Keep the diphtheria from your houses by using Clark's Diphtheria Preventative. For sale by Hulm & Dawson only.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Peters left yesterday for Portland, to visit a few days before returning to their home in California.

Albany's record of building and public improvements during 1891 will be far in excess of last year, and that was a very creditable showing about a million, and a half dollars.

About 200 settlers on unsurveyed lands about Tillamook have sent in applications to have their lands surveyed. It is thought a great deal of surveying will be done the coming summer.

A large plate glass window has been received from Portland to take the place of a broken window in the front of the Linn County National Bank building. The glass was broken by the settling of the building, entailing a loss of about $100.

The winemakers, of Jacksonville and vicinity, are jubilant on account of the defeat of senate bill No. 97, which, if passed, would have prohibited the sale of spirituous, malt or vinous liquors in less than one gallon without first obtaining a license from the county court.

A bill granting the Albany & Astoria Railway Co. right of way through the Grand Ronde Indian reservation has been reported favorably in the United States senate. The building of this road Albany to Astoria would mean much to this city, and it is gratifying to see the active preparations for work going forward.

Dr. E. A. McAlister wishes us to correct the impression conveyed by yesterday morning's paper, that he intended locating elsewhere. He says he intends staying in Albany, and his present trip is simply on account of failing health and he will return as soon as he recovers sufficiently to resume his practice. The family will remain here.

Dr. E. O. Hyde, of Scio, was in the city yesterday, and from him we learn that the Santiam county mass meeting in Scio, did not adopt resolutions asking the senate to reconsider the county division question, but the resolutions were simply a hearty vote of thanks to the house of representatives for formulating and passing the bill. The object was to express genuine thanks to those who had given aid, casting no insinuations against any one, and not asking of the senate what is clearly understood to be an impossibility at this session.

The High Water Mark.

The largest number ever incarcerated in Oregon's state prison is now there, the grand total being raised to 437. The previous high water mark was 333. There seems to be no end of crime, but there seems as the state increases in population it must be expected her number of criminals will keep pace. Superintendent Downing will soon be cramped for quarters in which to accommodate them if the spring rush is as large as usual.

The Santiam Mines.

A gentleman who came in from the mines yesterday states that when he left there were ten men there, but work was about suspended and the mill shut down on account of the snow, which was about eight feet deep. On the ridge coming out it was over twenty feet deep, and still snowing. He brought out a number of rich specimens and will return with the first good weather to remain all summer.

A Card.

Realizing the worth of a reliable preventive for the dreaded disease of diphtheria, we beg to inform the public that we are the sole agents for "Clark's Diphtheria Preventative," the most thorough preventive known. Price only 50 cents per bottle.

HULM & DAWSON, Druggists.

A DISHONEST EMPLOYE.

An Oregon Pacific Agent Who Decamped with Several Hundred Dollars.

One J. M. Madison, who was until recently an employe of the Oregon Pacific railroad, has left the city suddenly taking with him a few hundred dollars belonging to different men of Albany.

He came here from Portland on Dec. 17 last, and secured a position as agent for the Oregon Pacific Co., at Lyonsville. He was afterwards made river agent of the company at this city. He was a competent business man and performed his duties in a satisfactory manner. He boarded at the Exchange hotel with a woman who represented to be his wife. He was of a pleasing address and made a good many friends. He seemed to have plenty of money and bought generously at several stores. He also made several purchases for which he did not pay.

His landlady became suspicious of his actions and believed that he had a quantity of counterfeit money. His wife made preparations to go away and their trunks were all packed up. Mr. Madison, was to stay and settle the bills, but Mrs. Murray, refused to allow the trunks to be taken away until a bill of $29 was paid, and the money was handed over. The couple then left, taking the train for Portland. After they had disappeared it was learned that they had bought a quantity of goods, for which they had not paid.

Among those who were defrauded were: F. M. French, $80; W. F. Read, $40; L. E. Blain, $70; E. C. Searls, $35; H. J. Sower, $17; J. A. Cummings, $12.50 Klein Bros. $7.50; and small amounts at various other places. Mr. Blain and Mr. French were secured by time checks on the Oregon Pacific railroad, and the latter went to Corvallis yesterday to ascertain if they were good.

