POSTAL AFFAIRS,

The Marvelous Increase in Postoffice and Postal Business.

DEMAND FOR CHEAP POSTAGE

Postmaster General Wannamaker Makes Some Important Recommendations—Eastern News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Postmaster-General Wannamaker, in his annual report, shows that in the past year over $200,000 was saved on postal card contracts The cards, though inferior at first, were quickly brought up to the required standard. Four hundred thousand dollars were saved in stamped envelope contracts, and $20,000 on certain mail carrying. At the same time mail routes have been extended over almost two million miles of railway, steamboat and stage lines. The gross revenue is nearly $5,000,000 larger than ever before. Almost five thousand new postoffices, more than in any one year before, have been established, star route mileage has been increased over five million miles, and railroad mileage over eleven millions. Concerning the telegraph scheme, the postmaster-general says. the swiftest mail is not fast enough in these days for all the needs of commerce and special correspondence. The public imperatively demand cheaper telegraphy and postal rates, and the postal department can supply it at less cost than any corporation.

Under the head of a "New plan for postal savings banks" the report recommends that the postoffice department be authorized for the establishment of postal savings banks under the regulations formulated by the postmaster-general, these to be located in states having no laws regulating savings banks, or in any other state upon a petition of a considerable number of residents in any one locality, and not more numerously than one postoffice for every ten miles of area, the interest rate to be fixed by the secretary of the treasury at the beginning of each year and to be one-half of one per cent. less than the average rate paid by depositors by private bankers. The report shows 14,072 postmasters removed during the past two years and 26,680 appointed during the same time. He favors, wherever practicable, one-story, inexpensive buildings for postoffices, and says to move out of a $600 rented room, safe and ample for postal business, into a $100,000 building, where the janitor alone gets more salary than the rent of the former place, cannot be justified on any business principle.

Regarding reduced postage the postmaster-general says, in part: In point of fact there is a clear gain of nearly $30,000,000 from letter postage. This large profit with the annual deficit (which last year amounted to $5,786,300) is all swallowed up by losses on other classes of mail matter carried at less than the cost of distribution and handling. The amount received from letter postage last year was about $33,000,000. A reduction to a one cent rate would bring this down to $19,000,000. The deficiency for the current year is about $4,500,000, which would make the total deficiency $23,500,000. This deficiency would be reduced by the natural increase of business due to the stimulus of the low rate, and by the completion of pending legislation to collect proper postage from sample copies of so-called newspapers and from paper covered books.

The revenues of the department for the fiscal year are $60,858,783; expenditures and liabilities, $66,645,083. The deficiency for the year, therefore, is $5,786,300.

THE GHOST DANCES.

A Graphic Description of the Indians War Antics.

The following graphic description of the Indian craze that is causing so much trouble is given by the wife of the postmaster at Pine Ridge agency, whose husband sent her out for safety some two weeks ago: "The ghost dances have been in progress for some time. The first the agent learned of them was last August when a crowd of Indians left the reservation to hold, as they said, a council, and when the police found them they were engaged in the dance. Since then they have been holding them regularly. One ghost dance that I saw was participated in by 480 Indians. In preparing for the dance they cut the tallest tree they can find, and having dragged it to a level piece of prairie set it up in the ground. Under this tree four of their head men stand. The others form a circle and begin to go around and around the tree. They begin on Friday afternoon. It is kept up Saturday and Sunday, until sundown. During this time they do not eat nor drink. They keep going round in one direction until they become so dizzy that they can scarcely stand; then turn and go in the other direction, and keep it up until they swoon from exhaustion. This is what they strive to do; for while they are in a swoon they think they see and talk with the new Christ. When they regain consciousness they tell their experiences to the four wise men under the tree. All their tales end with the same story about the two mountains that are to belch forth mud and bury the white man, and the return of good old Indian times. They lose all of their senses in the dance. They think they are animals. Some get down on all fours and bob about like buffaloes. When they cannot lose their senses from exhaustion they butt their heads together beat them upon the ground, and do anything to become insensible, so that they may be ushered into the presence of the new Christ.

