THE KOCH REMEDY.

The Stock Market Continues to Fluctuate.

JOHN BULL ON THE TARIFF.

Methodist Missionary Work—World's Fair Jealous Committee—Birchell Hanged—Base Ball.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Prof. Koch publishes an article in the Deutche Medizinische Wochenschrift on the cure of tuberculosis. Prof. Koch says he is yet unprepared to indicate the source from which the curative matter is derived and the method of its preparation, for the reason that experiment work is still in progress. The Lymph is described as consisting of a brownish transparent liquid, so prepared as to be proof against deterioration when diluted with water for use. The matter is liable to decay, and it necessary therefore, that the attenuation be perfectly sterlized by heat and preserved in a wadding covering or prepared with a solution of phenol, sixty per cent strong. When taken into the system much a curative matter proves to have effect, and it must be applied subcutaneously by means of a valveless syringe, which should be rinsed absolutely clean with alcohol, and kept in perfect aseptic condition.

Twenty-five hundredths of a cubic centimetre of it intensely affected a healthy man who was subjected to an experiment, while two cubic centimentres applied to a guinea pig had little effect. Prof. Koch injected twenty-five hundredths of a cubic centimetre under the skin of his own arm and within a few hours experienced a contraction of the limbs and a marked feeling of lassitude. At the same time he felt a desire to cough, together with a difficulty in breathing. These symptoms increased rapidly and in five hours he experienced an unusually violent rigor, accompanied with nausea and the temperature of the body rose rapidly. After twelve hours the symptons began to abate and the next day his body resumed its normal degree. The heaviness of limbs and a languid feeling continued for several days however.

The same results follow when the fluid is applied to diseased persons suffering from other than tuberculosis affections, but in persons affected with tuberculosis the same quantity produces a strong, general and local reaction. It is asserted with confidence that the remedy may be considered an indispensible auxiliary to diagnosis and in doubtful cases incipient consumption can be positively diagnosed by its use.

Prof. Koch expressed the opinion that his remedy will certainly prove a cure for incipient consumption. Whether, however, the cure will be final and definite is not clearly proven.

THE STOCK MARKET.

It Continues to Fluctuate Very Precipitately.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The stock market to-day is much less active than for a week past, the general list being comparatively dull, with small fluctuations and practically devoid of any feature. There was, however, no lack of animation on behalf of a dozen or more of the leading stocks, and their fluctuations were as large as usual, the prevailing tendency being downward. The cause of the renewal of the uneasiness was found this morning in the dispatches from abroad, which reflected a less confident tone and indicated that the squeeze for money on the other side was by no means over. Here money, telegraphed from San Francisco, aggregating $1,500,000, gave a much easier tone to the money market.

THE ENGLISH OF IT.

That Blasted Tariff is Ruinating Everybody You Know.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Sir Lyon Playfair, in a speech at Leeds last night dwelt at great length upon the tariff police of the United States. He cited a host of statistics to show that the consumer always paid the extra duty. The effects of tariff will be disastrous to American agriculture. He declared Canada will be able to supply Great Britain with all the food she now gets from the United States, if Canada would reconstruct her tariff on revenue principles. Europe and Asia would contribute to her future commercial prosperity. Referring to the meat inspection bill of America, he declared impowering of the president to "boycott" nations, was an act unworthy of a great nation. The Boycott has never hitherto been recognized by international law.

Missionary Work.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—At a Methodist missionary convention to-day a number of appropriations were made: For China, $108,000, Malaysia, $8,000, Bulgaria, $19,000. For work in Italy $50,000 was voted.

WORLD'S FAIR BUSINESS.

It Is Not All Fair Sailing Among the Committee.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—With the approach of the next world's fair commission rumors of trouble ahead are numerous. Director General Davis feels he has been slighted by the local directory. It was his understanding that he should have the appointment of his sub-chiefs, but the directory has already appointed two of them without consulting him. Opposition to the scheme of the local directory to place three or more fine buildings on the lake front is growing rapidly. At a subsequent meeting the meeting of the national committee on buildings and grounds several commissioners asserted that the national board would insist that there be no more than two buildings erected on the lake front. President Palmer said on the subject, "I shall resign if the plan outlined at a recent meeting of the local directory is insisted upon.

All the Victims of the Late Disaster Getting Well.

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.— Speaking to-day about the condition of those who were injured in Wednesday's railroad accident at Lake Labish Dr. Cardwell said: "They are all doing nicely, in fact, much better than could be expected. We have hopes of bringing them all through although it will require little time with some of them. I do not think that any more will die."

New War Ships and Methods.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Commodore Benny, chief of the bureau, of equipment in his annual report says that during the past fiscal year six vessels have been wholly or partially equipped at a cost of $593,986, and coal has been purchased at a cost of $451,693. The commodore says the lighting of ships of war by electricity inaugurated by this government has now become so essential that no war ship is considered complete which is not so lighted.

