Farmers and Merchants Ins. Co.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers and Merchants Insurance Co., of Albany, was held at the office of the company yesterday, a large attendance of stockholders being present. The annual reports of the president and secretary were read, showing a prosperous year for the company. the premium receipts exceeding the losses $30,000, and the company's assets exceeding the liabilities $53,000. Universal harmony prevailed among the stockholders at the meeting, and the course of the directors relative to their entire management of the business of the company was fully endorsed, the same board being re-elected almost unanimously, there being but a few scattering votes. The directors are: R. S. Strahn, John Burnett, G. F. Simpson, J. L. Cowan, J. O. Wristman, W. F. Read, Dr. L. Foley, M. Sternberg and J. K. Weatherford. The company is doing a prosperous business and is one of the solid institutions of Albany.

To Meet in Salem.

The third meeting of the convention of Oregon sheriffs will be held in Salem on the 20th of this month. It is a little suggestive that all the sheriffs should be gathered here as soon as the Oregon solons come together, but it is a coincidence, not a necessity. The state board of commerce, composed of delegates from every board of trade in Oregon, is to meet in this city on the 15th. There will be 150 delegates in attendance. Matter pertaining to the appropriation by the legislature for Oregon's display at the Columbian exposition at Chicago, in '93, is the one of the subjects for action by this body. The meeting will be held in the opera house, and the executive committee will come together at the board of trade rooms.—Statesman.

THE OREGON LEGISLATURE.

Candidates for President and Speaker—Gossip About the Session.

The Oregon legislatuse will convene in Salem next Monday. At the capital the air is full of gossip concerning the candidates for the presidency of the senate, speaker of the house, lady clerkships and other positions, while the solons in various portions of the state are making preparations to wend their way toward the capital.

As the session is close at hand the several fat offices in the gift of the legislature are being watched by many wistful eyes, and the aspirants for the honorable positions in the two houses are said to be legion.

The senatorial body consists of thirty members, of which number seven are democrats, and of course the presidency of that body will go to a republican. According to the Salem Statesman the aspirants are Joe Simon of Multnomah; Thos H. Tongue, of Washington; and possibly F. A. Moore, of Columbia, although he is said to be out of the race. Simon will probably be the man, although Tongue has a large following. Concerning the other appointments the Statesman adds: "It begins to look as if the senate's reading clerk would be E. M. Rands, of Clackamas county. Of the sixty members of the house nineteen are democrats, and nine are from Multnomah county. The candidates for the speakership of the house are numerous, several having openly announced themselves as such. G. L. Story of Multnomah, may be mentioned as one, Peter Paquet of Clackamas, is another, A. C. Jennings of Lane, and T. T. Geer, of Marion, are both mentioned, but in the event of Simon's selection to the presidency of the senate the valley will stand no show for the high office in the house, making it incumbent upon that assembly to choose a man from either Eastern or Southern Oregon. There is no available candidate from Eastern Oregon—and anyway nine of the thirteen representatives from Eastern Oregon counties are democrats. Southern Oregon's location will, no doubt, give her the speakership, and that section is prepared for the honor in the person of H B. Miller, of Josephine.

For clerk of the house Robt. Hayes, of Tillamook, and Glen Holman, of Southern Oregon, are in the ring, together with a half dozen others—but of candidates for clerk and assistants there are a score from the several counties, while candidates for the minor offices are numerous.

There seems to be no opposition to Mr. Mitchell for return to Washington as senator from Oregon. His election is assured, with every indication that a very harmonious ballot will settle the question.

The impression has gained ground that this legislature is expected to create a board of railroad commissioners with some power, and candidates for appointment as members of the prospective board are spoken of from many counties.

Petty Theft.

A wheat sack containing a lot of shoes was found by a couple of boys who were playing in the eastern portion of the city yesterday. The shoes were concealed under a trestle on the Southern Pacific railroad, and were assorted sizes of ladies, children and men's shoes evidently having been stolen from some drummer's samples. There is no clue as to the identity of the thief, or as to who was the owner of the shoes.

