Inspecting A Bridge.

The Salem Statesman says that the judge and commissioners of Marion county went to Jefferson Tuesday, where they were joined by the Linn county commissioners and proceeded to the Green bridge that spans the north fork of the Santiam river between the two counties. Their object was to make an examination of the structure, which has been condemned, as being in a dangerous condition. One of the piers is partly washed away. This structure is a covered one and is about 200 feet long. The result of the examination was to decide that the bridge was not unsafe, but to agree upon certain repairs to be made upon it.

Albany Will Play Ball.

At a meeting of the ball players of this city a club was organized with Will H. Cowan manager and Wm. Welch captain. The boys are now raising money to put the grounds in front of the court house in condition, preparatory to a lively baseball season. There is no reason why Albany cannot organize a nine equal to any of the amateurs of the state.

A Recommendation.

The undersigned who has charge of clearing the Albany cemetery grounds of grubbs and other rubbish and ressetting the stones that are out of shape, finds that a great many of the bases that the marble sets on has decayed and crumbled and should be replaced by new ones before Decoration day.

FOR A STEEL BRIDGE

The Calapooia Street Site Selected.

ALBANY WILL HAVE A BRIDGE

The Meeting of the Commissioners and the Joint Committee

THE WORK WELL COMMENCED

The Vote Was for a High Steel Bridge on Calapooia Street, and It Was Made Unanimous.

A free wagon bridge!

It will span the Willamette at Albany!

The question was settled in the affirmative yesterday by the joint committee of the county court, city council and citizens, and the will of the people will be obeyed.

The joint committee, consisting of the mayor and city council, the county judge and county commissioners, and the citizens' committee, met in the county court room yesterday, to hear the report of the engineer, who has finished the survey for the Albany bridge, and to select the site and kind of bridge to be built.

The report of the engineer employed to make the survey, Mr. O. P. Pihl, was read, the substance of which is as follows:

The average stage of water at Calapooia street is 1200 feet, gradually contracting to Ellsworth street, where it is 600, and about the same to the Oregon Pacific bridge. The channel runs close to the south bank of the river at Ellsworth street, while at Calapooia street it is in the center nearly; at Ellsworth street the distance from the north line to First street is 350 feet, at Calapooia street, 750 feet, over double. The high water mark above the sea level is 134 feet. There must be 40 feet above high water and the bridge. The elevation would have to be 177 feet above the sea level. At Ellsworth street it is 136 feet, at Ferry street 137 feet, at Calapooia 139 feet. At Ellsworth street the grade would be 1 in 8.5, at Ferry street, 1 in 10, but at Calapooia street it would be 1 in 19. That 1 in 15 should be the maximum is generally conceded. Therefore, I am compelled to report that Calapooia street is the one possible location for the high bridge.

For a draw bridge the channel span might be thirty feet lower, which would make a site eligible anywhere from Ellsworth street to the Oregon Pacific bridge, without any choice from an engineering standpoint. The foundation would be good at any site. At Calapooia street it could be made perfectly secure by riprapping. A well-built combination bridge is good for thirty years before the wooden members require removal. A steel bridge will last an indefinite time. For a high bridge one through span of 300 feet is recommended over the channel, two deck spans, on the south side of the channel, of 250 and 160 feet, three deck spans on the north side of the channel of 250, 250 and 110 feet; total 1320 feet. Approaches, 300 feet on the south bank, 345 on the north bank; 1965 feet in all. Cost of steel bridge, $99,700; combination, $73,600.

A draw bridge at Ellsworth street would require a draw span of 325 feet, two 70-foot spans on the south side, and two spans on the north side of 250 and 80 feet; 795 feet in all, and approaches, making 1400 feet. Cost, $65,000. The sub-structures to be cylinder concrete pier, resting on grillage, supported by piles cut off close to the bed of the river, to be protected by guards and rip rap; 20 feet in the clear for the bridge and $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet for a sidewalk. Class C has been adopted for proportioning the members, being 70 pounds per square foot for spans of 100 feet, 60 pounds for 100 to 200 feet, 50 pounds for 200 to 300 feet. These plans have been made to conform to the suggestions by Major Handbury.

The report was accompanied by plans more fully explaining it.

Mayor Cowan then moved to adopt the high bridge plan at the Calapooia street site, which was fully discussed.