"One poor Indian, when he recovered his senses, said that Christ had told him he must return to earth, because he had not brought with him his wife and child. His child had died two years before and the way the poor fellow cried was the most heartrending thing I ever saw. At the end of the dance they have a grand feast, the revel lasting all Sunday night. They kill several steers, and eat them raw, drink and gorge themselves to make up for their fast. The arrival of the troops there will make the Indians much worse, and they will surely fight. They have said all along that nothing should break up the ghost dance, even if they were all killed. But then, if they should have been allowed to continue, I think they would have gone crazy, so they would have taken to the warpath anyway. At last Friday's dance one of the braves was to go into a trance and remain in this condition fours days. At the close of this period he was to come to life as a buffalo. He would still have the form of a man, but he would still be a buffalo. They were then to kill the buffalo and every Indian who did not eat a piece of him was to become a dog. The man who was to become a buffalo was perfectly willing and I suppose that they have killed and eaten him by this time.

If the Government just lets them alone, there will be no need of troops; they will kill themselves dancing. Seven or eight of them have died as a result of one dance near Wounded Knee. They are now dancing on a creek about five miles south of Wounded Knee, and dancing with all their arms. Every Indian has about four ... made out of round stones twisted into rawhide. They throw these around during the dance, strew the ground with them and beat their heads against them. The agent and his Indian police cannot control them and it was necessary to have the troops on the ground."

PARNELL IS DOOMED.

HE MUST YIELD HIS LEADERSHIP IN PARLIAMENT.

Vice Does Not Go Unpunished Even in the British Parliament—A Strong Majority Against Him.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A canvass has been conducted by the Irish members of parliament opposed to Parnell's retention of the leadership, with a view of ascertaining how the poll is likely to go at Monday's meeting. The result was the securing of 53 members against Parnell. Among them are: Condon, Deasy, John Dillon, Esmond Fincane, Timothy Harrington, Timothy Healy, Maurice Healy, Justin McCarthy, J. F. O'Brien, Patrick O'Brien, P. J. O'Brien, Roache, Sexton, Sheehan, Sheehey, Tanner and Webb. The Anti-Parnellities also rely upon the votes of William O'Brien, T. P. O'Connor, Gill and T. D. Sullivan. The adherents of Parnell, who announced their intention to stick to the old leader, number twenty-three, namely; Blane, Byrne, Henry Campbell, Conway, W. J. Corbet, J. G. Fitzgerald, Edward Harrington, Hayden, J. E. Kenny, W. A. McDonald, MacNeal, McGuire, Mahoney, J. P. Noland, John O'Connor, O'Kelly, Penkerton, P. J. Power, Richard Power, John Redmond, William Redmond and Shiel.

Parnell's promised manifesto was made public to-day in which he refuses to resign. He says that if he retires it will be by force.

Intense excitement was created in political circles generally this morning, but more particularly in the ranks of the Irish national party, when the announcement was made that the Roman hierarchy of Ireland had reached a unanimous conclusion that the position was such as to render absolutely necessary the retirement from the leadership of Parnell.

On Trial for Murder.

MERCED, Cal., Nov. 28.—Trial of August Olsen, who is under arrest on suspicion of causing the death on Nov. 9th, of John Ivett, a wealthy rancher living near Snelling, was commenced to-day before the justice of the peace. Ivett married Olsens sister and the property goes to her.

Robbed by Highwayman.

REDDING, Cal., Nov. 28.—Frank D. Lewis, a government agent, sent here to locate Indians on lands, hired a team to-day to go into the country. Six miles from Redding he was stopped by a highwayman and robbed of his money.

THE RED DEVILS.

They Threaten a Wholesale Massacre of Whites.

FAMILIES TAKEN CAPTIVE.

The Painted Braves Say They Are Going to Kill Every Soldier and White Person They Meet.

OMAHA, Nov. 28.—A special to the Bee from Pine Ridge, says the beef issue passed off yesterday without exciting features. One hundred and ninety steers were turned loose. Hawk Head and Big Horse, reliable Indian policemen, have reached the agency with the news that their families had been stolen by a band of 200 Indians that had deserted from Rosebud a few hours before and rushed off to join 1300 other Indian deserters, and are now only fifteen miles northeast of the Pine Ridge agency. When Hawk Head and Big Horse discovered that their families were missing they immediately set out in pursuit of the deserters. The latter refused to give up the families. The policemen begged and entreated the deserters to give them back their wives and children, but only got cursed and threats of their lives. Before they got away from the band members of the latter said: "Go tell the soldiers at Pine Ridge we are part of 1300 other Rosebud Indians now near Pine Ridge, and from now on we are going to kill every white person we meet, also soldiers. We are ready for them."

