Fined for Disturbing a Meeting.

The young men mentioned yesterday morning as having disturbed a religious meeting on the other side of the river, were arrested, taken before a justice and put on trial, resulting in a fine of $10 each and costs.

Died of Appoplexy.

J. Chitwood, who was living with his daughter in Mill City, died on Monday from appoplexy, after a short illness. He was a few days over 60 years of age.

GREAT EXCITEMENT,

Almost a Fatal Accident at Mill City.

Yesterday while returning from the funeral of J. Chitwood, at Mill City, four young men, named respectively Daws, Ludlow, Rice and Shepherd, were crossing in the boat above the dam, after the teams had been taken, when the boat in some manner drifted away from the rope by which it is drawn from one side to the other of the river by pulling hand over hand.

The boys saw that they were bound to go over the dam, and two of them, Daws and Ludlow, jumped for a log. Ludlow reached it and crawled out, but Daws missed it and went over the dam, hitting his shoulder on the protruding brush as he went over, but not injuring him.

He managed to keep on the surface until he reached the body of a driftwood tree, around an extending limb or knot of which he wound his arms and clung for dear life. Every swell of the water immersed him and the tree to which he clung. As soon as possible a rope was procured and the end of it thrown to him, and he wrapped it securely around his arm, and then loosened his hold on the tree, and those on the bank pulled in the rope. Daws lodged against another small log, and the bystanders seeing that he was rapidly losing strength one of them swam out and assisted him around the log and he was hastily pulled on shore more dead than alive, but without any serious injuries, and all right in a few hours.

Meanwhile the boat with the other two boys went over the dam, luckily right side up, and striking the bank in a swirl below the dam, the boys jumped to the shore without even wetting their feet. The boat went on down the river, over the falls at the mill, and lodged in some drift wood just below the railroad bridge.

The incident caused great excitement, and it is simply miraculous that any of the boys escaped with their lives, especially so with Daws.

A Shocking Affair.

The electric light station was the scene of not only one, but a series of shocking incidents on Tuesday evening, last. About 8 o'clock p. m., a party of fifteen or twenty tramps, swooped down on Mr. Goff, the manager, and had he been alone they would, no doubt, have made short work of him.

With the aid of his assistant, Mr. Achison, he defended himself vigorously, and when he had recovered from the first shock of the assault, he discovered that the fifteen or twenty ladies and gentlemen who had possession of the station, were really his friends, who had just dropped in to see if he was "letting his light shine" and attending to his regular duties. As soon as he took in the situation he assumed the position of "nine host" and exhibited his museum of curiosities with that alacrity and grace of manners that assured the visitors a cordial welcome.

Supt. Goff suggested to his friends that if they would join hands and circle round the room, it would add to the beauty of the scene, and aid him in making some experiments. They innocently acceded to his request, when he sent a streak of forked lightning through them all. A shock followed another they decided he was master of the situation and was competent to make a good dancing master.

A general inspection of the station followed. The extent of the improved machinery was a surprise to all. With steam and water power, an accident can hardly deprive the city of light.

The tramps went away with the thought that our electric light station has the best and most improved dynamos, that it is sumptuously neat, brilliantly lighted and well conducted. Albany may be proud of its system of electric lights.

Nearly Empty.

The warehouse at Munker's is nearly empty, but a little more wheat remaining in it. The new crop in that vicinity, however, promises to fill it to the utmost capacity at harvest for they look well. Mr. Munkers, the proprietor of the place, is one of the lucky farmers who has wheat on hand to sell after the prices have advanced. Most of the farmers had sold before the advance.

Will Hold You Up.

Don't be afraid to put your fence posts down below the frost line. An artesian well in Germany has been bored to the depth of 9660 feet, and the drills have not yet reached the lower crust of the earth. There's a solid foundation for even a fat man to prance around on.

Drowning at Coburg.

At Coburg, on Saturday last, the little 18 months'-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler met its death by drowning. In the yard is a pond of water two feet deep, and while playing around this the little one fell in and perished. Some children noticed it struggling in the water but failed to call for assistance.