On motion to adopt the Calapooia street site the vote stood: In favor, Young, Maston, Cowan, Tabler, French, Blackburn; against Hackleman, Burkhart, Garrett, Hawkins, Cooper, Rumbaugh. Six for and six against. An adjournment was then taken until 7:30 o'clock.

THE SITE SELECTED.

At 7:30 the joint committee met in the county court room, and was called to order by the chairman, Judge Blackburn.

Commissioner Rumbaugh stated that since the vote during the day Wm. M. Hoag, of the Oregon Pacific Co., desired to interpose an objection to the location of the bridge on Calapooia street, and that Judge Flinn was present to make a statement. On motion Judge Flinn was given time to make a statement. He said that he would not oppose the location of a bridge at any place, and had simply been requested by Mr. Hoag to state that the Oregon Pacific company was opposed to the Calapooia street site; that it would damage the Oregon Pacific company's property and that he would resist the location on Calapooia street.

Mayor Cowan replied, saying that the proposed location could not injure the Oregon Pacific company's property, and said that the people of Albany wanted a high bridge and did not want a draw bridge, and presented a petition of 140 names asking the committee to select the high bridg. Mayor Cowan moved that the committee proceed to vote on the question of selecting the site.

Councilman C. G. Burkhart moved to adjourn until Tuesday at 9 a. m. The vote to adjourn was lost, the vote standing:

Young, no; Maston, no; Hackleman, yes; Cowan, no; Tabler, no; French, no; Burkhart, yes; Garrett, yes; Hawkins, yes; Cooper, yes; Rumbaugh, yes; Blackburn, no.

The vote to adopt the Calapooia street site was then taken up and resulted as follows:

Young, yes; Maston, yes; Hackleman, no; Cowan, yes; Tabler, yes; French, yes; Burkhart, no; Garrett, yes; Hawkins, no; Cooper, no; Rumbaugh, no; Blackburn, yes.

Garrett in changing his vote said that he had learned that it would cost $2500 or $3000 a year to keep in repair and watch a draw bridge, and he was opposed to it.

The vote stood, yes 7; no 5, and was declared carried.

On motion the vote was made unanimous.

The committee then discussed the question of whether to select a steel or a combination bridge. Commissioner Rumbaugh in a speech full of wisdom, good judgment and public spirit, said he was in favor of a bridge that would be a substantial and permanent structure, and as a representative of the interests of the people he would work to that end. He moved that a steel bridge be built across the river at Albany.

The vote stood 9 to 3 in favor of a steel bridge, Hawkins, Hackleman and Cooper voting against it.

The committee then adjourned.

The county court was backed up in voting for a bridge by a petition 2000 strong from the tax payers from different portions of the county.

The joint committee is to be congratulated on commencing the work in a substantial manner. Such a bridge will be a lasting testimonial of the enterprise and thrift of Albany and Linn county, and will add thousands of dollars to the value of property all over the county, besides largely increasing the volume of business and trade of this city, thus building up the commercial market and metropolis of Linn county and Willamette Valley.

The estimate of the engineer of the cost of the steel bridge is nearly $100,000, but the engineer's estimates are always higher than the contract price, and the cost when the constructor's bids are in will probably be nearer $80,000 than the former figure.

THE WORLD ENRICHED.

The facilities of the present day or the production of everything hat will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time any the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

I had a severe attack of catarrh and became so deaf I could not hear common conversation. I suffered terribly from roaring in my head. I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, and in three weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh, take Ely's Cream Balm and be cured. It is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh.—A. E. Newman, Grayling, Mich.

RAILROAD NEWS.

How Astoria is Reaching Out For Connection.

The Astorian says The railroad survey from Goble to this point down the south bank of the Columbia river approaches completion.

All of the field work about the rocky points and more difficult parts of the whole line has been completed. It is expected that Messrs. McCall and Hammond will have finished up the surveying of the tide flats between Maygers and Westport and about Knappa by Thursday, April 23rd. That will complete the field work.

Engineer Hurlburt it is expected will have finished up a review of the whole line from Goble to Astoria from personal inspection by Saturday, April 25th. Maps and profile of the whole line in triplicate will then be prepared.

