There is a growing impression here that the result of the negotiations now being conducted by Blaine and Sir Julian Pauncefote will be a closed scaling season this year in Behring sea. No definite agreement is likely to be reached or announced until after the return of the president on May 14 or 15. For a novel party the plan is to ake characters from prominent novels for representation. This will give wide scope for originality as most of the costumes would have to be designed by the wearers as seemed to them most appropriate. In this representation the prominent characteristics and ddities of manner of the subject should be imitated. Only characters of marked prominence or peculiarities should be taken. Be fore the readings from the various novels are given it would be inter esting to have each person present make out a guess list in which he will enter the name of the character which he decides each one present has chosen. In order to make out the list it will be permissible for him to talk to any one whom he chooses in regard to whose personation he is in doubt. For instance, if he thinks a certain gentleman has chosen the character of the merchant from how he likes the arrangement of great improvement over the old way, and so on. If he has guessed the right character of course the person addressed will answer his questions and carry on a short conversation on the subject introduced. If he has guessed wrong ris questions will be unintelligible, and he will be informed that

The time given to making out the guess list, which should con-tain not only the name of the character personated, but the name of the book from which it is taken and the author, should be limited from half an hour, accordone appointed to compare them with a correct list.