Government Work at Corvallis.

As a result of the floods of last year a party of engineers have been making a survey of the Willamette river at Corvallis, under instructions of Uncle Sam, with a view of preventing the river from cutting a new channel and leaving the town off of the river, the revetment work heretofore constructed having been washed out. The engineers have completed their work, and will make a report of their findings.

Wilcox will not let any but first-class pictures leave his studio.

WICKED PORTLAND.

It Is Becoming The Home of Celebrities of the Prize Ring.

PORTLAND Jan. 7.—While the Pacific Northwest has produced but few pugilists who have gained national renown in the prize ring, it has always been a favorite locality for men who desire to show their fistic attainments before appreciative audiences and make money at the same time. Without question the greatest specimen of physical perfection produced in the Northwest is Dave Campbell, the Portland boy. And yet no pugilist of even less renown has participated in so few contests. Campbell, who is a perfect Adonis in shape and almost a Hercules in strength, is one of the most scienced sparrers on the coast. San Francisco boxing instructors admit this, and all admire his well-proportioned form, a model of physical symmetry. And yet Dave is accused of lacking the one essential element of successful pugilism—sand. Campbell is 24 years of age, and in fighting trim weighs 165 pounds. His first fight was with Pete Lawler, a man much larger than himself, whom he defeated in one round and a half, in the Mechanics Pavilion at Portland, in the summer of 1885. During the same summer he defeated Jim Riley, in thirteen rounds, London prize-ring rules. The fight took place on an island down the river, and was fought with bare knuckles. In his next match Campbell met a Waterloo. It was his famous fight with Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, in October of the same year. About 3,000 sports went down the river to a small island about 20 miles from Portland. A ring was pitched and several huge bonfires tempered the chilly night air. Nearly all the money (some $15,000) was upon Campbell, and as the men stripped for battle everyone said, "Poor Jack, poor Jack." Dempsey looking like a mere pigmy beside his formidable adversary. Before the end of the third round, however, it was "Poor Dave." Campbell lay in the ring with a broken nose, unable to come to the scratch, and Little Jack was declared the victor. Campbell had come in contract with one of the "Nonpareil's unexpected left-handers. Campbell next went East, and on his return from Philadelphia, where he met all comers for a week, he defeated John P. Clough, who was recently shot and killed in Denver, in six rounds. He trained Dempsey for the middle weight championship fight with the "Marine," and in December '89 fought a hard eight-round draw (?) with Jim Corbett, in the Mechanics Pavilion in Portland. When the Dempsey combination went East last summer, he starred as the heavy weight, and defeated thirty or forty men, among them Pro. Hadley, George Kessler, and Paddy Brennan.

Larry Sullivan is Astoria's pet. He is about 25 years of age, and when in condition weighs from 160 to 165 pounds.

Billy Scott, of Astoria, is a man of about the same age, built and weight as Sullivan, but he lacks the latter's science and endurance.

Tom Ward, of Portland, his first fight in East Portland eight years ago, when he defeated John Ditchburn, now a practicing attorney in Portland, in forty-nine rounds. One other man who suffered defeat at the hands of Ward is Albert Johnson, who gave up the contest at the end of fourteen rounds. Larry Sullivan was defeated by him twice. Ward has left the prize ring, and is now in business in Portland.

Billy Lynn, who at one time was a fighter of considerable note in the Northwest, is at present serving a seven years' sentence in the Walla Walla penitentiary for fatally shooting Jack Mulligan in the Spokesman office at Spokane Falls last winter.

Billy Morgan, now city marshal of East Portland, was somewhat of a prize-ring celebrity seven years ago. It took Tom Manning seventy rounds to defeat him, but he got the best of George Edwards on a barge down the river from Portland in four rounds.

George Kessler, the Montana boy, has added a new feather to his cap through recent fight with La Blanche, which was declared a draw. There is no question but that Kessler had the best of the contest.

