HON. JOHN LINN.

The Old Pioneer That Linn County Was Named After is Dead.

The Portland Sunday Mercury is authority for the statement that the town of Latah, Washington, was thrown into great excitement a few days since by the report of the suicide of its respected citizen, John Linn, age 70 years, by the taking of a dose of morphine with suicidal intent.

Mr. Linn has been despondent for some time, and did not seem to take any interest in what was going on around him, and would often shut himself in his room for days at a time, seeing no one and eating scarcely anything, but no one there thought that this fate would overtake him.

Mr. Linn has no near relatives in that part of the country, and where he came from is not known. He went to California in 1842, and not prospering there he moved to this state in 1847. He was highly respected and became one of the prominent men in the section where he lived, and Linn county was named for him.

Five years ago he removed to Latah, and has been a man of prominence ever since. One hundred dollars was found on his person, but what other property he has is not known.

A PIONEER WOMAN.

Died at her residence near Tangent Aug 19, 1891, Mrs. Rebecca Vernon, aged 82 years, 8 months and 24 days. She was born in Tennesee. November 25, 1808. She emigrated to Missouri in an early day. Her maiden name was Greenway. She was married to G. W. Vernon on November 13, 1828 and emigrated to Texas in 1847 and from there to Oregon in 1853. She was the mother of ten children. Her husband and five of the children have preceded to the spirit land.

She was a member of the church of Christ having obeyed her savior in 1837 walked with him for 54 years and died in the triumps of a Christian hope.

"Blessed are the dead that die in the lord, yea saith tae spirit, they do rest from their labors" but their works do follow them. The funeral was preached by Elder Waller to a large audience, after which her body was laid away by the side of her husband to await the reserrection morn.

A. C. V.

Death of Wm McBride.

Wm H. McBride died at his home near Shedd Oregon Aug 19, 1891. He was born in North Carolina A. D. 1814. He came to Oregon in 1865, and with the exception of three years residence in Albany has lived on the place he purchased when he first came came to Linn county. His wife does not survive him, but preceded him some four months. He leaves one son, and three daughters. One daughter lives in Moncole county, Iowa. The other children were present with him and kindly and tenderly administered to his wants during his last illness. He was a man that commanded the respect of the community. He was a member of the United Presbyterian congregation of Willamette and for over thirty years a ruling elder in the United Presbyterian church. He died in the faith of the resurrection. The funeral exercises were conducted by his pastor assisted by Dr. Irvine and Rev. T. J. Wilson. "Them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him."

Accidentally Shot.

Theodore Boswell, a young man who was herding his sheep on the head of Tumalow creek, in the Cascade mountains, says the Ochoco Review, shot himself last week and had died from the effects of the wound. The circumstances connected with the accident, are about as follows: About 3 o'clock Monday afternoon Mr. Boswell sat down on a log, and the pistol he was carrying fell out of scrabbard, striking on the hammer was discharged, the ball striking him in the hip and ranged up through his back, coming out between his shoulders, Mr. Spencer, who was tending camp, found Mr. Boswell about 6 o'clock and did what he could to alleviate the wounded man's sufferings until 11 o'clock, when death came to his relief.

Look at The Brand.

Lood out, says the St. Louis Grocer, for a brand of of salmon pourting to be put up by the "Westport Packing Company," of Westport, Or. There is no such canning combany, and the stuff in the can which came under our observation would disgust a starving vulture. Who is responsible for this outrage we do not know, but we hope the guilty parties will be exposed. It is such stuff as this that is killing the trade in canned goods.

Put Off the Train.

A young man of this city, who attempted on a wager to ride on the Southern Pacific train from this city to Harrisburg and return without a ticket or paying his fare, came to grief yesterday morning. He escaped the notice of the conductor in going, but returning he was spotted and politely asked for his ticket. Not producing it or its equivalent in money he was put off at Shedd, and walked back to Albany, amusing himself counting ties on the way.

OREGON'S ENORMOUS CROPS.

Bulletin Issued for the Week Ending August 22 Shows Big Returns.

Following is bulletin No. 24, issued by Mr. B. S. Pague, of the state weather service, in co-operation with the department of agriculture, for the week ending Aug. 22.