Presbyterian Sociable.

An observation sociable will be given by the members of the Presbyterian church, at the residence of J. M. Irving, on Friday evening, May 1. All are cordially invited to attend and participate.

Mumps and Measles.

Our neighboring city of Tangent has been having a run on the mumps and measles, nearly everybody is afflicted. There is said 25 or 30 cases of measles in that vicinity now.

BAKER'S FOOD LAW IS DEFECTIVE.

The Omission of One Word Makes It Impossible to Secure a Conviction.

State Food Commissioner W. W. Baker may have to suffer the humiliation of being beaten by a law that he himself was instrumental in framing.

On the 15th of this month Baker swore out a warrant in Justice Wood's court for the arrest of M. Abplanalp, a milkman engaged in the dairy business on the White House road, near Fulton, on a charge of violating the law to prevent the production and sale of unwholesome foods. Baker claimed that the defendant did not give each of his cows 800 cubic feet of air, and that consequently the milk he offered for sale could not be wholesome.

Abplanalp was arrested a few days after the complaint was sworn out, but the case, for various reasons, was continued from time to time and finally it was set for hearing yesterday.

When the case came up, the state showed that each of the defendant's cows had but 205⅓ cubic feet of air; that the stable had but very little ventilation, and that the temperature in the stable was very high.

The defendant's defense was the identical law under which he was being prosecuted. He admitted every proposition claimed by the state, and offered no testimony in rebuttal. The law under which Abplanalp was being prosecuted was section 2 of an act entitled 'an act to prevent the production and sale of unwholesome foods, and to regulate sales of adulterated foods, drinks and medicines," passed by the state legislature during the session of 1888-89, and approved by the governor February 25, 1889. This law repeals chapter XXXVI of Hill's annotated code, and the section referred to reads as follows:

"When cows are kept by any person for dairy purposes, either for butter or cheese, or for the production of milk or cream for sale, and are confined in stables, such cows so confined shall be allowed at least 800 cubic feet of air, and such cows so stabled shall not be confined facing each other, unless there shall be an air tight partition between such cows at least four feet in height, and all stables where such cows are kept shall be well ventilated and kept in a good healthy healthful condition."

The intent of this law no doubt is good, but the loophole is so palpable that it is seen at a glance, and it is doubtful whether it can ever be used for convicting a person guilty of violating its intent. Had the word "each" been inserted after the words "such cows so confined shall be allowed at least 800 cubic feet of air" the law would be all right, but without this it is vague and in all probability will prove entirely inoperative. The state itself showed that Abplanalp's cows had 200 cubic feet of air, and as this is considerable more than the 800 required by law there was clearly no cause for action.

When this defect in the law was pointed out Mr. Baker was surprised as he was nonplussed. He claimed to be the father of the law, and thought it was as perfect as any such law could well be made, for in framing it he incorporated the best features of the different laws bearing on this subject on the statute books of Eastern states.

The case, however, was not decided, for Justice Wood wants to look up other authorities before passing judgment. It is the first case that has been tried under the new law, and considerable interest is attached to it in consequence. The penalty for a violation of the "cubic air" section is a fine not less than $25 nor more than $100, or imprisonment in the county jail for a period not less than thirty days nor more than six months.

If judged by the intent of the law there is no question as to Abplanalp's guilt, but if judged by the letters of the law, no case has been made out against him.—Oregonian.

More Inmates of the Asylum.

The Salem Statesman notes that Mary Flournoy, of Douglas county, committed to the asylum for the insane yesterday, having been brought down by Deputy Sheriff F. W. Dillard. Her age is 23 years and the cause of her insanity is unknown. She refuses to eat, sleep, or drink, swears violently at everybody and everything. It requires a close watch over her both day and night. Chas. J. Cowniah, Glenose, Washington county, was the second arrival. He is a farmer by occupation and is 59 years old. Alcoholism is the direct cause of his mind becoming deranged, and his excessive use of alcohlic drinks was brought on by love. He has curious hallucinations. At times he thinks he has been commissioned to conquer Oregon, as general Grant neglected to do it; again he wanted to whip every body in the town of Hillsboro; and he claims he is Jesus. He is of Indian decent. Deputy Sheriff H. P. Ford and guard escorted him to Dr. Lane's big building. There are now 673 unfortunates incarcerated in this institution.

