A MURDERER ARRESTED.

Sheriff Scott Arrests a Man for a Crime Committed in North Carolina.

Sheriff Matt Scott increased his bank account $300 yesterday in a very short space of time. He arrested an escaped murderer, for whom the above reward was offered.

The following telegram was received by Sheriff Scott:

Chicago, July 30, 1891.

D. A. McDougall, alias Jones, is wanted at Lumburgh, North Carolina, for the murder of Simon Conroy, committed April 21, 1891.

The authorities at Lumburgh offer a reward of $500 for his arrest and detention until papers arrive for his extradition.

McDougall is said to be now at Spicer, Linn county, Oregon, going under the name of D. H. McLaurin. His description is 33 years old, 5 feet 10 inches high, light hair and heavy sandy mustache. Since his departure he has dyed his hair black and shaved off his mustache. Gray eyes and complexion light; reasonable weight, 160 pounds, rather medium or spare, straight nose with sharp point; face rather narrow; joints of the feet where the big toes join are unmistakably large, and shoes are made to fit these joints.

Will write you enclosing photos and certified copy of indictment, upon which you can arrest him and then communicate with the authorities at Lumburgh, N. C.

W. A. FISHERS.

Sheriff Scott, went to Spicer yesterday morning after the fugitive from justice, Mr. Scott was standing in the store at that place, when the man came in and promptly arrested him. He made no resistance, but seemed greatly surprised and was visibly affected.

He had been working on a work train on the Oregonian railroad, shoveling gravel. He was brought to Albany and placed in the county jail, where he will await the arrival of the proper authorities from North Carolina to take him back to the scene of the murder and a trial to decide whether or not the deadly blow will encircle his neck.

In a conversation with the sheriff in his cell at the jail McDougall said, after reading the dispatch, "You may tell them to come after me, the description is correct." He has completely broken down since his incarceration. Letters found on his person from his brother indicate that he was a well-to-do and respected citizen. The particulars of the murder cannot be obtained.

Y. M. C. A. Services.

The Gospel service of the Young Men's Christian Association last Sabbath was one of much interest, and it was the general expression of those present that we exert ourselves more than ever to make these meetings of special interest. May we not one and all, rally to the standard and lift high the banner of the cross, lest it drag in the dust of indifference. Shall we not throw aside the excuses that come so easy. Answer, The subject for today's service at 4 o'clock is, "Seven Comes" of the bible. We will look for you, bring a friend, come prepared to take part. Music by male quartette.

A Valuable Invention.

Messrs. D. M. Hastings and L. H. Montague have purchased the right for the Cleveland patent wagon and buggy hub for Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Nevada. It is a new thing and is pronounced the best invention of the kind ever made, being absolutely dust and water proof when placed upon a true spindle. It can be adjusted to every kind of wagon, buggy, cart or other vehicle, and its makers guarantee that when used a vehicle will run 600 miles without oiling. These gentlemen will sell county rights and put the invention upon buggies and wagons in this city. It can be seen at Mr. Montague's law office.

A Correction.

An item in your paper recently about the north bound freight breaking the trestle down at Harrisburg last week, is a false report. The trestle was broken by a large tree falling across the track. The freight was in Albany at the time of the accident.

AN ALBANY PIONEER.

He Talks Concerning Early Days, River Transportation and Other Matters.

Mr. Ashby Pearce, of this city, one of Oregon's earliest pioneers, in a recent interview with the Corvallis Gazette, has talked about river traffic and the early history of this portion of Oregon. He said that the history of early days certainly demonstrates that "competition is the life of trade." Therefore the combined efforts of the residents of the Willamette valley should be turned toward the improvement of the Willamette river so as to make river transportation possible the whole year round, for the navigation of this river was the means of the first reduction in freight rates and is yet the means of making transportation between here and Portland much cheaper than they would otherwise be.