It is said that when he left the employ of the company he asked to resign as he was ill. He did not neglect to take about $20 of the company's funds, but this amount, it is said, was covered by a small balance of unpaid salary, which will about make him even with the company. He seems to have been a bad lot generally, and the officers are on his track.

Mr. French found at Corvallis that his time check was good and would be paid. Mr. Blain and other creditors have garnished the unpaid wages of the absconding employe, and will recover a part of the amounts due them.

A Luckless Romeo.

A bar-keeper in a down town saloon got gloriously drunk Monday evening and started out to see the city by the glare of the arc and incandescent electric light. He went into the Delmonico restaurant and wanted to fight. Hedrew a revolver, which was taken a way from him. He then started to see his girl, who was a servant girl in a residence on Lyon street. About the witching hour of midnight he proceeded to la Romeo and Juliet. His lady love did not appear on the balcony, however, and the dauntless Romeo attempted to climb up the post of the porch, upon which slats were fastened for some trailing vine. Before he had reached the top the frail lattice work broke down and the unhappy lover was precipitated down where McIntyre went, leaving a healthy section of his trousers hanging upon a strong nail in mid-air. Just then a stern voice demanded to know who he is there, and fearing that some one would take a shot at him he quickly disappeared, and afterwards was helped home by a friend.

Dancing School.

Mr. H. J. Hopkins, who recently returned from the East and at the solicitation of his friends, will open a dancing school in the armory in a short time, beginning perhaps next week. He has had twenty years of experience in this work, and while in Chicago he met the members of the National Association of Teachers and is thoroughly posted in the latest figures and ball-room etiquette. He will combine instructions in polite deportment and elite dancing. One of the attractive figures which will be introduced is the new Oxford minuet, which combines the stateliness of the English and the sprightliness of the American movement. Other new figures will be introduced. The details of hours, terms, etc., will be announced later.

Planting Fruit Trees.

Mr. A. P. Maxwell, a well-to-do farmer of Halsey, was in the city yesterday. He states that a good many farmers in his neighborhood are becoming tired of raising wheat and corn for profit and will turn their attention to fruit growing. He has engaged of the Tangent nursery 8,000 plum trees for himself and others. He will plant out 2,500; Isaac Van Winkle 1,000; Wm. Cross, 2,000; John Standish 1,000; John Laubner 1,000; Caleb Gray 500; Jasper Gulliford 3,000. They will all plant peach and other fruit trees. Mr. Maxwell states that about 100 acres will be planted in fruit this fall in his neighborhood.

Literary Society at Tangent.

The following officers were elected: Charles Howard, chairman; Miss Minnie McGhee, secretary; G. S. Simpson, treasurer; Miss Annie Farrell, critic; O. McFarland, Minnie McGhee, Jessie Hawley, Ben Mills, committee on programme; O. McFarland, Trixie Morgan, Katie Howard, George Simpson, A. J. Olin, committee on music.

At 4 a. m. on Friday morning, the lower part of a boom, at Moyers saw mill gave way and went out, thereby entailing a loss of saw logs, that would amount to 500,000 feet of lumber. This is a heavy loss to Mr. Moyers, and will unless he can fortunately secure more logs, cause a shortage of lumber, in our town the coming season.

Mrs. O. H. Collins, of Red Bluff, Cal., Mrs. G. F. Tucker, of The Dalles, Mrs. W. F. Skiff of Portland; Mrs. E. J. Atkins, of Hillsboro, and Mrs. Ed Warren, of Oregon City, arrived on Wednesday, to visit their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Carpus Sperry and to be present at their 40th wedding anniversary, taking place on Thursday Feb. 12, 1891.

Hope and Death.

