Housekeepers are invited to give the product of his new oven a trial.

For a Valley League. Manager Moorehouse of the Albanians and Manager Minto, of the Salem base ball clubs are making a determined effort to organize a valley league for next season. They should be given encouragement as an organization of this kind would not only be a splendid advertisement to the respective cities, but an interest would be created and it would give us a metropolitan air. Besides it is refreshing to see a good game of ball and to this heretofore one had to go to Portland or Salem. To make it success Albany, Salem, Eugene and Corvallis, or Albina would have to go into it. These cities could maintain a lively league. The Statesman says with no league in the valley there will be no Salem team next year.

An Explanation. The Southern Pacific Railroad company's reduced rate tickets to the Mechanics' fair are sold only on Mondays and Wednesdays and Fridays. The tickets are not good on the overland trains going, but are good for return on any train.

A Popular Seaside Resort.

Newport on Yaquina Bay is fast becoming one of the most popular seaside resorts of the Pacific Northwest. Another year will show a large increase in the number that will flock to that place to spend vacation. A number of cottages will be built before next summer for the accommodation of the public, and altogether the little city will be greatly improved.

The Work at Yaquina.

A dispatch from Newport says that the government work on the jetty is still going forward with about $80,000 to carry them to the next appropriation. A hard rock is being hauled from the north side, but it is hoped they will soon pass the reef and find soft rock again. In a few days they will be depositing rock on the south jetty, as the hoisting works are nearly ready for business.

Corner Stone Laying.

On Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. the corner stone of the new Evangelical church at Jefferson, Oregon, will be laid. Rev. I. B. Fisher being absent Rev. L. S. Fisher of this city assisted by several other ministers of the district, will officiate. When this church is completed it will be one of the finest churches of the Evangelical Association in Marion Co.

LOOK AFTER THE CHILDREN.

This is the Most Important and Essential Subject to Consider.

The paradise of childhood. What, and where is it? To answer these questions first, we would answer, "In every intelligent community where its benefits and blessings are understood." To the second query we would reply, "That is, as its name indicates, a place where children are always happy and therefore good because a good child is always a happy one." Let us pause a moment and find out right here the cause of the so-called "naughtiness" in children. Is it not that restless activity caused by the awakening faculties of the mind reaching out for something to lay hold of? When the "wee" one is hungry, we see to it that he has his proper nourishment. What of the hungry mind and soul? This place then fills the wants of the awakening mind and soul, and hence the contentment of the children.

How stupid we are with all our boasted wisdom. We furnish the farmer with every needed implement to cultivate the soil and all manner of seeds to plant, after the ground has been thoroughly tilled. But what say you to such a man who, after having been thus provided, takes a handful of seeds and throws them over the land not having first prepared the soil? Could he expect much of a harvest? Would not the general verdict be, that he lacked in common sense as well as a knowledge of his business. Perhaps someone laughs at this picture. What better are we than this foolish husbandman, if we expect from the man grown a sound body together with a logical, well balanced mind and a grand soul, if we have not first thoroughly tilled that wonderfully fertile soil, the child's mind. What a susceptible thing it is. So plastic; taking in all sorts of impressions that afterwards harden into character. The age from three to seven is the period when the greatest care should be exercised. One has said, "Give me the child, the state can have the man." This is the time to arouse the curiosity, to guide the imagination, to direct observation things outside of itself to the great book of nature, for it is this volume the child should study before the training of the body and soul which must go on at the same time in order to form a well rounded character. When a little one has been thus prepared all study ever after becomes a delightful development instead of the drudgery it so often is. But I hear some practical mother or educator say, "This is all good, fine theory, but where will we find such a place for our little ones, where we will not send them to get 'rid' of them during the 'troublesome' period before school age, but in full sympathy with their happy 'wee' ones, and in that purity and goodness which God intended for them? It has been truly said there is never a problem without a solution. So thought Friedrich Troebel, that apostle of childhood, who gave himself a whole life to the cause in order that childhood might be emancipated through him. Many years of struggle for his beloved plans at last brought into existence the kindergarten (or child garden). Froebel looked toward America for the first fruit of his plans, and grandly, has his noble dream been realized, although all over Europe to-day we find these childgardens, still it is in this country where Froebel's principles are best interpreted. Educators all over our land are recognizing the necessity of engrafting the kindergarten work. Says U. S. Commissioner of Education W. T. Harris: "The kindergarten is the grandest system of education ever devised by man. This system is spreading over our country like a great wave, carrying joy to countless little ones, and garden of human plants—well, then the gardener must have a care not to treat all plants alike. Some vines will climb, while others are content to creep quietly along the border, or shall be reared at the modest vine, because she modestly hides herself beneath the leaves and does not turn to the sun as the brazen sunflower does. No, each in itself is perfect, for God has made them so. Great care, too, must be had that no noxious insect infest this garden, else the growth might be retarded. With the best of intentions great harm might be done. The kindergarten must strive with the aid of the mothers to assist the divine husbandman, and not to mar his work. Was not our blessed Lord the first and greatest lesson teacher in kindergarten. When He said 'consider the lilies how they grow,' etc. If one thinks this work would be hard let him remember the 'in as much' of our Master, and go bravely on. Albany is a town full of good things and yet it lacks the work of this kind. And while the writer's heart goes out to all little ones in a good free kindergarten it takes time and money to establish such a work on a permanent basis. There is at present a demand for a private work of this kind. But to warrant the outlay for genuine kindergarten a pledge of at least 15 or 20 pupils is necessary. A postal card sent to the address below for information regarding date of opening tuition, etc., will be attended to and may hasten the opening of such a work. Mrs. EMMA TATLUM, Albany, Oregon.

Hon. Wallis Nash, secretary of the Board of Regents of the state Agriculture college at Corvallis was in the city yesterday.

NEW TO-DAY.

QUARTER OF A CENTURY

There set forth in this book the history of the quarter of a century ago, most of the people who have since become identified with the progress and development of that country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the country. In a recent letter he says "I had been suffering from pains in my back and general kidney complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any but temporary relief. The pains in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not live without the use of a cane. Hearing through a friend, of the wonderful cure effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before a long time entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. I would not be without it for any thing."

Oregon Kidney Tea cures headache, inflammation of the eye, back and chest pain, neuralgia, rheumatism, and all affections of the kidney or urinary organs of either sex.

Castoria is recommended by physicians for children teething. It is a purely vegetable preparation, its ingredients are published around each bottle. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, regulates the bowels, quiets pain, cures diarrhoea and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mothers' friend. 35¢ a box, 35¢ cents.
