Evangelistic Services.

The Baptist church was crowded last night to hear Evangelist Geo. Robert Cairns. Before the sermon Mr. Cairns conducted a praise service, during which he gave one of his touching solos and the male quartette choir sang a gospel song. The address was on "Condemnation," and much feeling was manifested. A testimony meeting was held at the close of the sermon and a very large number responded, several speaking at once. In response to the request of the evangelist to all who had professed Christ during these special meetings nearly a dozen went forward and gave their hand to Mr. Cairns and the pastor. There will be a bible reading led by Mr. Cairns in the lecture room every afternoon from 3 to 4, and service every night except Saturday. This church will unite in the meeting of all the churches every day from 11:30 to 12:30, and to-day Rev. Geo. W. Hill, of the Baptist church will lead this noonday meeting. Business men are especially invited to drop in for a few minutes at least, and all are invited to this meeting, as to the services at the church.

Fell in the Hole.

Yesterday evening while chasing one of Mueller & Garrett's fat hens, S. E. Moore, one of the clerks, made a misstep and took a header in the hole dug for the electric light pole. This will not raise the prices as they are selling goods cheaper than ever at Mueller & Garrett's cash grocery.

HIS PASS WAS NOT GOOD.

How Governor Pennoyer Had to Pay a Big V for His Fare.

It is evident the managers of the Southern Pacific's lines in Oregon are expecting the legislature to repeal the railroad commission law and abolish the board of commissioners. In renewing the passes for 1891 of the gentlemen constituting the board—their traveling permits having expired Dec. 31, 1890—Mr. Koehler made the new passes expire with March of the present year. It may not be uninteresting also, says the Salem Statesman, to learn that the Southern Pacific Co. has made its courtesies to the members of the legislative bodies null and void after March 31st next.

While on the subject of railway passes the opportunity of relating a little joke on Oregon's governor is taken advantage of. The other day the governor started on his return home to Portland. When the conductor came around collecting the tickets, the governor, forgetting that we had entered upon a new year and that his pass for 1890 had died with the old year, pulled his 1890 annual from his pocket and handed it to the conductor, whose reply was, "That won't go." The governor laughed and handed over a V, remarking at the same time that he thought that "would go."

Mines in Crook County.

The Prineville Review says that L. R. Griffin, who has been operating in the Ochoco mines the past seven years, says the prospects are better now for the development of paying quartz mines at the head of Ochoco than ever before. For the past two months Mr. Griffin has been prospecting a nine-foot ledge and is forty-five feet down. He says the rock assays 'way up in the hundreds, and he believes further development will show it to be a valuable mine. The Mc Callister Bros., are also sinking on a ledge that shows an excellent grade of ore, probably the best that has ever been struck in the district, and are down twenty-two feet. Something of a mining excitement was caused here this week by A. R. Chase bringing into town samples of quartz which he had found on Bear creek, 25 miles south of Prineville. On Monday, Steve Black, Chas. Charlton and Jud Palmer went out to the new discovery, and report having found a ledge nine feet wide which can be traced for a considerable distance. There is evidently some kind of metal in the rock, but what it is no one can say, there having been no test made of it. Should it prove to be silver, it will be a big thing, owing to the extent of the ledge.

Died Suddenly.

The Salem Journel says Saturday night about 7 o'clock Anton Geler Foerster, a German jeweler and engraver, who has made his home in Salem for nearly two years, died very suddenly of heart disease in his room over John G. Barr's jewelry store. He had been complaining some during the week of a pain in his breast, but had been up and doing some work nearly every day. Saturday afternoon he was down on the street and in Mr. Barr's store. Shortly after supper Mr. Barr called at the old gentleman's room and found him lying on the bed with his clothes on, but lifeless. He had been a great traveler and at one time was in good circumstances financially. He made his wealth in California, and on leaving there spent several years in traveling in Europe, Africa and South America. He was never married and has no relatives here. He was a practical jeweler and an excellent engraver, one of the best engravers in the city.

The Columbia River Transportation Company has just completed plans and specifications and, under Capt. Scott, let the contracts to have built a steamer that is promises to be the fastest that ever turned a wheel. The hull and upper wood-work will be done under the supervision of Mr. J. H. Johnson, one of the most careful and experienced boat-builders on the Pacific coast. The dimensions of the "Flyer" is as follows: Length over all, 176 feet; depth of hold, 13 feet; beam, 20 feet, 10 inches. She will be supplied with triple compound engines and is expected to work up to 2000-horse power, and to make 170 revolutions per minute. The engines and machinery will be of the latest improved, and the workmanship is to be of the highest order and is now being built by Messrs. Neva & Leavia, of Philadelphia. The Willamette Iron Works of Portland will build the boiler.

The Swedish Nightingales.

There is no mistaking the fact that a splendid musical treat is in store for us upon the occasion of the appearance of the National Swedish Ladies' concert on the 15th, instant. En route from the East and since their arrival on the Coast the ladies have met with nothing short of enthusiastic ovations wherever they have sung. Their singing not only delights the people, but arouses the greatest enthusiasm among musicians. It is the only company in the world combining extraordinary natural voices with the most perfect culture. This the cities everywhere recognized at once the praise without limit. Heretofore, we have had to be content with hearing the great singers only when their voices are on the wane, giving us but the remnant of what was once a great pleasure to hear. In the event of the Swedish octette this is reversed, and we are to listen vocalism which will in the near future give its posessors a wide fame. Sweden was the home of the two greatest singers that ever delighted an audience. Here Jenny Lind and Christine Nillson were born. It was from Stockholm they went forth to reflect undying honor upon Sweden. It is from the same place, from the great musical conservatory of Stockholm, supported by the government of Sweden, that the National Swedish Ladies' Company comes. No musical event in the history of our city equals what is promising for Saturday evening. At Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland the company sang to crowded and delighted houses, Let us see to it that the same is done here.

