Herr August Aamold gave a very enjoyable violin performance at the opera house last evening. It was under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church. Herr Aamold is a skillful performer and his selections were heartily appreciated by the audience.

The News in Portland.

The Oregonian has this to say of the recent work of the Albany Mining & Milling Company: "Information has been received in Portland that the Albany Mining Company, who are now putting up a ten-stamp quartz mill, with a saw mill attached, made a fine strike last week in the mine at Quartzville, Santiam district. They struck a fine, large body of free milling ore which prospects so well that the company anticipates the old excitement of the White Bull mine, in the same neighborhood, will be seen again, only this time, from superior machinery and management, the excitement will last and not fizzle out as in early days. The mill approaches completion, and will soon be in full operation. Then the result will be patent to all, either that their are four Coeur d'Alenes in the Cascade mountains—Clackamas, Santiam, Blue river and Bohemia—or a number of competent mining experts are sadly mistaken. The proof will come very soon now. As these mines are all tributary to Portland success at Quartzville means much for this city.

Held to Answer.

A tramp sailing under the euphonious name of John Jewsenberry was arraigned in Justice Coshow's court yesterday on a charge of larceny of some clothing from the residence of Frank Gilmour, near Halsey. He was held in $500 bonds to await the action of the grand jury. He was arrested in Portland by Constable C. G. Burkhart. In default of bail he was lodged in the county jail.

Hermann at Corvallis.

Hon. Binger Hermann spent a few hours at Corvallis Wednesday on his way from Yaquina to Portland. He was met at the train by a delegation of citizens, and driven across the river to inspect the revetment works which the citizens are in hopes will receive quite a large appropriation from the next congress. He expressed himself as being very much surprised at the improvment made in Corvallis and vicinity since his last visit. He left on the afternoon train for Independence, and other points along the river, which he intends making an examination of.

THIS OREGON OF OURS.

Giving Eastern Reader a Conception of The Future Greatness of Oregon.

Oregon is not known to her Eastern neighbors, or is her worth, her natural advantages and resources realized or fully appreciated by her own native sons.

A writer in the Athena Press says: "No one state in the Union can compare with Oregon in the varity of resources and commercial advantages. Take any state, or country in America and compare it with Oregon. It is divided into many districts, and has almost as many varities of climate, and products, so in speaking of her climate it must not be considered as general the state over. Western Oregon, the great Willamette valley is often called by tourists "the Italy of America," because of its mild and even temperature, and because most every variety of fruit and vegation grown in semi-tropical regions thrive here.

In a future day the valley will be a contiuous orchard and vineyard its whole length and breath of 30 by 150 miles. In this valley fruits of all kinds attain size and flavor no where else equalled. Prune raising is the most profitable, and there are instances not uncommon where the orchardist realized from $200 to $500 off this fruit. Prunes cannot be successfully grown in any other part of the United States and our whole supply comes from Germany, France and Italy, amounting to millions of dollars yearly. This industry in Oregon is by no means an experiment and neither is there any reason for an over production, if the whole valley were one prune orchard. All other kinds of semi-tropical fruits grow. As Eastern Oregon is of a different climate and nature from that of the Western portion, much of it at present is used for gazing lands, which when watered is prodigous in its yield of the hardier varities of fruit, wheat, vegetables, etc., and the recent session of the legislature has given great encouragement to irrigation companies to develop these now comparatively arid regions. The uplands of Eastern Oregon and many of the valleys cannot be excelled in the production of cereals, 40 and 50 bushels to the acre is not an uncommon yield. The soil of the Eastern portion of the state is ashy and fertile never requiring fertilizers, while that of the Western portion is dark loam evidently in a prehistoric time a coast lake. The two sections are different in every particular. Oregon is rich in agricultural qualities, mining lumbering, fishing, and Oregon's many resources show opportunities for all that cannot be duplicated in any other state in the Union.

HUSTLER SPECIALTIES.

The Popular Farce Said to Bristle With Brilliant Features.

Incorporated in the farcical play of "The Hustler"—which will scintillate on the stage of the Albany opera house next Saturday night is a new line of new, bright and variagated specialties, prominent an ong which are the songs and sparkling witticisms of that master-spirit of Celtic comedy, John Kernell; Gus Mills' inimitable swell songs; the songs, dances and imitations of Barney Reynolds; Mollie Thompson's song and dance, with a somersault accompaniment; the terrific knock-about act of John C. Marr and Lee Harrison; the vocal gymnastics of the handsome Zelma Rawlston, one of the operatic queens of the New York Casino; the songs and character impersonations of the charming Laporte sisters; the singing of the famous "Hustler" male quartette—Leonard Somers, Harry Leighton, Mack Menter and Milo Knill, and the poses and pirouettes of the Parisian Duster Dance contingent, led by M'lle Staccione, the Italian toe-dancer. The three acts of "The Hustler" fairly blaze with vocal and terpsichorean novelties, and the play itself is said to contain more laughs than all the other farce-comedies combined.

The Electrical World.

There is not a more interesting subject before the people at present than that of study of electrical science, and its present application to mechanical appliances. To get a full understanding of this subject it is necessary to procure the latest descriptions and writings about it. One of the best sources of information is the Journal called the "Electrical World," the largest and most complete publication devoted to the subject. It is published at 167-177 Times Building, New York, at $3 per year. Just at present Dr. Bell is writing a series of exhaustive articles that cover the entire ground.

MARKETS AND TRADE

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS PROMISING.