It is predicted by the Bee correspondent that within thirty-six hours troops will be ordered to disarm or shoot down maraudersr and when the troops do start after them, the end will be no Custer affair. The move will undoubtedly be made under cover of the darkness and by a forced march. The attack and finish will both occur between the rising and setting of the moon. The scene of action will be some fifteen or twenty miles northeast of the agency.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Contradictory dispatches regarding the Indian trouble have been received by the war department. A special says that the newspaper reports of the Pine Ridge situation are misleading and that matters are now under control, with a peaceable ending in view.

GHOST DANCERS IN JAIL.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Nov. 28.—The lower Brule Indian police last night started in to break up the ghost dances, and to-day eight of the leading dancers are in jail at the agency. Another dance is reported as organizing for to-night and the police are ready for it. No danger of an outbreak is feared

DETERMINED TO FIGHT.

MANDAN, N. D., Nov. 28.—Word comes from Sitting Bull's camp from different sources that he is dancing his men more vigorously than ever, and he is compelling the children to join in the dance. He is reparted to be more hostile and determined to fight than ever. This afternoon two troops of cavalry arrived from Fort Custer and proceeded to Fort Yates.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Nov. 28.—Little Wound is in and reports his inability to control his band in the interest of peace. The cavalry expects an order to march to-night on Rosebud on Porcupine, although General Brooke is reported as being in favor of waiting until the Sixth cavalry reaches Fort Meade and troops can be placed at Forest City above Pierre.

AFRICAN BARBARITY.

They Kill Men Just for the Fun of It Sometimes.

"I had the plasure of witnessing a nergo execution once," said E. J. Glave at the Sherman House yesterday. Mr. Glave has just returned from an Alaskan trip He says that he was in the Congo country with Stanley. "I had the pleasure of seeing this execution and knowing that I wasn't strong enough to stop it, I was allowed to witness it only on he condition that I and my companion should have shot the chief and the executioner. Afterwards did have forces enough to prevent it, and for two years there weren't any wanton killings. The slaughter is going merrily on. Soft words won't stop it. It takes something more than that to put the fear of God into the blacks. But I am drifting away from my story. Some old woman of influence had died and accordingly, to celebrate the occasion, a slave had to be sacrificed. He was lashed fast in a kind of a seat and a pliant stem about fifteen feet long stuck into ahe ground near him. The top of it was bent over and tied fast to his head, so that his neck was as taut as a fidle-tring. That was the first time I had seen them use one of their soft iron knives, and I expected to see the poor fellow's neck haggled into rags, but I heard only a click when it struck the bones of the spinal column, and the man's head shot away like a pebble in a sling. A fountain of blood spurted from his neck, and the body worked and twitched exactly as a chicken does when its head is cut off. The head when picked up was chattering its jaws and rolling its eyes.

"It's awful, the amount of killing that goes on in Africa. A tribe will make up a party and go out to make captives in an adjoining village. They wait until after night and then fire upon the village until its defenders are killed. They take the rest of the folks and make slaves of them. Some are killed for the mere fun of killing them, some are slaughtered to be eaten, some for sacrifice, and others die from cruel treatment. About five out of every six captives die by violence. As a consequence interior Africa is being rapidly depopulated. One may go for hundreds of miles and not see a man, but may note the charred stumps which mark where villages have once been."—Chicago Tribune.

THE BRAZILIAN SQUADRON.

The Officers Present President Harrison With a Medal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The formal presentation to the president of the officers of the Brazilian squadron took place at the White House this afternoon. There were a number of prominent officials of the government present, including all the cabinet officers, Speaker Reed, General Schofield, Colonel Vincent, Admiral J. C. Walker and the Brazilian minister and suite. Secretary Blaine introduced the president to Admiral Silveira. The admiral holding in his hand a package, said: "Mr. Harrison, it affords me great pleasure as a representative of Brazil to present you this letter, expressive of the sentiments of our people and their feeling of appreciation for the early recognition by you of the independence of the republic of Brazil, and for the visit of the magnificent squadron under command of Admiral Walker. I am also charged to present you this medal, struck to commemorate these events, and I trust it will prove a fitting symbol of the relations that will exist between the people of the two countries." The president responded in a short speech.