This Will Be a Good Fruit Season.

That the Willammette Valley will be blessed with an abundance of fruit this season is very potent to the observing. The cherry trees are loaded with blossoms, and it is the same with all kinds of early fruit. Strawberry growers laim the recent rains will insure a large crop of that variety of fruit.

Arrived.

The remains of the child of T. P. Hackleman, that died some months ago in Portland, arrived here for final interment yesterday.

Fine comb honey and salmon bellies at Mueller & Garret's, the leading grocers.

COAST NOTES.

A fifteen year-old Tillamook girl was so determinded last week to get married in spite of her father's opposition that she started to California. Then the father relented, and she wedded the man of her choice.

Seattle recently fired out a couple hundred gamblers and toughs. A majoity of the gang have taken up temporary quarters here. They should be made "move on." Among the lot is a half dozen crooks, who never miss an opportunity to burglarize, and who would steal a saucer of milk from a cat.—Astoria.

Pendleton's militia company is growing and much interest is taken by its members, there being a good attendance at drills. The company is now fifty-three strong, several new members being lately admitted.

La Grand Gazette: La Grande is to be congratulated on the acquisition of ex-State Treasurer Webb and his wife as permanent residents. Mr Webb concluded the purchase last week of Henry Rinehart's place in Grady's addition and will take possession of the same by the first of next month. Mr. Webb is now in Salem looking after some business matters and will return to La Grande in a few days.

The experiment of boring for artesian water at Harney is still continued, the well being now about 350 feet deep. If it proves a success it will be of incalculable benefit to the valley.

The farmers in the vicinity of Prairie City, Grant county, have subscribed a $3,000 bonus for a roller flouring mill and it is now in process of erection. It will have a capacity of fifty barrels.

Shad have commenced to come into the Columbia; they are caught in seines: a few are found in the traps; they run from three to five pounds in weight. The are equal in flavor to the famous Delaware shad.

John Harlan, of Astoria, killed a large gray eagle on the corner of Main street and Klaskanine avenue in that city the other day. The proud bird of freedom was sitting on the apex of a blasted fir when Harlan's rifle brought him down. He measured seven feet seven inches from tip to tip. He will be stuffed and would make a good companion for the elk that goes to Louisville next month.

Wheat is now growing rapidly, as is seen from a sample fourteen inches in height brought in from Stage Gulch Umatilla county. Grain never looked better in that neighborhood, in which a light crop has been raised for several seasons past, and unless appearances are deceitful the harvest out there, and in the entire county, will be exceptionally heavy. With such an evidence of what a rainy season will do for grain the failure of the farmers to take no more interest than they do in the irrigation project now on foot is beyond comprehension. With plenty of water when needed, grain-raising would no longer be an uncertainty. A big yield yearly would be assured.—East Oregonian.

LETTER LIST.

The following is a list of letters remaning in the post office at Albany Or. April 29d 1891, uncalled for: W. S. Ballard, Mrs. W. E. Bolier, Mrs. Peter Gourley, Mrs. F. M. Givenz, Nicholas L. Huettl, Wm. LaMott, Mable Reul, J. R. Robertson, C. N. Wosswick.

What the Bonds Bring.

As Albany is going into the bond business, it might be an item of interest to know how that kind of article stands in the market. The Oregonian says the committee on ways and means yesterday opened bids for the $56,500 of Portland city bonds offered for sale. The bonds bear 5 per cent. and run for ten years. Only two bids were submitted. The Security Savings and Trust company, of this city, offered 97 cents on the dollar, or $54,805 for the lot. The Rollins Investment company, of Denver, bid $52,300 for the lot. A capitalist remarked that he was surprised that so much was bid for 5 per cent bonds, now that there were so many Portland bonds to be put on the market and insurance companies were allowed to deposit mortgages as security instead of bonds. Another capitalist said that notwithstanding the security was all that could be desired, the fact that Portland bonds were to be plentiful had the effect of reducing them in price.