The S. P. Company Filling Trestles

The bridge repairing forces of the Southern Pacific lines in Oregon seem to have been awakened by the recent disasters on the road says the Ashland Tidings, and it is understood that ther will be a large amount of bridge work and filling done along the line of the road during the coming year. On Friday last Superintendent Fields and Chief Engineer Grondahl came out from Portland by special train, and were inspecting the bridges and trestles north of this place. It is now reported, but not announced from the railroad offices, that the long trestle at Wagner creek is to be superseded by a fill, and that a contract for the work has already been let to a gentleman who has been at Talent making preliminary preparations. Rumors are going, also, that a number of the the other trestles between Ashland and Talent are to be filled under, and a solid roadbed substituted for them as soon as the work can be done. This is good news to the public, if it is true, and if the work is done it may be the saving of lives and property from destruction in future accidents.

The Jacksonville Medford Railroad

The first train over the Jacksonville-Medford railroad did not arrive on New Year's day as expected, says the Democratic Times, although an attempt was made to bring it in. The road is completed between the towns, but the rolling stock has not yet put in an appearance, though it will soon do so. A locomotive was borrowed by Crawford, Howell & Co., to make the first trip at the appointed time; but it proved too heavy for the road and the effort was abandoned. An extension of time has been asked for by the company, which will no doubt be granted. The road will nevertheless be in proper order in a short time.

Days of Bunch Grass Are Gone.

Grant County News: The gigantic rye grass that once towered above a man's head on horseback along the river bottom and moist places has about disappeared except inside of inclosures, and it is only a question of time till the luxuriant bunchgrass that was once waved by the gentle zephyrs on the thousand hills of Eastern Oregon will be numbered among the things of the past and the hideous howl of the coyote from his lonely couch on the lofty peak will be heard no more.

COAST NOTES.

News Notes Obtained from Exchanges Throughout the Northwest.

There are 182 Indian students at the Chemawa training school.

Peter Henderson, of Medford, has been experimenting recently with a 4-candle miniature incandescent electric light, which proved so satisfactory that he will equip his shop with a number of them.

The territory gained by Yamhill county by the relocation of the Polk-Yamhill line has been platted. The territory is quite large, amounting to 5760 acres of tillable land, the assessed valuation of which is $80,000.

State School Superintendent McElroy is arranging for next spring's series of district teachers' institutes. There are spring institutes for each of the seven judicial districts, but the times and places of the institutes have not as yet been determined upon.

Last week a 4-year-old son of G. Landenhausen, of Dayton, while playing in the kitchen, caught up a teapot which his mother had just filled with boiling water, and swallowed a quantity of the water. He was so severely burned internally that he died the next day.

Wednesday Miss Cynthia Potter, who resides with her parents in the western portion of Eugene, took a dose of strychnine with suicidal intent. A doctor was called, and by the prompt use of antidotes, saved the life of the young lady. No reason was given for the attempt.

Frank Applegate returned to Ashland from his visit to Klamath agency last week, having passed through four feet of snow on the summit over the Rogue river route, while on the divide at Kean creek mountain, on the Ashland-Linkville route, the beautiful was but ten inches deep.

The amount of wheat reported to be held in Tacoma is 1,062,500 bushels. This is the largest amount by 172,000 bushels ever held in Tacoma since July, 1889, and represents, according to the best authority, 50 per cent. of the wheat in the state of Washington. The trouble about the movement of wheat now seems to be to get bottoms. There are only two ships in port available for the transportation of wheat. One vessel, the Constance, will probably clear next Friday, for what port is not yet known.

Want a Depot.

The citizens of Toledo, in Benton county and on the line of the Oregon Pacific railway, want a depot. They have petitioned the state board of railroad commissioners, setting forth their wants and their wants and the commissioners have looked the ground over and agree with them that a depot is needed. Two members of the board go to Corvallis to-day to confer with the management of the Oregon Pacific in relation to the matter. The petition before the commissioners states that Toledo is a city of 350 souls, with a freight business of one hundred tons per month. There is no sign of a depot there now. The board also hears complaint as to the condition of the track of the Northern Pacific between Portland and Kalama. They will look it up at the first opportunity.—Salem Statesman.

A Good Showing.

On Jan. 1, the city marshal had collected $10,551.27 city taxes, leaving only $862.99 not paid. A considerable portion of this will yet be collected. The financial condition of the city, as shown by the recorder and treasurer's reports published in the HERALD is by no means a bad showing. There is substantial improvements to show for the money spent, and when the system of public improvements is carried out, for which the people have voted in favor of bonding the city for $75,000, there will be no room for mossbacks or croakers in Albany.

WHAT About the biggest returns ever made on a small investment is that reported by John Alexander, of Mariposa, Cal. He writes:

"The best investment I ever made in my life was one of $1.25. It brought me health, wealth and happiness. The investment I made was the purchase of one bottle of Moore's Revealed Remedy." Thousands of other people have had equally as good returns from the purchase of this sovereign remedy. It cured Richard Williams, of Newcastle, of asthma, in a week. It did the same thing for John Hewitt, of this city. R. C. Otis of Seattle, over their own signatures say that it cured their rheumatism in a marvelously short time. J. M Jones and W. P. Johnson, of Seattle, attest its efficacy in curing liver and heart troubles. Thousands of reputable citizens from one end of the Pacific coast to the other write its praise. If you are ill, what better investment can you make than the purchase of a bottle of Moore's Revealed Remedy? If you feel bad every morning on arising, if you are tortured by rheumatism, if you have any of the ills of mankind, invest $1.25 in Moore's Revealed Remedy, and see if it will not give you relief.
