JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

J. H. Malin went to Portland yesterday. C. W. Ayers went to Ashland last evening. Edward Goin, of Seio, was in the city yesterday. J. C. Litterer makes a specialty of painless dentistry. The "Veteran of 1812" at the opera house Friday evening. C. C. Hogue of Corvallis, came up from Portland last night. J. C. Litterer will make you a set of teeth and not charge for extracting.

Town talk, the quantity of stoves Matthews and Washburn are selling. Phillip Wineman left last evening for California to spend a few months. Superintendent Shaw of the Mill City mills passed down to Salem yesterday.

Wilcox does not make a picture that pleases you, you need look no further. The Mill City saw mill has closed down for a few days rest during the cold weather. Mrs. James Powell, nee Miss Mand Van Horn, went to Portland yesterday for a short visit.

Gas given for painless extraction of teeth, J. C. Litterer, Dentist, Room 15 Tweedale Block. The family of J. E. Whiting, who have been scoured with typhoid fever, are still quite sick. Mrs. Whiting is considerably improved.

Messrs. Wm. M. Hoag and W. H. Nash of the Willamette Valley and Coast railroad, passed through on their way to Salem yesterday. Justice George Humphrey of this city, yesterday was admitted to practice in the courts of Oregon by the supreme court of the state.

W. A. Cox, and family arrived back in Albany yesterday from California. They removed to Oakland for the health of their children but not finding the benefit they expected in that direction they have returned to their home here.

The Tillamook Headlight claims the distinction of having published more land notices than any other paper in the United States. Within the past two years the journal has contained 823 timber land notices, and 330 homestead and pre-emption notices, and the editor challenges the outside world to beat his record.

The Coming Minstrels. Goodyear, Elitch & Schilling's Minstrels will appear at the opera house Tuesday Jan. 20. This is a large and finely equipped company and it is claimed the finest first-class dressed first night in the country. The Minstrel Trio, Royal Court, Walls of silk, plush, velvet and satin draped, and festooned with heavy gold cord and fringes. Comedians representing Monte Cristo jester, vocalists as gay as the peacocks, and the Minstrel Trio, Fisher, the company includes Chas. W. Goodyear, Chas. E. Schilling, America's representative musical artist, Geo. H. Edwards, the quaint comedian formerly with Haverly's Minstrels, Albert Leech a favorite young comedian, Clivette Expert Equilibrist juggler and shadow-graphist makes shadow men, women and animals by the movement of a finger. Brothers Lombor, European athletes. Symonds, Hughes and Rastus, Southern quartette, and dancers. Southern quartette, W. Harvey Huff, Bentley Brothers and a host of others.

The Tresspass Law. A petition has been circulated and generally signed by citizens in the precincts of Halsey, Harrisburg and Brownsville, asking the legislature to amend the tresspass law, so that wild animals can be hunted without interference from the people on that locality complain that the sheep business is badly neglected by owners, and that they can not be hunted down for reason of the tresspass law. The matter will be presented to the legislature for action.

By an Albany Artist. Mr. J. F. Whiting, the well known artist of this city, has finished an oil painting of Mt. Hood that will stand comparison with any of the paintings of Oregon's highest snow-capped peak, and these are many and by noted artists, for this heavy old mountain is a admirable subject for the artist's brush, and it has been pointed out every conceivable standpoint and under many different conditions.

An Oyster Supper. On the adjournment of the city council last evening the newly elected officers and members proposed to give an oyster supper. It was put to a vote to ascertain who should furnish the supper. Councilman W. H. Garrett was unanimously chosen to act as host, and also to foot the bill, which he did with good grace, and the mayor, council and officers partook of a sumptuous oyster banquet at the City restaurant.

Militia Matters. Lieut. O. H. Irvine, Lieut. T. J. Orman and Lieut. James McHargue returned yesterday from Salem, where they went to attend the militia election of the Second Regiment, O. N. G. The promotion of Mr. Irvine to major, in the election of another captain of F Company of this city, he being now lieutenant on the regimental staff.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

LETTER FROM PORTLAND.