Home-Made Stained Glass.

Imitation stained glass, which may be turned to good account for flower or landscape tablets to be hung before windows, to add, in addition to any attraction of the design, color vivacity to a room, may be executed by covering the glass with a thin film of turpentine and painting on this in varnish colors somewhat thin. The glass is to be placed in a warm, dry place for a few days. The design may be placed beneath the glass or outlined on its face by means of transfer paper and a tracer.—The Ladies Home Journal.

Will Make Rome Howl.

The spring season being so late in opening up, and being overstocked in ladies Oxford ties we will for the next 30 days, sell them at greatly reduced prices. We mean just what we say. Call and get prices. We have over 30 different styles to select from, at Klein Bros. exclusive shoe store.

To Meet the President.

Every man, woman and child should go to meet the president and party; yes, be sure and bring grandma with you, and on your way home leave your orders for everything that's good to eat at Mueller & Garrett's.

CULLED NOTES

The Willamette valley has been considered a grain and fruit growing country, and little devoted to stock raising. But the fact of 195 license to keep stallions having been issued in Marion county during the two years the law has been in force, proves that this part of Oregon is adapted to stock raising.

A woman belonging to the Presbyterian church at Far Rockway, N. Y. has been excommunicated, because, among other indiscretions she wore a bathing suit which was too diminutive for propriety.

Watterson editorially gives notice to New York democrats that hereafter they will have to keep their hands off of the democrats of the West and South, for they "do not mean to stand any more 'd—n nonsense."

A sow belonging to a farmer of Westtown, Chester county, Pa. died a few days ago, leaving six orphans. Upon the death of their parent the farmer filled her place by a big milk bottle with six little hose attachments.

After all, ministers are rather a healthy class of men, notwithstanding the disapointments of small collections. The average age of eighty-four Congregational ministers who died last year is given at 71. This is above the allotted three score and ten years.

The Garfield Enterprise states that because of the increased demand made by Eastern brewers for Washington barley a larger acreage of this grain has been sown this season than ever before. Farmers generally expect a better price for this commodity this fall than they have ever before received.

Having finished the new and handsome court house, citizens of Colfax are looking about to see how they may add still further to the appearance of their town, and have decided that the thing most needed now is a new school building. The plan proposed is to bond the city for $50,000 for this purpose.

Near Ocala, Fla., a few nights ago an engine struck a cow which got a tangled up in the cowcatcher and before the train could be stopped she was dragged 300 yards. When extricated she walked off and soon began to bite grass as if nothing had happened.

The queen of Rarstonga has sent letters of thanks to New Zealand Alliance and other temperance bodies in that colony for their assistance in repelling the attempt to get a repeal of the law of her island prohibiting the importation and sale of intoxicating drinks.

An unusual application for pardon was recently presented to the governor of Georgia from a woman begging for the release of C. C. Weeks, who killed her husband. Weeks is her brother and committed the crime while he and her husband were both drunk. Since he was imprisoned his sister has been caring for his children.

Two new cities have sprung up in the Northwest during the past week. One is on the route of the Great Northern in Flathead valley three miles from Demarsville. Sixty lots were sold the first day, as high as $1200 being paid. The other town is located at the mouth of the Coeur d'Alene river, and has been named Harrison, in honor of the president. The rush to the Coeur d'Alene reservation still continues.

THE WORLD ENRICHED.

The facilities of the present day or the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time any the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

The Latest Alarm.

One of the latest styles of fire alarms is now on trial at No. 1's engine house in this city, but this is nothing compared with the alarmingly low prices to be found at Mueller & Garrett's. The last steamer came loaded down with a large quantity of the best table delicacies, to be sold at the lowest cash figures.

They Are In It.

It will pay you well to call at the corner of Second and Ellsworth streets, at Mueller & Garrett's, where you can find a splendid variety of groceries, vegetables, poultry, etc., for your Sunday dinner. Call early and avoid the rush.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.