Western Oregon—Rain fell on the night of the 17th, and on the 18th, throughout this section, in amount from .10 to .29 of an inch, except in Joseph and Jackson counties where only a few drops fell. The temperature was below the average in fore part of the week, but rose rapidly towards the close until to-day when it was from 90 to 100 degrees, except along the coast.

The rain did no damage to the grain, but delayed harvesting and threshing for one day. There was some slight benefit in the rain to corn and vegetables. Winter wheat is all cut and most of it threshed; spring grain is being cut. Some smut exists in Douglas and Jackson counties. Grain is yielding better than was expected in every country; 56 bushels per acre from a sixteen acre field is reported from Yamhill county; in Polk county the wheat generally averaged over 30 bushels per acre; most counties have an average yield of from 25 to 35 bushels per acre. The wooly aphis is doing damage to orchards in Yamhill county. The onion crop was injured by lice in Washington county, but as the acreage was increased the total crop will be above the average. Hop growers expect to now gather a very fair average crop. In Douglas, Jackson and Curry counties the first crop of figs are over and the second is now setting. The early peaches are about over and the second crop will be ripe next week, several car loads a day are being shipped from Jackson county. Josephine county is shipping three car loads a day of watermelons. Fruit drying is in progress.

Eastern Oregon—Rain fell in most counties on the 19th, and 20th, varying from a sprinkle to .14 to an inch. The temperature has been above the average and rose, towards the close of the week, until to-day it ranged from 90 to 106 degrees.

There was no damage done by the rain though harvesting operations were delayed for about one-half a day in various localities. Winter wheat is generally all threshed and considerable of the spring sown grain has also been threshed, except east of and south of the Blue mountains. All reports indicate the yield to be above the expectations of the farmers, except in parts of Wasco county, where the hot weather in July did some damage. In some parts of Union county, rust is observable, in this country harvesting operations are just beginning. In Sherman, Morrow and Umatilla counties yields of from 30 to 40 bushels an acre are commonly reported. Fruit and melons are plentiful and large shipments are daily made. Wheat prices have an upward tendency and except contracted wheat, few farmers are selling.

SHE FOUND RIPS.

The Young Wife Was Quite Equal to the Emergency.

There is a young married woman of my acquaintance whose first wifely experience with the needle has resulted in a capital joke on her. She found what appeared to be two immense rips on the inside of the tails of her husband's frock coat and while he was down town she carefully sewed them up. When the young man came home to lunch his wife met him, coat in hand.

"I've just mended it," she said; "there were two awful rips in the tails of it."

"Let me see," said the husband of the industrious young woman.

"I didn't know there was a tear in it."

"Yes, there was; right there."

"But those are the—"

The young man caught the look of innocent doubt on his wife's face and stopped.

"Yes; those were fearful rips; things were getting in them all the time."

And the young man went down to his office and picked out the threads in order to get at his bank book and a few letters that he had in those tail pockets.

All About the Mouth.

Somebody has discovered that the human mouth has a steady motion toward the left of the face which will, in time, bring it somewhere in the neighborhood of the left ear. Man has an invincible tendency to eat only with the teeth that are on the left side of his mouth. This wears out the left teeth more than the right teeth, and this in turn gives the upper and lower jaw an inclination toward the left. It is the opinion of this learned scientific person that in the course of a few million of years the human mouth will have completely changed its position, and will be situated rather nearer to the left ear than to the nose. While no fault can be found to the train of reasoning that has led this scientific person to this conclusion, he would nevertheless possibly find it difficult to explain why the mouth should pause when it reaches the left ear. If the habit of chewing on the left side of the mouth can move it a fourth of the way around the head, it is evident that a continuance of the habit will in time cause the mouth to make a complete circuit of the head. Fortunately we can save our descendants from having mouths at the back of their heads by resolutely eating on the right side as well as the left side of our mouths, but unless we do this persistently the march of the mouth toward the left will continue with all its painful consequences.

OBITUARY.

Died, at her home near this city, Mrs. Clara Taylor, nee Walton, aged 21 years 11 months and 10 days. Sept 4, 1891, she was married to Grant Taylor. She professed saving faith in Jesus Christ and united with the M. E. church in which connection she lived a most exemplary Christian life until August 11, 1891 when the dark winged messsage entered her quiet home and summoned her immortal spirit to join the redeemed in the delights of parsdise. Her heart and purposes were true, and though quiet in manner, yet the peace of her soul flowed like a gentle river, and in her life were beautifully blended the real elements of a pure and noble womanhood. She was a model Christian, wife, and mother and neighbor; at least this was the unbroken verdict of all who knew her.