There is nothing yet discovered which will cause the estimate to go above one million dollars for the whole line, including clearing and grubbing, earth work, loose rock, soil rock piling, culverts bridges, draws, 60-pound steel rails, spikes, fish plates, laying track ballasting and surveying, not including rolling stock. No tunnel will be required. The maximum curve estimed will not be over 8 degrees. The maximum grade coming westward is one-half of one per cent, Going eastward it may be best to adopt a maximum of one per. cent, grade.

The Alba Heywood Concert.

The Denver Republic speaks in the following terms of the concert company, which will be here on next Saturday: The Alba Heywood Concert company succeeded in pleasing and entertaining a good audience at the Tabor Grand opera house last night. Mr. Alba Heywood who is at the head of the company, gave some impersonations which for humor, originality and novelty have seldom been surpassed by monologue artists in this city. Miss Annie Miller's violin solo was one of the chief features of the concert, and the appreciation of her execution was shown by the encore she received from the audience. Miss Wedgren, the Swedish prima donna, who is not a stranger in Denver, having appeared with the Emma Juch company last spring, has a voice of remarkable strength and sweetness. She has more than fulfilled the promise of her earlier days in singing. Dewey Heywood's flute solo was a gem. He responded to an encore with a selection that was also heartily applauded. Signor Jovine, whose singing was also a popular feature, has a voice of great range and power. He is another member of the company who is not a stranger to many in the audience, he having been one of the Campanini company a few years ago.

FOUR SCORE AND FOUR.

As the 17th of April was Rev. James Pearl's birthday, his friends and relatives gathered at the residence of H. H. Kirk to celebrate the occasion.

There were 180 persons, present, 91 of whom are related to him. The day was taken up with amusements of various natures according to the age and disposition of each individual. A most bountiful dinner was a feature not to be overlooked, and was not overlooked by any one present.

In the afternoon Rev. A. C. Fairchild held a short service during which he made some fitting remarks had the read the appended letter and poem from Rev. P. N. Starr, for many years an intimate friend of Mr. Pearl and family and now suffering from paralysis.

Rev. James Pearl, Halsey, Or. Dear Brother:—To-day you complete your 84th year. I congratulate you on so long and useful a life. You were born in Guernsey county, Ohio, April 17th, 1807. I was born in Guernsey county, Ohio, April 18th, 1825.

A host of friends will assemble to do you honor. To them it will be a day of pleasure, but to you, I apprehend, it will be a day of loneliness; for she who has been by your side on all such former occasions has passed on before, but will look upon the scenes of to-day with unabated interest. For it is not my thoughts that the raptures of heaven are so overpowing that we will forget the struggle through which we have passed or the dear ones left behind. She is waiting your coming, if so will meet in her whitest robes.

In memory of our long association in life and the very high regard I entertain for you the following lines are affectionately dedicated to you.

Yours Truly,
P. M. STARR.

His birthday morn my mind doth wake
To times and scenes now gone before
And to a friend I love with whom I've walked
For thirty years and more
For I am now just sixty-six,
And he four score and four.

When first we met, my locks were [illegible]
And his were white, just sprinkled [illegible]
For I was only thirty-one
And he but eighteen more
But now my age is sixty-six
And his four score and four.

I am glad this life's not all toil and tears,
But many sports for those of sprightly years,
With gun and pouch well filled with shot,
We trod the mountains o'er,
And roasted venison half the night
When I was less than sixty-six
And he four score and four.

We have led the Hosts of Israel out
On many a battle plain,
But always found that victory came
Through the atoning Lamb,
Lamb of Calvary's gore
I who now am sixty-six
And he four score and four.

In the leafy grove in the deep, deep night
We have plead with God for souls just struggling in the light,
We have heard the victory shout
And our hearts the hallelujah war,
I who now am sixty-six
And he four score and four.

We have marched around the camp ground square,
And taken each others hand,
We have wept upon each others neck
And promised to meet in the heavenly land,
Meet on the Golden Shore,
I who now am sixty-six
And he four score and four.

The shadows stretch far o'er the lawn,
For our sun is nearly down,
The time is near when it will be said
That he and I are gone
Gone to return no more,
I who now am sixty-six,
And he four score and four.

Ohio gave our lives
In it we both were born
Oregon will give us graves
Until the resurrection morn,
At the trumpet's blast we'll wake
Wake to sleep no more,
I who now am sixty-six
And he four score and four.

Many people habitually endure a feeling of lassitude, because they think they have to. If they would take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla this feeling of weariness would give place to vigor and vitality.
