MONETARY AFFAIRS.

A Big English Bank Closes Its Doors.

A BANK TELLER ARRESTED.

Stringency in the Money Market Causes a Big Failure—A Democrat Arrested—Eastern News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The stock market to-day, during a two hour session, was the liveliest since the great slump of December 15, '86, and for the space of an hour or more there existed a perfect panic among holders of securities, especially railroad stocks, and the declines established during that time were greater than ever before seen in the same time. The only cause of the excitement was the announcement from London that the great firm of Baring Bros., had been forced to seek assistance to tide them over the present financial crisis, and holders of stocks became panic stricken over the news, without reflecting that the danger had really passed when the Bank of England and Rothschilds came to the rescue. Early advices from London were reassuring, and the crisis was represented as over and continuing improvement began. The first prices were generally fractionally higher than yesterday's figures.

The announcement about Barings was thrown at the market immediately, however, and the good feeling disappeared instantly, and from prospective buyers the whole room became sellers at the best price obtainable. The drop, however, soon brought into market a class of buyers who are paying outright for their securities, and the current soon turned by this support, when the bears joined in buying to realize the profits accrued upon the tremendous drop. Early selling soon developed the fact that the large selling had orders and the trading professional element soon took the market away from the sellers and innumerable stop orders were quickly uncovered, rendering the stampede more serious every minute. After the downward movement was checked a bank statement was issued, showing a material gain in the surplus reserve and a growing strength. The banks leave no further feeling of apprehension among Wall street houses, and the general impression is that as soon as London becomes quiet there will be no disturbing influence found here. The rally which was obtained in the last hour extended to 4 per cent. and over in some of the most pronounced cases, but the upward movement was insufficient to make up anything like the losses incurred and the extremely feverish and unsettled condition was marked in the trading throughout. The close was very active and strong for the moment.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Total liabilities of the Barings' amounted to £21,000,000, while their assets, at present prices are £14,000,000. The government has authorized the Bank of England, if necessary, to issue an additional £20,000,000 in notes, and will suspend the bank account if requisite. The original cause of the firms' trouble was Russia's withdrawal of several millions deposited on learning of the firm's dealings in Argentine and Uruguay bonds. It is expected that incoming investors will gradually relieve the strain in the market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—In an interview to-day Thomas Baring said it was true that the bank of England, Rothschilds and other large English banking houses had agreed to guarantee the credit of the Barings to the extent of eleven millions pounds sterling.

Banker Seligman, speaking of the condition of affairs in Wall street, said he presumed if within a reasonable time the market takes a favorable turn here and abroad, the Barings will take up collateral and go on as always.

The Evening Post three months ago, when the Argentine revolution first began to cripple the resources of houses, by floating Argentine securities, an examination of the affairs of the Barings showed a clear balance of fifteen million pounds over and above all liabilities. A shrinkage of eleven million pounds, or say about fifty-five million dollars in three months shows what a tremendous strain London financiers have been subject to. The present resuscitation in the value of these Argentine securities is good.

It is reported that a meeting of the bank presidents of New York is to be held between now and Monday morning to consider the financial situation and determine upon a policy of conservatism, if events should justify or necessitate a join interposition in that direction.

THE ENGLISH BANKS.

Regarding the Extraordinary Monetary Situation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Evening Sun says: Facts regarding the extraordinary monetary situation which has prevailed in London the past ten days may be summed up authoritatively as follows: Owing to the extent of their operations in railroad and land in South America, the Barings have been more or less embarrassed for over six months. Last Thursday week Barings, at the conclusion of business, decided that it was impossible for them to continue Friday, and they so notified the directors of the bank of England, who immediately convened, and startled the whole financial world by raising the per cent. rate. The proceedings are the most unprecedented, and called a halt in speculation at every money center in the world. The present week has been bad in most banking circles, and this feeling was reflected in a minor degree in New York. The article goes on to say that eleven million pounds was furnished Barings, the bank of England furnished seven million, and the relief party the remainder. Barings was allowed three years to adjust their affairs. All the actual peril is now believed to be past.

SENSATIONAL TRIAL.

Mrs. O'Shea Frequently in Parnell's Company.

FELL FROM A BUILDING.