Southern Pacific Offers a Reward.

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—The Southern Pacific have offered a reward of $5000 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who, they claim, were implicated in the late disaster at Lake Labish.

SLEEPING TWO IN A BED

Young Girls Should Not Bunk With Their Grandmothers.

The custom of sleeping in double beds is one which is going—and rightly going—out of fashion, says the Sheffield Telegraph. Of course every one knows, theoretically, that it is far more healthful to sleep alone. But of what avail has this theoretic knowledge been?

The child had first been allowed to sleep with its nurse—a most pernicious custom—or its elder sister or its mother; the growing girl sleeps with her roommate at school; the young lady with her aunts and her cousins and her girl friends indiscriminately.

People who would have hesitated to allow a bunch of roses to remain in the room over night or a growing plant, have never had their own bed to themselves year in and year out. The plant—which did not consume the oxygen of which their lungs stood in need, but precisely the effete gases thrown off by their own system—was thought very injurious.

Another pair of lungs breathing up the breathable air and infesting the remainder with the respiratory refuse of those physical processes that are most active during sleep was not thought of with any objection at all.

Yet, what a simple law of hygiene would not do, fashion, a notion as to what is "correct," is beginning to a chive. From fashionable furniture establishments there comes the announcement that two single bedstead are always called for at present with each chamber suite furnished for what is known as "swell patronage."

How may fatal diseases, how many cases of slow undermining and poisoning of the system are due to this custom of promiscuous sharing of double beds on the part of young girls, who will ever know?

The fact will never be fully realized till people grow sensible enough to know that bed linen takes the insensible rejection of the pores as well as body linen, and who would care to wear another's body linen?

Have your single bed, then, if possible; if not possible do not sleep with a person much older than yourself. Young girls occasionally sleep with their grandmothers!

CUBA RECIPROCITY.

She Must Have it With the United States or Parish.

THE KANSAS SENATOR.

A Carpenter Falls Through a Hatch and Is Killed—Funeral of the Engineer and Fireman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The department of state has received dispatches from Consul General Williams, at Havana, stating that the chairmen of the various business associations has been requested, by the government, to appoint a committee to go to Spain and report the views upon the negotiation of a reciprocity treaties with the United States. He also incloses a translation from an editorial in the leading Havana paper, strongly favoring reciprocity, and taking to task the Spanish cabinet for pronouncing petitions from Cuba important as tending to encourage the Yankees to be more exciting. The editorial goes on to say that the United States government is in possession of the most exact information concerning the Cuban affairs, and that the information in possession of Secretary Blaine is of so decisive a character as to enable him to say to Spain, accede, agree, as to the justness of my policy of commercial reciprocity, or I will sink the sugar plantations of Cuba. The editorial adds that the day this prime industry is to other industries will be lost with it. All other industries, it says, live and flourish because we plant cane, make sugar and sell it to the United States. Blaine knows this and acts accordingly.

The New Messiah Excitement.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The latest advices from the Pine Ridge agency, South Dakota, are to the effect that the excitement among the Indians on account of the new Messiah, is rapidly increasing. Some apprehension is felt. If active measures are not taken before long by the government, a serious outbreak may occur during early spring or even before. It is said, however, that the government has the whole situation in hand, and will at once and effectually crush out the very first signs of an uprising.

INGALLS IS CONFIDENT.

Seventy to Commence With and Thinks He Will Pull Through.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14.—An Atchison, Kansas, special contains an interview with Senator Ingalls, regarding his chances for re-election to the U. S. senate. "What," said Ingalls, "not win when I am certain of going into the fight with 70 votes within 14 of enough to elect me; I would make a fight if I had but three votes and knew I would get no more."

Williams, Garfield; J. L. Seaver and T. Y. Williams, Oakesdale. The manager's report showed the business to be in a flourishing condition. The capital stock was increased from $10,000 to $50,000.

THE MURDERERS.

The Police Think They Have Them Spotted.

SEATTLE, Nov. 14.—Detectives are scowing the country for Tony Miller and a man named T. Johnson, both of whom are thought to be implicated in the murder and robbery of Olaf Ellingson, the Swede, whose mutilated body was found by two boy hunters on the shores of Lake Washington yesterday morning. Johnson was the last seen with Ellingson on the cable car going to Lake Washington on the morning of the murder, and letters and photographs found in the valise of the deceased directs suspicion to Miller. The Chief of Police has telegraphed to all towns in the state, and states south, giving a description of both men and asking for their arrest and detention. All suspicious characters in the town are being arrested, and since last night about twenty-five have been arrested, searched and jailed. It is thought that the murderers cannot possibly escape. The policemen who was sent out to Lake Washington, to look over the ground at daylight this morning, found about 10 feet from the place where the body of the deaman was discovered, a bloody club shot with which the first blow was very probably struck. The excitement among the working class is intense and if the murderer is caught he will very probably be strung up by the angry Swedes.

