ABOUT IMMIGRATION.

Some Money and Effort is Needed From Oregonians to Insure Progress.

In reference to the number of immigrants seeking homes in the Northwest the Daily Times-Mountaineer thinks that more vigorous efforts are needed from Oregonians to let non-residents know what a great country this state is. To receive a desirable accession to our population it is only necessary to let the fact be known, and to this end the liberal expenditure of money is the most advisable economy. Statistics should be kept of the yield per acre of wheat and other cereals, and of the annual product of orchards and vineyards. These should be presented in a readable shape to people in the east. Industrious, thrifty people will do no injury to our country and perhaps may give us new ideas of trade and business development. It may not be conducive to the right degree of quiet and happiness to some of our citizens that new blood should be introduced into our communities, now languishing in peace and comfort; but it would undoubtedly cause new industries to be put in operation, and give work to many bread winners where few are employed now. We have as much respect for the pioneers of Oregon as anyone, and have a high veneration for our ancestors who plodded through the world in ox-wagons and stage-coaches before the age of steam and electricity; but we do not decrease this admiration for pluck and fortitude by taking advantage of the improved methods of travel now being used. Neither would Oregonians show the least disrespect to the hardy and courageous pioneers of the fifties and earlier years, who formed this great and growing commonwealth out of the primeval forest, and against almost insuperable obstacles, civilization, gradually advancing a stride forward and east of the advancement of sister states. We must relegate the ox-team to its proper place in the history of the state, and be in favor of the railroad, steamboat, electric and cable car. By so doing we shall build wiser than we know, and coming generations, when Oregon shall assume her proper position as the garden spot and commercial mart of the Northwest, will not say that we were selfishly, only for our personal interests, but that we were not afraid to credit with those who also have the fingers of savage nations and plied the star of empire in this our western corner of the union.

Oldest Printer in the State.

E. Warner, of the Oregon City Enterprise, probably bears the proud distinction of being the oldest active compositor in the State of Oregon. For 41 years the venerable old veteran has earned an honest subsistence with the stick and rule, and even in this, the closing quarter of his 73d year on earth, he continues in the profession to which he has adhered since boyhood, with an activity, and an ability and force that would accord credit to one of half his age. He walks nearly two miles to a from his home night and morning, and is as prompt, accurate, and comparatively rapid. Tobacco and strong drink have never entered his mouth, while the lower societies and vices have always found in him an uncompro-mising enemy.

A Cold Swim.

Sunday evening as a carriage load of guests were returning from a wedding in the south, in suburbs of the city they met with a peculiar mishap when crossing the Columbia canal. The horses did not readily cross the bridge, and Walter Montague got out and attempted to lead them across. One of them sprang sideways in such a manner as to push him off into the roaring waters of the canal, and down he went to the bottom, all dressed in his best suit of Sunday clothes. "Can you swim?" called one of the party. "Of course," he remarked as he climbed shivering up the bank, and hurried home for dry clothing.

The Reason Why.

Why is it that Klein Bros. can afford to sell boots and shoes so reasonable? Because they are both practical shoe makers and make their expenses by working on the shoe bench, and any boot or shoe you buy of them, no matter what kind it is, man, woman or child's, that rip, run over or the sole rips loose, they repair them for you free of charge, and as they do all the work themselves, they don't charge you 25 to 30 cents a pair extra for a warrant to pay some shoemaker to repair them for you. They also make a specialty of repairing rubber boots.

Paid His Fine.

Geo. Willis, proprietor of a blacksmith shop on Ellsworth street, observed a boy driving one of his cows into the city pond across the street yesterday morning, and he proceeded to seize the boy and remove him from the horse. The boy, whose name is Campbell, had Willis arrested for assault. The latter pleaded guilty in Recorder Henton's court Monday morning and paid a fine of $5.

A Special Invitation.

The citizens of Albany and vicinity are specially invited to call and examine my display of holiday goods, no matter whether you wish to purchase or not, it will cost you nothing to look at the beautiful display of useful as well as ornamental articles. Ladies and gents will be a specialty. F. M. FRENCH, The Corner Jewelry Store.

ANOTHER STATE CONVENTION.

The following circular has just been sent out to the various county commissioners throughout the state.

OFFICE OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS, MULTNOMAH COUNTY, PORTLAND, OR., Dec. 13, 1890. To the Honorable County Commissioners—GENTLEMEN:—It has been suggested that the county commissioners of this state hold a convention at the court house, in this city, January 2, 1891, and confer with each other in regard to road laws and other matters of importance which will be brought before the meeting of the legislature, and we think united action on our part will possibly have a very beneficial result to the entire state. Should you think favorably of this convention, you will be kind enough to write your approval immediately to D. M. Dunne, care Kelly, Dunne & Co., of this city. Respectfully yours, J. C. Morelock, county judge; D. M. Dunne, H. S. Stone, county commissioners of Multnomah county, Oregon; Wm. Galloway, county judge; D. B. Kinney, Thomas W. Perry, county commissioners of Yamhill county, Oregon.

All a Mistake.

An item has been going the rounds of the newspapers of this state that Brownville had raised the station license to $1200 per annum and that two saloons had taken out license at this amount. The Brownsville Times says this is a mistake, as the license has not been raised and the town has only one saloon. The item may have originally referred to Brownsville, Texas, where whisky is in greater demand.

To Settle the Indians.

The government might choose easy ways of settling the present trouble with the Sioux Indians. The Eugene Register suggests this plan: Secure the enlistment of all those unerring mountaineer shooters who "thought-he-was-a-deer," and found it was a man, and turn them loose among the Sioux with an abundance of ammunition and instructions to "blaze away" at everything that wriggles.

The Veteran of 1812.