The Grant's Pass Courier says: Miss Ollie Lindsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lindsey, was taken suddenly sick Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Devore and Davis were called, who done all in their power to relieve her suffering; but on Monday afternoon about four o'clock the doctors pronounced her dead, caused by congestion of the brain. Arrangements were made for the burial Tuesday at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. L. Frettel conducted the services at the M. E. church South. After the sermon the coffin was uncovered and the friends were passing around to take the last earthly glance at their young friend, several noticed that her cheeks were rosy and her lips red. The hectic flush on her cheeks gave hope that life was not extinct, the bori I was postponed and the body was returned to the residence of her parents. Where anxious friends and relatives have been watching and hoping that she might revive. But on this, Thursday morning, we learn that all hope of returning life has been abandoned, and Ollie will be taken to her last resting place this afternoon.

Snow in Crook County.

The Ochoco Review says that snow has piled up to the depth of two feet in the mountains between Ochoco and Bridge creek. These mountains are the great reservoir for a good portion of Crook county and when there is plenty of snow there, the streams throughout the county are well supplied with water the following summer. If nature will stack up two feet more of snow in these mountains there need be no fear of a drought next season. Last Saturday Prof. Elliott and the editor of the Review visited Willow creek. It seemed like visiting arctic regions, the country over there being covered with snow and the air having a peculiar bracing effect. Although they are having some winter over there, the stockmen are not feeding anything but their poorest animals. Their stock that is in good condition is doing well on the outside range.

Not Eligible.

Senator Cogswell, is accused of having an itching for the vacant judgeship created in his district, but he runs up against the following constitutional provision which plainly says: "No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he may be elected, be eligible to any office, the election to which is vested in the legislative assembly; or shall be appointed to any civil office of profit which shall have been increased during such term, but this latter provision shall not be construed to apply to any officer elective by the people."

THE HORTICULTURAL COMMISSION.

The Fame of Oregon's "Big Red Apples" Ought to be Maintained.

The HERALD has frequently referred to the necessity of maintaining the Oregon horticultural commission, as a means of protecting the fruit interests of the state, notwithstanding the desire on the part of Governor Penney to head this, along with all other state commissioners. A correspondent of the Oregonian upholds the HERALD's views on this question, and says:

The matter of fruit raising is destined soon to become one of the leading industries of Oregon. The combination of soil and climate for the successful propagation and superior growth of all save the citrus fruits, existing within the boundaries of this state cannot be surpassed anywhere. Repeated tests have abundantly proven this statement. Of late years, however, through neglect in proper cultivation of old orchards and want of care in buying young trees, numerous fruit pests have found their way into our midst, and to a large extent threaten destruction to the fruit-growing enterprise. The far-famed Oregon apple, once a thing of beauty and a joy to all who ate thereof, besides being a source of much profit, is now practically a delusion and a snare—a worm-eaten fraud, rotten to the core. To remedy this humiliating state of affairs after widespread agitation for more than a year, and obtaining the best information possible from the experiences of other states along this line, two years ago a law was enacted creating a State Board of Horticulture, an appropriation of $7000 made to defray its expenses for the next two years, and the selection of a thorough-going and practical man from each of the five districts into which the state was subdivided and another from the state at large. The board organized for business as quickly as possible after the adjournment of the legislature and began its work, and has pursued it with vigor up to the present date. The board has made its report, giving a review of its two years' work. Its disbursements show a balance of $1200 on hand. This fact alone shows the character of the men engaged in this taskless but necessary task. Not a dollar has been spent that could be avoided. The business has been managed with the same scrupulous care and fidelity that characterize these gentlemen in the management of their private affairs.

When the astonishing and unexpected opposition to the efforts of the board in many localities where better things were expected is taken into account, the wonder is that so much has been accomplished.

Two years' experience has taught the board that the law governing its action is defective; that the best result cannot be obtained under it, or that it is so defective that said law be amended so that failure in numerous points may not be repeated. Instead of doing this, however, according to the frequent rumors that are afloat, it seems as if the danger was imminent that the board would be abolished, or that no appropriation for the next two years would be voted, which would amount to the same thing to all intents and purposes.

Such a proposition, if seriously entertained in any quarter, is simply monstrous. Words cannot be framed sufficiently strong to adequately denounce it. It is contrary to public interest and the welfare of the state in every respect. The man or men who would for a moment support such a measure, or leave anything undone whereby it might be overruled under an Oregon moss mountain high and there compelled to take out his wretched existence to the end of his days, with no food save salt pork, and without relief to his scurvyed tongue as a punishment, far to mild for one who is such an inexpressible enemy to his kind.

