The indomitable prejudice and superstition of the Mongolian is exhibited by the attack recently made upon the missions in that country. It is said that the old and absurd charge that foreign missionaries in China kidnap native children and extract their eyes for medicine was actually revived recently, and formed the cause of the fierce attack on the French Catholic mission at Wuhu. Some natives evidently kidnaped two Chinese children and the parents, after vainly demanding their lost offspring at the mission, stirred up the populace until a mob was formed that looted and burned the cathedral and all the mission buildings. Of course indemnity will be demanded and it will be paid by the Chinese government, but the incident is suggestive, as it shows that forty years' intercourse with the foreigner has done comparatively nothing toward removing the senseless Mongolian prejudice against foreigners.

The matter of the tariff on tin-plate advancing the price of that article, the evidence is now in a contrary direction. A firm of London merchants write to the Welch manufacturers as follows: "The best and only countermove to the McKinley Tariff is to reduce and not raise prices. To enable the manufacture of tin plates to be carried on in the United States, with their high ratio of values, a margin of profit must be created, and the object of the new tariff is clearly to provide that margin. Employers and employed in this old country should combine to destroy that artificial margin and not to make it more effective." If the advice of that letter is followed prices on tin-plate will be reduced as will be seen. Where then will the poor laborers tin cup argument come in.

A PECULIAR Italian immigrant was landed in New York last week. The steamship lines are now assisting the officials in excluding improper immigrants, and the examination is strict. This particular individual was passed all right, but the next day he returned and confessed that he had lied, to the question as to whether he had ever been in prison. He now acknowledges that several years ago he had allowed his angry passions to arise and gotten into a fight with another man, for which he was incarcerated two days in jail. It is needless to say that he was allowed to stay, as he promised never to fight any more.

The assertion that it will be necessary to have a national conference, of all of the leading nations, to restore bi-metalism, it is said originates solely with the men, who are still clamoring for a single gold standard. To the unbiased thinker upon the subject there is no apparent reason to hinder this government from controlling its own monetary affairs by making gold and silver equally the standards of the measure of the circulating medium.

OUR new tariff regulations do not seem to have demoralized the export trade to any great extent. Bradstreet notices the fact that for nine months of the present fiscal year our exports of cotton goods have been valued at $8,458,664, or $2,309,849 more than for the same time last year. Two-thirds of this time was under the new regulations so that it is a criterion to go by.

The Salvation army circles in San Francisco are active just now, and on the qui vive, by the arrival of Gen. Booth and his efficient adjutant—his wife—in that city. They are the acknowledged leaders of this peculiar religious denomination.

The attractions at the Worlds Fair at Chicago continue to grow in interest and importance. It is said that the exhibit of the agricultural experiment stations of the United States promises to be not one of the least interesting features of the Chicago exposition. One portion of the proposed exhibit, which will be likely to attract general attention, is an experiment station in operation, with its office, laboratories, etc., illustrating how the indoor work of a station is actually carried on. In another portion of the exhibit each station will present, by means of maps, diagrams, pictures, sets of publications, etc., a full statement of its location, equipment, lines of work, etc., so that the visitor can, if he desires, follow out in detail the history and the work of any particular station.

At Rockford, Ill., the Methodist church passed resolutions to boycott a park and a steamboat called the Arrow because a base ball club, on Sunday, had played in one riding to it in the other. The base ballists retaliated by getting up a boycott on the church which is likely to break up a proposed revival meeting. The use of the devils tools does not always assist church matters.

The Swedish government is fighting to keep their population at home. It is said that 250,000 young men left that country last year for foreign parts. This is a heavy draw upon their most desirable citizens and it behooves them to look after it. That class of citizens, too, is just the ones that this and other countries wish to encourage as immigrants.

CANADA is still discussing the subject of reciprocity with this country, with the evident desire to have it consummated. The advantages to accrue to her in measures of that nature are too evident to be overlooked. Her business requires it.