The World's Fair Committee Asks Consent for the Unconditional Use of Washington Park.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The trial of the O'Shea divorce case was opened this morning before a special jury. Parnell, co-respondent was not represented by counsel. O'Shea was the only prominent figure present. The counsel for Mrs. O'Shea said he did not intend to take any part in the proceedings. This involves the condemnation of Parnell to pay the costs.

In his speech Sir Edward Clark described all the places and different houses where Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea had met and the various stories about them. He said O'Shea always wrote his letters concerning these stories and always received specific denial. For nineteen weeks in '88 they occupied a house together in St. James's road, Eastbourne. Later they occupied another house in Eastbourne. Capt. O'Shea was then called to the witness stand. His testimony was corroborative in detail of the points touched upon by Sir Edward Clark in his opening address. He said, among other things, that while he was a candidate for Galway he heard statements about Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea. He remonstrated with his wife, but she said her acquaintance with Parnell was for political purposes. She told him she knew Parnell had been secretly married. When paragraphs appeared in the papers about Parnell's visit to Eltham, O'Shea wrote to his wife expressing annoyance at the circumstance. Sometime after this (O'Shea) showed him a paragraph stating that Parnell had been at Eltham, and plaintiff showed this to Parnell, who seemed much annoyed. On April 15, 1887, plaintiff saw his wife and had a long and painful interview with her, showing her her son's letters. The letter referred to was read by the counsel, it communicated matters relative to the visit of Parnell to Mrs. O'Shea. The son said he had heard the voice of "That awful scoundrel, Parnell," and should like to have knocked him down but dared not as he did not wish to upset his mother, who told him Parnell had only come to dinner. The letter continues, "perhaps I ought to have kicked him, you, however, know more about these things than I do, but if you wish me to kick him it shall be done on the first opportunity."

Harriet Bull, formerly in the service of Mrs. Dawson, of Brighton, was called. She remembered Mrs. O'Shea some five or six years ago. Capt. O'Shea came there, as did another gentleman, whom she identified by photo as Parnell. He would come every day and at all times. When he came the children would go out and no one would be in the house but he and Mrs. O'Shea. They would be together for hours. He once slept in the house when O'Shea was not there. She recollected on one occasion going to Mrs. O'Shea's bedroom to speak to her. She heard a voice, tried the door and found it locked.

Caroline Pethois, a widow, residing in Cheltenham, rented a house in the latter part of 1883 to Capt. O'Shea. Two or three days after the family arrived a gentleman appeared whom she identified as Parnell. He went by the name of Charles Stewart. He and Mrs. O'Shea were in the dining-room for several hours on one occasion with the door locked. They were in other rooms with the doors locked. Parnell slept frequently at the house when O'Shea was not there. He was in the drawing-room at one time with Mrs. O'Shea and the door locked. When Capt. O'Shea rang the front door bell Parnell escaped from the house, went to the front door, rang the bell and asked to see Capt. O'Shea. He did not escape by the stairs. There was a balcony outside the window and two rope fire escapes in the house [laughter.] Witness saw Mrs. O'Shea once go up-stairs, pull down the blind and enter Parnell's bed-room.

Court here adjourned the case until Monday.

The refusal of Mrs. O'Shea to make any defense and the failure Parnell to appear in court to refute the charges have caused an immense sensation. The utter collapse is equivalent to an acknowledgement of guilt and will result in Parnell's being condemned to pay the cost of the divorce proceedings.

Consent Asked for the Unconditional Use of Washington Park.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—The executive committee of the world's fair national committee to-day took decided preliminary action in the matter of apportioning various exhibit halls among the parks constituting the site. The uncertainty as to the extent to which Washington park would be used has for some time past constituted one of the main questions involving indirectly the lake front problem. At a meeting of the executive committee a resolution was adopted insisting upon the local directory to obtain from the South Park commissioners before the meeting of the national committee on the 18th inst, consent for the unconditional use of Washington park.

Unless such action is taken the executive committee will feel constrained to recommend to the committee the abrogation of resolutions adopting the various sites heretofore rendered.

CLEAR CASE OF SUICIDE.

The Body in a Fearful State of Decomposition.