It cannot be possible that the legislature of Oregon will take such a step backward. Notwithstanding the incomprehensible attitude of Senator Veatch, of Lane, towards this measure, it surely must be that the members of that body have to get a sense of what is for the ultimate and lasting of the state, that the board of horticulture at the very outset of its beneficent work.

Burglar's Tools Found.

Mr. I. Beam found lying in his door-yard yesterday morning a kit of tools. They were wrapped in an old silk handkerchief and consisted of a lot of fine steel drills, monkey wrench and other tools. It is supposed the owner of the outfit was pressed for time and had thrown them over into the yard. A gang of this gentry is infesting the Willamette Valley at present and it would be prudent for householders to keep their doors securely locked.

Snow on the Oregon Pacific.

G. F. Simpson went to Mill City yesterday, returning in the evening. From him we learn that the snow at Green Basin is 3 feet 8 inches deep, the total snow fall there up to the present date being about 7 feet. At Mill City it is 8 inches deep, and at Lyon about 4 inches. Nothing has yet been heard from the young man who was lost recently while hunting.

The Oregon Pacific.

The Yaquina Republican is responsible for the following concerning work on the Oregon Pacific railroad: The advance guard has left Albany for the front to get the plan ready for work to commence in earnest by the last of March. We had it from good authority that the railroad will be pushed this summer and all probability will reach the state line before the summer is gone.

He Lost His money.

A Salem boy made 25 cents two weeks ago by going to Sunday school in Portland. A gentleman addressing the Sunday school toward the close of the services, described a family in distress, and referred to the disposition that a little girl had made of a half dollar that had been given her. He offered 25 cents to any child that tell what she did with half dollar.

One boy immediately piped up, "Bought a basket with it."

"But how did you happen to guess that?"

"Give me my quarter please, sir."

"Yes, but first tell me how you could have guessed that."

"Give him the quarter if he guessed it right," sung out other voices in the rear of the room.

"I was in Salem last Sunday, and heard you tell the same story, and he remarked as he pocketed the quarter."

Quick Time to Portland.

The Ashland Valley Record says: A special engine with one coach hurried through for Portland Tuesday. It contained the wife, son and two daughters of Hon. J. B. Montgomery, and they were hurrying from San Francisco to get to his bedside before his death. Coming to Dunsenair on the northbound passenger they procured this special, which made Ashland in three hours and twenty minutes, she went from Ashland to Grants Pass at such a high rate of speed as to create a hot box that nearly ruined the engine and they were delayed there over one hour. It arrived in Portland just twelve hours after leaving Ashland, 3 p. m. Tuesday.

Filling Them In.

The Southern Pacific railroad company have a wholesome aversion for trestles, and are proceeding to reduce them in number as fast as possible. In Southern Oregon they work has commenced and it is said that E. Erickson has received the contract from the Southern Pacific to fill in the trestles between Ashland and Talent and a number of men are at work. The question of whether a cut or a tunnel will be run through the bluffs near the 49 diggings is not yet determined, though a survey and estimates on its probable cost will be made. Erickson will have the Wagner creek trestle all filled in by the middle of March.

The Boston Opera Co.

The Boston Gaiety Opera Co., which has been playing to large and delighted audiences in Portland, will appear at the Albany opera house on Friday and Saturday evenings. The press speaks of them in the most flattering way, and their performance will be the event of the season. Tickets for reserve seats are now on sale at Will & Link's music store.

He Went to the Smoker.

Philadelphia Record.

He was a drummer, and he boarded a train at the Pennsylvania station just as it was about to pull out. There were several vacant seats, but he threw himself into one beside an attractive young woman whom he thought might serve to make the trip a pleasant one.

"I quite forgot to ask your permission," he said.

"That's of no consequence," she replied.

"Thank you very much," he said. "Traveling alone."

"Not entirely," she said, pleasantly. "My brother sits there in the corner, my sister is just back of him there, my husband is in the smoker, and I was saying that seat for my mother, whom I expect will be here in a minute."

"Aw, aw," stammered the drummer; "I think I'll go to the smoker, too."
