Louis Mayer Branks Jail.

A dispatch in the Oregonian gives an account of the escape jul at Dayton, Wash., of Louis alayer, who is well known in Albrey. He was baker for Parker Bros, in this city for a long time and was a member of the Salvation Army. He married a daughter of E. Goin, Following is the dispatch: Louis Mayer, arrested some weeks ago for burglary, confessed his guilt before the superior court and was to be sentenced Thursday. On that morning, when Jailer McCauley took Mayer's breakfast to him in the county jail, he found the prisoner gone, a bent iron rod showing the place of Mayer's exit. Mayer had been locked up since his last escape in one of the Pauly steel cells, and how he escaped is a mystery. The most plansible theory, and one generilly credited now is that when McCauley went to gather up the supper dishes, Mayer slipped out of the cell and went into hiding, then, under cover of night, filed his way out to liberty. He called on his wife and told her a story which is about as above narrated in regard to his escape.

He Likes Corn Bread. An emigrant recently from Kansas took to the Scio Roller Mills several sacks of corn that he had brought all the way from the state famed for grasshoppers, droughts, evelones, farmers alliances, etc. The corn was brought to the mill to be ground into meal, which Mr. Goins, with his old-time knowledge, proceeded to do. The query is whether the emigrant expected a scarcity of food here when he arrived, or whether he had a penchant for "Johnny cake" that he was afraid was not included in an
