled in and made dry land here. The channel is so deep that steamers wait outside for low water, and come into the flood tide to avoid the strength of the current out. Vessels drawing twenty-six feet or even more should have no trouble in crossing out. While down the river Major Handbury made preliminary examinations of Deep river, Gray's river, Crooked creek, Lewis and Clarke river and Skamokaway slough, all of which are on the list of a survey. Some were found to be worthy of improvement by the government, and some were not. The party making the hydrographic survey of the Lower Columbia, to furnish data for the project for a twenty-five-foot channel at low water from Portland to the sea, are getting along well with their work, and the project and estimates will be ready long before the necessary appropriation can be secured." That is all good, and what about the work upon the Willamette to Portland. Is there any stir in that direction? Yet during the season of low water is just the proper time to do that work. We should be up and doing,

Where the Piers Are.

In regard to the present condition of the Salem bridge the Statesman says: The work of blasting off the excess weight of the big central pier has been completed and the boring has commenced on the holes in which the cylinders are to set. The concrete for this pier rises seventeen feet above the grillage. The holes in which the cylinders will be placed are to be three feet deep, and eight feet around. The cylinders will be fifty-eight feet long—fifty-five feet above the surface of the concrete base. And at the bottom of this three foot hole there will be drilled a hole of a foot or two, into which the concrete for the cylinders will extend, uniting in a firm manner the cylinders and the tops of the concrete pier. On the second pier the blasting has commenced, and this column will also be ready in a few days for the reception of the cylinders. As in the case of the first pier, the concrete that is removed will serve as a great protection to the grillage.

A Souvenir.

For the small sum of two dollars and a quarter, John Evenden became posessed of a piece of property, one day last week, that he would not part with for several times its cost. It is an old flint-lock fowling piece, which Uncle Tim Fletcher was offering at auction with a lot of household goods, and it occurred to Mr. E. that he would like to possess it as a curio. It is a gun of foreign manufacture, quite unique and elaborately finished, the trimmings being of brass and ornamented with engraved figures of deer and hounds and other forms. The top of the breech has an inscription inlaid silver as follows: G. AICHLINCER SABARIAR. It is evidently a piece of considerable antiquity, but is in an excellent state of preservation. —McMinnville Reporter.

An Aged Coin.

While Mr. A. P. Fletcher was plowing on his farm about a mile and a half south of town, one day this week, he plowed up an old Spanish silver dollar that had the date 1784 on it. The coin was considerably rusted and bore evidence of being in the ground a number of years. In the early days the old military line was through this field, and people coming from the south to Lafayette, traveled on that trail altogether, and forded the falls at this place. There being no bridges or ferry boats, people were compelled to ford the river to get to Lafayette. The coin must have been lost on the trail in the fifties —Lafayette Ledger.

Boring for a Water Supply.

Mr. Thomas Corbett, who is boring a well in search of oil at Drain, says the well is down 500 feet, through a formation of slate and sand. It is intended to bore down 1500 feet before giving it up for a bad job. Mr. Corbett, who bored oil wells for twelve years in the Pennsylvania oil regions, says he has never seen anything look so favorable for oil outside of Pennsylvania as the well at Drain.

MEN AND WOMEN.

The Chicago Post says that "Nellie Bly, the young woman who made the circuit of the globe for a New York daily newspaper, is to marry and settle down to a quiet life."

Ex-Secretary Whitney is 49 years old. His father was collector of Boston under Buchanan. Although a democrat, it was his vote in the Massachusetts legislature that first elected Sumner as United States senator in 1851.

Lady Annie Blunt, granddaughter of Lord Byron, has given up the conventional life of England, and with her husband and little daughter is located on the border of the Egyptian desert, a few miles fron Cairo. Her house is a tent, and she has adopted the dress and customs of the Arab.

William K. and Cornelius Vanderbilt are both slim, tall and athletic men. Their faces are ruddy with the hue of health, their eyes are clear and they are quick and rather nervous in their movements.

King William of Holland, who is now tottering on the brink of the grave, is 73 years old. It is said of him that no monarch of the present century has given rise to so much scandal as William, although his public life has been above reqroach.

The wife of Speaker Reed, alongside of her big husband, looks like a little girl. She is well endowed with mental qualities. Mrs. Reed's maiden name was Susan Merrill, and she was born in Center Harbor, Maine. Her father, Rev. S. H. Merrill, was an eloquent minister of the Congregational church in that section of New England. Previous to her marriage she taught school for several terms. The only child of Mr. and Mrs. Reed is Catherine, a girl of 15. The Reeds have one of the handsomest houses in Portland, and at Washington they live at the Shoreham.

Another Railroad Rumor.

Engineers are now engaged in surveying down the north bank of the Columbia, and have already gone over the line between the Cowlitz river and Oak point, says the Astorian. It is supposed that they are coming down by Knappton and Frankfort. As some of them are known to have been in the employ of the Union Pacific, it is reasonably supposed that the survey is being made for that corporation, evidently with a view to the construction of a railroad down the river on the north bank.

Teachers Examination.

Notice is hereby given that the regular public examination of teachers for Linn county will take place in Albany, commencing at 1 o'clock on Wednesday, Nov. 26, 1890. All teachers desiring examination will please be present at the beginning. Teachers desiring state certificates should present their recommendations from district boards at the above time.