A man whose lease of life as a fistic celebrity in the Northwest was very brief is James McClarney, the "Irish Giant," who once defeated Patsy Cardiff in Chicago. He was knocked out by Choynski in the Mechanic's Pavilion, Portland, in two rounds, last January, and has not been heard from since.

East Portland, it must be remembered, is the home of Jack Dempsey. He owns a cosy little cottage here, and when not training for a fight or giving exhibition contests, he enjoys home life with his devoted wife and two lovely children as much as anyone can.

Many pugilists who formerly lived in San Francisco, are now making their homes in the rapidly growing cities of Oregon, Washington and Montana. Among the boys now in Portland are Charlie Gleason, Tebeau, Gus Brown and several others of less renown. In Seattle may be found Con Riordon, Billy Smith, Dell Hawkins, La Blanche, Joe Ellingsworth and Tom Cleary. Pete Shea and Bogan are in Vancouver.

The sporting elements of Helena Seattle, Tacoma and Portland are working for the establishment of Athletic Clubs, similar to those now conducted in San Francisco. Legitimate pugilism will never wholly die out, for it is true that there is some of the spirit of barbarism left in the breast of every man. It was so in Ancient Rome and modern England. It is especially true of the men of our section, nor is it to their shame.

LANE COUNTY LETTER.

Newsy Notes of Interest from the Siuslaw and Elsewhere.

WALTON, Jan. 1 1891.

We are having very pleasant winter weather, but not enough to raise the water in the creeks sufficient to admit a good run of salmon.

Mr Atkinson took his children to see their mother down at Salem. He reports her mental condition as being no better. He says the merchants of Albany make a much better display of goods, having their stores more tastefully decorated, larger stocks and more the appearance of thrift than do the merchants of Salem.

Quite a number of changes have occurred in our mail since my last report. The contract for carrying the mail was let to Bejeddanes & Peterson and then changed from two to three times a week making six mails a week, but now it is back to the old schedule.

John Chastain's little boy was standing with an open knife in his hand when his sister ran against his arm in a way that caused the blade to run into the boy's breast making a very dangerous wound.

Mrs. Wise, who recently settled here from York state is very low with dropsy. No hopes of her recovery are entertained. Her husband, whose finances are very low, to say the least, had the misfortune to lose a box of household goods, weighing 450 pounds, the loss was caused by the carelessness of the Southern Pacific railroad agents. It does look like the railroad officials could keep track of as large a box as that. The agent at Eugene was very insulting and loud spoken when approached on the subject and offered to pay $20 for so small a box—very liberal.

George Peters who had his leg broken and was otherwise injured by a pile of lumber falling on him in the Harrisburg sawmill, has been over to visit his father. Fred Peters, and returned to Harrisburg and it is reported that the jarring of the imperfectly knit bone has been the cause of having his leg amputated since his return to Harrisburg. It appears to have been a very indiscreet piece of business to permit such a trip at such a time.

The Swedish Nightingales.

There is no mistaking the fact that a splendid musical treat is in store for us upon the occasion of the appearance of the National Swedish Ladies' concert on the 15th, instant. En route from the East and since their arrival on the Coast the ladies have met with nothing short of enthusiastic ovations wherever they have sung. Their singing not only delights the people, but arouses the greatest enthusiasm among musicians. It is the only company in the world combining extraordinary natural voices with the most perfect culture. This the cities everywhere recognized at once the praise without limit. Heretofore, we have had to be content with hearing the great singers only when their voices are on the wane, giving us but the remnant of what was once a great pleasure to hear. In the event of the Swedish octette this is reversed, and we are to listen vocalism which will in the near future give its possessors a wide fame. Sweden was the home of the two greatest singers that ever delighted an audience. Here Jenny Lind and Christine Nillson were born. It was from Stockholm they went forth to reflect undying honor upon Sweden. It is from the same place, from the great musical conservatory of Stockholm, supported by the government of Sweden, that the National Swedish Ladies' Company comes. No musical event in the history of our city equals what is promising for Saturday evening. At Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland the company sang to crowded and delighted houses. Let us see to it that the same is done here.