A Review of the Situation Exhibits a Gratifying Showing for the Future—Henry Clew's Letter.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—The upward movement which started in so energetically several weeks ago continued to hold full sway during the early part of the past week, the result being another sharp advance in nearly all the prominent shares; but at this juncture the long-looked-for reaction made its appearance, and the most successful bull campaign seen for many a day was brought temporarily to a halt, and the bears for the first time in five weeks were allowed to take an inning.

When the enormous advance in certain stocks is considered, it is not surprising that the market should receive a setback, but on the other hand to have been able to stand the strain of moving in one direction for such a long period, notwithstanding free realizings from time to time, clearly demonstrates the good quality of the market and the improved condition of affairs brought about by the wonderful crops with which this country has been blessed. With the almost famine crops which are reported in nearly every country than the United States, it is interesting to compare the figures of our last year's crops with the estimated figures of this yea.'s yield:

	1890.	1891.	Increase
Corn,	1,489,970,000	2,040,000,000	540,030,000
Wheat	399,262,000	585,000,000	185,738,000
Oats	523,621,000	700,000,000	176,379,000
Rye	27,140,000	29,000,000	1,860,000

The result is highly gratifying. We have in round numbers, taking the cereals combined, 914 million bushels more than last year; this gives us an exportable surplus of 225 million bushels of wheat, and, in addition, a large quantity of corn. Now turn to Europe and observe the conditions there. With the exception of England (and she is obliged to import 140 million bushels of wheat annually more than she grows) every wheat producing country there is largely deficient in its harvest, and it is estimated that at least 250 million bushels of wheat will be required to cover the shortage. Last year the European rye crop (upon which the poorer classes in such countries as Russia, Germany and Austria subsist) amounted to 1,040 millions, while this year the yield will not be over 640 millions. That the deficiencies abroad exist as stated above, there seems to be no reasonable doubt, and as America is the only country with a large surplus of wheat, Europe must turn to us. Europeans have not been educated to eat our corn, and it has been a matter of comment that our government has never taken any active steps to bring about that result. However, with the large existing shortages abroad corn will have to be accepted for food, and once the experiment is tried, it is not likely to be relinquished, as corn is much more nutritious than either wheat or rye.

The movement of grain at interior points has been very heavy, the receipts showing an increase of 65 per cent over last year. The immediate effect of this is seen in the increased earnings of several railroads, whose statements have lately been published, and suggests some idea of what may be expected in the future, when the movement becomes more general. Another promising feature, in fact the most encouraging sign that has yet appeared, is the announcement that a consignment of $2,500,000 gold has been engaged for shipment to this country from the Continent. It is understood that these are "special" transactions, as the rates of exchange are not yet low enough to admit of gold being imported at a profit. It will be remembered that a great part of the gold recently shipped from this country was taken from us under what was termed "special" transactions. It is highly gratifying, therefore, that the first consignments of the return flow should come back to us under the the same heading. These "special" transactions will probably favor us from now on, and it is expected that the movement to this side will receive a fresh impetus soon, as foreign exchange is becoming heavier each day, and, if continued, will soon be at the gold importing point. Under these circumstances it is not unreasonable to expect that, if not the whole, at least the greater part of the precious metal which was taken away from us will soon find its way back again to its natural resting place.

Taking the situation as a whole, it is certainly favorable to an ultimately higher range of values; but there are several things on the surface which may retard for the time being any futher pronounced upward movement, and which it will not lose sight of. The Union Pacific's affairs still continue to be somewhat tangled; rumors of a receiver, together with a statement that the collaterals held against an uncancelled loan had been thrown on the market by a bank which became impatient at the delay in taking the loan up, have caused that stock to be looked upon again with a little suspicion both at home and abroad. Another thing to be watched is the statements issued by the Bank of England as having a bearing on the future condition of affairs across the water. This weeks statement shows that the proportion of reserve to liability has declined from 45 77 last week to 45 28 this week, and that the decrease in the reserve for that peoriod ammounted to £395,000. These in themselves have no especial significance, as the reserve is still slightly above last year; but it should not be forgotten that the old country will soon be called upon to disgorge a large amount of the gold which she so ruthlessly took from us, and when that happens her reserves will naturally decrease. In view of this, the Bank of England's governors are likely to advance their rates of discount soon, which will naturally have the effect of making money dearer abroad, and consequently more difficulty for the foreigners to carry our stocks, which at present they have a good supply of. The factor, however, of more importance than any other at the present time, as it is the one calculated to do the most mischief if developed, is the cold weather in the Northwest, which seems to be moving in several directions and which may yet do serious injury to some portions of the corn crop, as it will be two or three weeks before all corn will be out of danger from frost. As before stated, the situtation as a whole has a promising look for the future. But while these somewhat uncertain factors are hovering over the market it will be well to move cautiously, and when good profits make their appearence it will be advisable to secure them. The market is likely to show more activity from now, especially as the leading "bear" will soon be home to take a hand in the game. Good opportunites, therefore, will be afford for quick turns.

NEW TO-DAY.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY AGO

There settled in Baker county, Oregon, near what is now Baker City, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the county. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not move without the use of a cane. Hearing, through a friend, of the wonderful cures effort by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before using half the contents of the box the pains in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for anything."

Oregon Kidney Tea cures headache, incontinence of urine, brick dust sediment, burning or painful sensation while urinating, and all affections of the kidneys or urinary organs of either sex.