The Steamboat Combination—Railroad Matters and Nery Comments.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 10. The weather for the past few days has been clear and sunny, a little cool, just enough to be bracing and healthy, and the wind around the city is inspiring, because activity seems to prevail in almost every branch of industry. The numerous buildings now in course of construction are many of them nearing completion, while other massive structures are daily being laid on stone as their foundations assume the solidity of the everlasting hills that rise above even the minarets and towers of these triumphs of architecture that are rising from a material of the various the grandest kind of concrete arch or colonnade, story upon story until the dizzy height of six, eight or ten stories are reached above the level of the ground above the clutter and din of every day human life. Portland may well be proud of the grand buildings, bridges and street railways. Her bridges, however ought to be free, because they exact a toll so onerous that it is certainly retarding the growth of the city in seeking improvement in its various public utilities to the east. But a consolidation of the east side with the west side in one government may make the free bridge system practical and necessary.

The recent combination entered into by the various street car companies, and owners is creating an emphatic demonstration of disapproval by the people of Astoria, by the citizens along the various routes, and by the public in general, whose interests are in a good and cheap street car service upon the Columbia and tributaries from Portland to the sea. All of the best boats are in the combination but strenuous effort will be made to put on an opponent a boat, and with a well equipped will doubtless prove successful at an early date. Churches and theaters of Portland are pretty well patronized, but people would astonish some of the good people who always attend their church if they could absent themselves for once and observe the vast difference existing in the nightly gatherings at the crowded theaters and the sparse attendance, once or twice a week in the house of worship. Taylor street church and Corvair's theater on Third Street, only one block apart, shows each Sunday evening the tendency of the crowd to press by the church doors and join the throng of eager theater-goers into the brilliantly lighted play house decorated with a momentary pleasure, while the gloomy church stands silent and empty, whose staid social creeds and solemn convocations repulse rather than draw the multitude who are human, and hence are pleased with the natural representations of life's vicissitudes, whether good or bad, virtuous or vile. To make the churches successful they must be made attractive and sympathetic. Bright sermons, interesting lectures and good music will draw the better class of theater goers, and they are the larger and wealthier portion of the theatrical patronage, as close observation will prove.

The prospects for Oregon's prosperity are brighter than ever before if possible. The Union Pacific has paid off its large employees and will go ahead to the South. The Albany & Astoria is moving now; the Southern Pacific is interested in such connection with the sea and the Astoria & South Coast is waiting for reports from London by the engineer who reports it is hoped will be favorable to the loan. On Monday the Oregon legislature convened at Salem, and now will come the tug of war. The election of Mitchell is conceded, but the passage of certain bills and the repeal of others will take up the valuable forty days time of that august body. It is to be hoped that they will accomplish some good in the multitude of their deliberations and give Oregon an equal chance with California and Washington in their effort at financial legislation. Let capital come in competition with capital, which will become more plentiful and make interest correspondingly low, and times will certainly be more prosperous and failures less frequent. M.

Full of Native Modesty.

Some country editors are so modest that it is not strange their sight should be hidden, but Editor Cummins of the Goldendale Courier, had his nose with him when he wrote the following marriage notice: "This important event took place Sunday, December 28, at the residence of the honorable (?) editor's parents. The lady's fortunate to secure the only jewel in the Courier shop was Miss Rose Brune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bruns of Rockland. The nuptial that runs his head into the matrimonial lickerer was some other than himself. We realize the necessity of having some one to brace our cold feet against these cold wintry nights, hence this important step. It's a mighty poor woman, dear readers, that can't support our editor. We thank our many innumerable friends for their congratulations extended, and also for sympathies by our married ones."

A Presidential Office.

The Independence West Side says that "President Robertson informs us that the past two quarters in the postoffice of this city are several dollars ahead of the requirements for a presidential office, consequently next July it will be a presidential office with a salary attached. Nothing better indicates a healthy growth of a town than increasing postoffice business."

Boots and Shoes.

Purchasers of Boots and Shoes bear in mind that big advertisements and offers of big discounts do not always mean best values. You will have to pay some one a profit as no one can do business without expense. The question is who can sell you the best goods for the least money. SAMUEL E. YOUNG.