Her last illness was sudden and unexpected, beginning only the day before her death. All efforts that true affection and love could bestow were freely offered but all to no avail. By her gentle ways she had won a host of friends whose hearts were filled with sorrow by her sudden death. But none can feel so keenly the bitter anguish as the husband, mother, brothers and sisters. You will miss her in the home she made so bright and happy; but God with his healing balm will soothe your wounded hearts and may soon call you to follow your loved one through the valley and shadow of death, and as you near the eternal shore her fair hand will hail you in triumph ascending to the skies; join you at the celestial gates; lead you up the shining way to the highest heavens, and forward through the eternal city to the tree of life where the music of heaven unceasingly rolls. Weep not the parting will not be forever.

Part did I say? We do not part. The River of Death, it is not wide and at our call the loved ones start and slips her bark across the tide. Rev. M. M. Marling conducted the funeral services at the house after which the many friends proceeded to the Baptist cemetry near Browsville where kind hands laid her to rest to await the resurrection of the just.

We extend to the bereaved ones our heartfelt sympathy.

Weep not that her toil is over
Weep not that her race is run
God grant we may rest as calmly
When our work like her's is done,
Till then yield ye with gladness
Your treasure to him to keep
And rejoice in the sweet assurance
He hath given his loved one sleep.

CUSTER'S FATHER.

He Is Still Alive at the Age of Eighty-Four.

A tall, venerable looking man stood upon the platform of the cyclorama of the Battle of the Big Horn at Detroit the other afternoon and gazed long and earnestly upon the canvas. The old man was feeble, and as he leaned upon the ropes for support hot tears coursed down his furrowed cheeks. The other spectators in his vicinity eyed him with mixed looks of sympathy and curiosity.

Presently a small crowd of survivors of the sixth cavalry, which was commanded by Geo. A. Custer during the war, came up the stairs. Just as the cyclorama lecturer began to tell in his monotone how Custer, his brothers, Tom and Boston, and his brother-in-law, Lieutenant Calhoun, had been slaughtered at Big Horn by the Sioux, the old man turned to go, as though the narrative had no special interest for him, when one of the veterans, seizing his hand, exclaimed:

"Why, old man, God bless you." Then, turning to his comrades, he ejaculated, "Boys, this is George A. Custer's father."

Instantly the white-haired patriarch was surrounded by the boys in blue struggling for the privilege of grasping his hand.

"I was with your son," said one, "when he made the raid out of Winchester and broke through Early's lines,"

"I was with him in the First Cavalry," said another, "when Tom, his brother, was shot in the mouth,"

"I remember that engagement vero well," replied the old gentleman. "Tom brought the red necktie home that he wore that day, and I've got it yet. The blood is on it still."

There were tears in the eyes of many of the crowd that saw General Custer's cavalrymen introducing themselves to the general's venerable father, now 84 years old.—Detroit Free Press.

Important to Housekeepers.

It gives Julius Gradwohl great satisfaction in selling his fine Golden Rule teas and baking power, with elegant prizes or without them, that his customers who have purchased invariably and say they are well pleased, that the tea is No. 1 and the baking is as good as the best. All his teas and baking powder bears the name of Julius Gradwohl's Golden Rule Bazaar, and are expressly put up for his business, and he still continues to give with each pound of tea or baking powder an elegant piece of glassware.

Mothers!

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quites pain, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Cassoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35 desses, 35 cents.

FIRE, FIRE, FIRE!!

Are You Ready For the Cry?

There seems to be an error in the statement that only foreign insurance companies lost in the recent Lebanon fire, for one of Julius Gradwhol's companies, the Oakland Home, paid Wednesday to Mr. Bach, the full value of his loss in that company to his entire satisfaction, which seems to be the usual custom of Mr. Gradwhol's companies to pay promptly their full loses as soon as they occur. Therefore if you want to insure your property well go to Mr. Gradwhol, who represents six No. 1 insurance companies with a capital of a hundred million dollars.