F. M. FRENCH.

Mr. Stanley's Penwork.

New York World.

If Mrs Dorothy Tennant-Stanley had not already a reputation as a good artist she would make an impression as a writer. Her "London Street Arabs," which have been collected from various periodicals and published in book form, with pen sketches by the "Raga muffin" artist, are bright, attractive and entertaining. It will interest young artists to know how she studies. "Which of us," she asks in the preface to her book, "could draw a hansom cab or an omnibus from memory? You would have to start at the lamps, the shaft the curve of the top, and the driver's seat many times before you could draw them. It would puzzle you to draw a policeman's helmet, and you would probably make his summer coat too short. It would take you some time to master the fact that he has several plated buttons, that his belt has a snake like clasp, and that his hat has a particular curve at the back. You must examine him very closely—so closely, indeed, that he will examine you suspiciously. There would be fewer failures in literature and art and less dullness in life if more people had the power of observing what passes before their eyes."

CRUEL REPARTEE

Apropos of stories, there are some funny ones going the rounds about a woman who is the authoress of a most charming book. She is very enthusiastic, and not long ago at a dinner party said: "Men in this country don't know how to love. If you want to see real love you must go to Russia; there a man says 'Be mine or you will die.'" Spoken dramatically and with her eyes flashing, everybody looked immensely interested, until a courtly old gentlemon rose up from his chair and bowing most graciously, responded; "Oh, madame, how thankful we are that you came back to this country alive"

GREAT RAILROADS.

The Seattle Police After the Murderers of the Swede.

JUNCTION'S NEW LAWMAKERS

G. M. Yoran Badly Hurt in the Smash Up—The Victims of the Wreck all Recovering—Forest Fires in California.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—In the Sun to-morrow will appear a letter addressed to the editor, from Jay Gould, in which the writer says that there are a group of roads, known as the western and southwestern systems, traversing a most fertile and rapidly developing territory of the United States, and that the stock and bonds of these properties is held by a thousand investors in the East, and upon the prosperity of these roads many small investors depend for dividends upon which to live. "Something over 18 months ago," writes Gould, "during a period of great depression three great banking houses invited the presidents of these roads to meet. The result of that meeting was the formation of the so-called presidents' agreement, and it may interest you to know the difference in the net earnings of this group of roads, as between the rates which were established and maintained for several months after the agreement and the rates that prevailed under the loose and disorganized state of affairs that existed before the agreement was broken. I estimate the total number of tons moved one mile annually by this group to be 16,000,000. The auditor of one of these roads furnished a statement, showing the difference between the rates under the presidents' agreement and the present rates, which amounted to an increase of 1 4 10 mills per ton per mile. Applying this difference, 1 4 10 mills to 16,000,000,000 gross annual tons for one mile, gives the startling figure of $22,400,000 annual decrease in the net earnings of this system of roads, as between their operations under the presidents' agreement, and the loose methods now prevailing. Under this condition of things it is hoped the bankers can be induced to call the presidents' together again."

KILLED WHILE ON HIS FARM.

Funerals of Engineer McFadden and Fireman Neal.

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—Capt. Isaac Thomas, the well-k own steamboat man, formerly master of the Lurea Mason, was killed this afternoon while working on a ditch on his farm near Sauvies Island, eighteen miles from this city. He was superintending the digging of a drainage ditch and was standing in the ditch when it was about fourteen feet deep. Without warning the earth caved in and buried him. The men proceeded to dig him out with all possible haste, but before they reached him he died from suffocation. The body when found was in an upright position.

The bodies of Engineer McFadden and Fireman Neal were brought here to-day from Salem, where an inquest was held. The funeral of McFadden takes place to morrow and Neal's Sunday, both from Ess Portland.

How They Caught On.

Although William Windom spent several years, prior to his return to the treasury department, in and around Wall street, says the New York Star, he never succeeded in attaining any position of prominence, or even notoriety, in financial affairs. In this respect he presents a marked contrast to the record usually made by men who have occupied high positions in the treasury department, and who, on retiring from office, decide to go into the banking business, or otherwise cast their lot in the streets. In fact, the financial district is full of men occupying high positions in the financial world who were formerly government treasury officials. Mr. John J. Knox, who was comptroller of the currency, is president of one national bank, and Mr. H. C. Cannon, who held the same position, is president of another. Mr. Fairchild, Cleveland's secretary of the treasury, is at the head of a trust company, and Mr. Hilhouse, a former treasurer of the United States, now presides over a similar institution. Ex-Assistant Secretary Coon in a big stock-brokerage house. In fact, the experience that a bright man obtains in a responsible post in the treasury is an almost certain passport to position and prosperity in the street. It is now remembered that this rule did not work with regard to Windom.