PORTLAND, Nov. 15.—Some children playing in an old shed near this city to-day discovered the body of a man. They informed some men near at hand and upon investigation the body was found to be in a fearful state of decomposition, the man, apparently having been dead a month or more. Around his neck was a small rope which had broken, one part of it being tied to a beam above, which clearly showed it to be a case of suicide. "A note was found near the body addressed to "My dear Eliza," and signed "Jack."

In the note he upbraided Eliza for her attentions to another. He also stated he intended taking his own life. The body was buried in the potter's field without an inquest.

Drummer—Of course it is. I tried to close it before you came in.—Life.

CONSUMPTION CURE.

Messages from All Parts of Europe and America.

HUSBAND AND WIFE KILLED.

Body of a Man Found Near Portland in a Fearful State of Decomposition—It Was a Case of Suicide.

[Copyrighted '90 by N. Y. Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—Prof. Koch holds supreme sway over the public interests. The publication of his statement at home and abroad has intensified the excitement, and messages are pouring in from all parts of Europe and America. Many medical men, including English and American physicians, have been studying the process under the aides of Prof. Koch. Interesting reports of progress in the treatment of many cases continue to be made. To meet the pressure of cases another hospital is about to be established.

The secret of the composition of the lymph has been communicated to Koch's intimate colleagues, also to Prof. Weigart, of Frankfort, Dr. Kast of Hamburg hospital and Prof. Nothnagel, of Vienna University. Nothnagel, in addressing his students on the matter, said that the discovery has a far wider scope than Jenner's discovery of vaccination, and is perhaps the grandest feat in the history of medical science. Prof. Billieth holds that Koch's method places it beyond doubt that a remedy will be found before long for cancer.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

Husband and Wife Discovered Dead In Their Bed.

MARTINEZ, Cal., Nov. 15.—On Friday morning the town of Clayton was disturbed by the startling intelligence that Jas. Paragnero and wife, residents of that place, had been discovered dead in bed. The coroner was sent for and on arriving at the scene found evidence enough of a brutal and cowardly murder to justify him in notifying the sheriff and district attorney of the facts. Officials are now working the case up which may lead the discovery of the assassin.

Later reports render it doubtful whether it was murer or suicide.

Another Record Broken.

COFFAX, Wash., Nov. 15.—In a foot race here to-day, M. Gray, of this city, ran 125 yards in 11¾ seconds, break the World's record.

An Adventurous Princess.

Miss Beatrice Potter is at present one of the most famous and talked-of women in England. She is a supremely beautiful woman, is of aristocratic connections and owns a large fortune in her own right. For several years past she has been a devoted pupil and disciple of Herbert Spencer. Having read and heard all manner of grewsome stories of the horrors endured by women in sweaters' shops she dressed in the odious rags worn by that class, went down into the city, found work and for twe months lived and labored side by side with those miserable white slaves of the needle. Few knew her secret, and so cleverly were her plans carried out that neither employes nor employers ever suspected her identity. When she had thoroughly informed herself on all minute relating to the criminal tyranny exercised by the sweaters, and the hideous lives led by their female victims, she threw off her disguise, returned to the West End, gave exhaustive newspaper reviews and appealed for legislative interference. So strong and and unanswerable were her arguments, seconded by her own experiments, that Parliament discussed ways and means for righting this great wrong.—Chicago Tribune.

Found at Last.

Housekeeper (to pleasant faced girl at employment agency)—Have you any objections to the country?

Girl (politely)—None at all, madam.

Housekeeper—I have a large family.

Girl—The more the merrier.

Housekeeper—Seven children, two of them quite young.

Girl—I love little children.

Housekeeper—It will be necessary for you to bake bread, wash and get the meals. I attend to the pastry and chamberwork myself.

Girl—I will also make the pastry and do the rest, if you will allow me.

Housekeeper—I cannot give you more than three afternoons off.

Girl—Two will be sufficient, perhaps more than I will want, as my plan is to give strict attention to my household duties and thus get the work done up promptly every day, so as to have plenty of opportunity to rest between times.

Housekeeper—I am delighted—Stranger (suddenly entering)—Sorry to interrupt you, madam, but you are conversing with one of my patients, who has just escaped from the Hopelessly Incurable Lunatic Asylum.