Mr. Pearce was born in Harrison county, Indiana, in 1821, and afterward he removed with his parents to Knox county, Ill. In March 1847, he joined Nathaniel Brown's train and started for Oregon; arriving in Oregon City in the same year. In 1847 he came to Benton County and located on the farm now owned by Caleb Davis, which is some five miles west of this city. He remained until the year 1849, when he went to California in search of gold. He did not remain there but a very short time however, when he returned to Linn county and commenced selling goods for Layton Bros., who were then located in the first frame building ever erected in Albany, and which was 18x18 feet. At the time Corvallis had never been thought of. In August of the same year he became engaged as clerk for the firm of Hill & Hastings, who were then running a store in a log cabin about one mile below where the town of Jefferson now stands, on the Santiam river. In those days all the goods were hauled from Portland with ox teams at a rate of $100 per ton, and in order to get this rate it was necessary to furnish the teams with a load on their return trip, and the modest little sum of $2 per bushel was charged for hauling potatoes from Syracuse to Oregon City, a distance of 65 miles. In September, 1851, Mr. Pearce returned to Albany and bought out the store then owned by J. M. McConnell. In the fall of this year the steamer Cannemah began to navigate the river. This was the first steamer to make the voyage up the river, and with this commenced the reduction in freight rates. The first freight hauled by the Cannemah from Portland to Albany was charged for at the rate of $60 per ton. This was a reduction of $40 per ton over the ox team freight line and the residents in the valley began to look for better times. Other boats were finally put on the river so that in a few years the competition between the boats brought freight down until during the year 1870, by having goods shipped in large lots, it was shipped for $6 per ton. Then came another competing line; the O. & C. railroad was built up the valley and freight was then carried as low as $3 and $4 per ton, and it kept coming down step by step until during the eighties it was carried as low as $1.50 and $2 per ton.

The contrast between the prices paid then and those paid at the present time is certainly wonderful and should furnish conclusive evidence that the more competition there is in transportation the better it is for the public in general.

In speaking of the rules of credit in the early days Mr. Pearce said: "The people in the valley were very poor and needy and my 'bosses' instructed me to credit all and refuse credit to none. In compliance with this order I trusted a small band of Humpnall Indians, who informed me through their interpreter that they would pay for the same 'in three months,' and thus they did like men."

THE GREAT SHOW COMING.

Sells Brothers' Alliance of Attractions on August 19.

We can congratulate all patrons of the circus, which means nearly everybody, upon the coming to Albany on Wednesday, August 13th, of Sells Brothers' Alliance of Attractions, which means we are not only to have one really great show with us the present season, but, in what goes to make up rare variety and recreation for the masses the biggest and best on the road. The progress toward the stupendous made by the Sells Brothers in the past twenty years has been something marvelous. The small show with which they made their famous beginning has grown to be a genuine public institution of the first magnitude, well and favorably known in every section of the country, and everywhere patronized by the best people. It has even more than kept pace with the unparalleled general development, and easily ranks first among tented exhibitions. Its tremendous spread of canvas covers a regal Roman hippodrome, monster menagerie, triple circus, wild animal caravan and Pilgrimage to Mecca, double Olympian stages, royal Japanese troupe, tropical aquarium, aviary, Arabian Nights' Entertainment, and hundreds of exclusively exhibited features, brilliant performers, and startling and ludicrous races and acts. Several huge special trains are required to transport this enormous melange of wonder and fun, and how so much can be exhibited for the one price of admission, is a conundrum we shall not attempt to answer. If the Messrs. Sells can stand it, the public and ourselves will try to do so, and we'll be there, too.

Your school tax will be delinquent if not paid at once. Look after it and save costs of collection.

Notice to Water Consumers.

Water is being wasted to such an extent and so unnecessarily that we are obliged to enforce a strict observance of the rule in regard to hours for sprinkling, viz: From 5 to 9 a. m. and from 10 o'clock p. m. to and caution all users of water to guard against leaks from faucets or other fixtures. The continuous running of water through closets or other fixtures, or permitting hose streams or sprinklers to run all night, will be deemed sufficient cause for shutting the water-off from premises where allowed without further notice.