The Nation's Wealth.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Figures taken from the forthcoming report of the secretary of the treasury show that during the twenty years from 1870 to the present time, the total increase in circulation has been over $727,000,000, making an average increase per capita, of $499 in that time.

Villard in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Henry Villard arrived on the steamship Aller to-night.

A BURNING STEAMER.

THE TERRIBLE FATE THAT BEFELL A MISSISSIPPI BOAT.

The Panic Stricken Crew and Passengers Leap Into the River, Several of Them Perish.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—A telephone from Bayou Dara gives the following particulars of the loss of the steamer T. P. Leatners yesterday. The fire was first discovered midships starboard side in a pile of sacks of seed, surrounded by tiers of cotton bales. The boat was in midstream, under way. The fire had gotten such a hold upon the inflammable material that to extinguish it was out of the question. The captain ordered the boat headed for the landing. The passengers and crew ran about the burning vessel crazed with terror. People gathered on the front deck to be as near the shore as possible, and waited there as long as possible while the steamer was being drawn in under full stream. As the boat neared the bank, those of the rousters who could swim began jumping into the river, and before the boat was within 100 yards of the bank the water around her was black with struggling men. The officers of the boat stood to their posts and did all they could to prevent the frightened passengers from jumping into the river. When the boat got within a few hundred feet of the bank, even the fore deck became so hot that it was impossible to stay there. All on board were compelled to jump for their lives. Most of them were provided with life-preservers and it is believed that all these who waited until the last minute to jump, got safely to the shore. Lucy Hill, the first chambermaid, jumped from the cabin deck and broke her leg. Those known to have been drowned are:

Ike Morris, steward.
Walker, first cook.
Texas Tinder.
Hamilton Jones.
A rouster named Wright.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Seventy Vessels Wrecked and Hundreds of Lives Lost.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Additional advices of the disaster to the fishing fleet on the Norwegian coast show that 70 vessels were driven ashore and battered to pieces. Many small boats are also reported wrecked. It is feared hundreds of lives are lost. The bodies of the victims are constantly being washed ashore.

Senator Stanford Imagines That He Is In It.

A PRIEST'S DOWNFALL

His Crime was Wishing to Elope With One of His Congregation—His Wretched Death Near Seattle.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Representative Vandever, of California, says that popular sentiment in the extreme West is in favor of having a representative on the presidential ticket in the next campaign, and that if the convention turns to the Pacific slope for presidential timber Stanford is first and foremost in popular estimation as being worthy of the honor.

A PRIEST'S DOWNFALL.

He Perishes in a Wretched Cabin Near Seattle.

SEATTLE, Nov. 28.—In a wretched cabin in the woods near Earl station on the Lake Shore road near this city, R. McKittrick, a once popular Roman Catholic priest of Burlington, Iowa, was found dead from the effects of a self-administered dose of morphine.

Seven years ago McKittrick came to Seattle and took up the preemption claim where he died. He gave up his holy calling without offering any reason and became a recluse. It soon became known that he was a morphine eater and had taken to hard drinking. Yesterday morning a neighbor passing by the cabin saw the dead body of of the ex-priest upon the bed. At the side of the bed was an empty bottle of morphine, holding down a note dated November 27th, which was headed "Nothing to live for, no friends, no money, no clothes. I hope the drug I take will prove fatal." Signed, R. H. McKittrick.

One of his neighbors says he heard the priest say he had been driven from his congregation because he had fallen in love with a member of his church and proposed an elopement.

AN ASTONISHING RESULT.

More Proof That the Census was Very Badly Botched.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 28.—A special from Washington to the Telegraph says: The census office is now engaged again in adding up the returns for New York, and an astonishing result will be produced. The correspondent asserts that the final calculation will show 135,000 more people in New York city than announced in Superintendent Porter's "unofficial circular." The correspondent adds "in other words, the announcement upon which the apportionment is expected to be made is 125,000 short of what the count of the census enumerators showed.

Suicide of a Religious Maniac.

ANSONIA, Conn., Nov. 26.—David O'Connell, a man well known in this place and once connected with the oldest families, committed suicide here yesterday morning by cutting his throat. The cause of the deed was religious mania. O'Connell was a mechanic and had been out of work some time, a thing that had a bad effect on him. His suicide was preceded by a long period of prayer. For some time past he has continually prayed for work, the failure of which led to his suicide. He leaves a large family.
