WORLD'S FAIR.

The unexampled interest that is being manifested, in all parts of the world, in our approaching World's Fair at Chicago, is indeed very satisfactory. It is said that the wires beneath the sea have been bringing the words of great men in other nations who are ition. All their expressions are kindly and enthusiastic.

indications are that the greatest their inventive genius. gathering of nations ever held will be in Chicago, at the Columbian Exposition.

The Chronicle comments that as the exposition will not open until May, 1893, nearly two years from now, the foreign interest manifested is more than gratifying-it is remarkable. It shows conclusively that Europe will eend us the best of everything she has, and that the World's Columbian Exposition will be all that its name implies.

No other nation in the world is situated so favorably as we are for the purposes of a World's Fair. We are on terms of the most perect amity with every country in the world which has a government, and there is no prospect of such amicable relations being interrupted or interfered with. We are universally respected and admired, our institutions are commended even by nations which would not adopt them, and, most of all, our weight and strength as a nation are fully appreciated. At the same time we must not forget that the exhibits of foreign nations will be made, as a rule, on s strictly business basis. What every country in the world has in mind is the enormous purchasing power of the United States, surpassing that of any other nation. Our visitors will a'l have something to sell, and they have not the slightest prejudice against American money. The world knows, even if our American free traders forget or ignore it, that the United States is the grealest market of the world. We have extended to all nations an invita tion to bring us samples of their wares of every kind, and they will not decline the invitation.

OUR WEALTH OF TIMBER.

Chief Buchanan of the World's Fair commission, has sent out letters to all of the state boards of agriculture advising them as to the design of the proposed forestry building. The building will be about 200 by 500 feet, and will occupy a commanding position on the lake shore. It will be designed to illustrate in its construction and arrangement the forestry wealth of the world. The architecture is of a rustic character and will make a beautiful effect. A feature will be the wide colonnade along the front of the building and across either end. The supporting ecolums of this colonnade will be trunks of trees with the bark on, representing the characteristic woods of the United States. This will not only add to the unique beauty of the structure, but will will make a beautiful effect. A beauty of the structure, but will furnish the states an opportunity to show specimens of their trees. These tree trunks will be twentyfive feet long, about twenty inches in diameter at the base, tapering SPECIFICS gradually to the top. Each trunk will have attached to it a tablet on which will be engraved the name of the state furnishing it, the name of the tree, and the estimate of the quantity of such timber in the state or territory. Chief Buchanan asks each state board of agriculture to send on three of such tree trunks.

Oregon with her wealth of timber, could make a magnificent display in this direction. The only question is will her people do

THE peddler nuisance still flour-peddler an unnecessary appendage. In Chicago they are trying to suppress the nuisance. Several cases of gross assault, as well as many cases of petty theft, have been traced to the peddler, and it is probable that a license law will be passed heavy enough to ru'e these pests out of every big city. Time is too precious in the business district to permit the peddler to flourish, so he is driven to the residence quarter, where he bulldozes women and children if he can get an entrance to the house. There is no excuse for the existence of the peddler in any city. Time was when the peddler was reputable, but now that he can't be distinguished from the tramp it is high time to remove him.
