A DRAMATIC TREAT.

Joseph Grismer and Phoebe Davies at the Opera House Friday, Oct. 9th. At the Albany Opera House next Friday night Oct. 9th, Joseph Grismer and Phoebe Davies will give a presentation of the picturesque military drama "Beacon Lights." The mere announcement of the coming should be sufficient to insure a crowded house for them. There are none among those who come to Albany who are greater favorites, and they do much to deserve the favor which is accorded them. Mr. Grismer is an excellent actor, trained in a good school and effective in his methods. Everyone knows and admires the work of Mr. Grismer's wife, charming Phoebe Davies. She is one of the sweetest women on the stage and shares the honors with Mr. Grismer in his productions. Another claim which Mr. Grismer has upon our theatre goes in for the uniform excellence at which he maintains his company. He does not give himself and Miss Davies undue prominence, but a performance which in its entirety shall be a worthy one.

SCENE IN BEACON LIGHTS. ACT II.

Speaking of "Beacon Lights," the San Francisco Chronicle says: "Beacon Lights was selected as Mr. Grismer's opening play at the Alcazar Theatre mainly because it affords Phoebe Davies a character she can play to the delight of the audience. 'Carrie Colburn' is a wild-eyed, impulsive and fascinating little backwoods maiden, vibrating between laughter and tears, and hardly out of the one before she is in the other. The part is brightly written, and Miss Davies makes it the figure of the drama. Mr. Grismer as 'Captain William Allen,' a young officer who has seen the world, and Captain Allen's courtship of the rustic maiden, is in the tantalizing fashion 'Eliot Grey' originated in Rosedale. There is a strong story developed in which 'Myra Haynes' and her child are captured by smugglers and rescued by 'Captain William Allen' in an altogether possible and very effective manner. The fourth act is a striking example of what effect can be gotten out of a well arranged situation. The tableau of the soldiers at the end of the act, receives a half dozen recalls. The last act is really the best constructed, dramatically, as well as in the clever dialogue of the whole play, and always dismisses the audience with the conviction of having seen a very strong play very well played. The sale of reserved seats will open at Will & Link's music store to-morrow morning at 9 a. m.

Death of Ephraim Turner.

Mr. Ephraim Turner, an Oregon pioneer, died at his home near this city at 2 o'clock Friday night from the result of a stroke of paralysis, which occurred several days ago. He was born in Howard county, Missouri on Aug. 17, 1821, and was consequently 70 years of age. He was married to Miss Angeline R. Turner on Aug. 17, 1842, and crossed the plains in 1846, coming to Oregon and settling near Albany, where he has since resided. He was the father of 13 children, eleven of whom, eight sons and three daughters, are living. His wife died on Feb. 19, 1890, and on his 70th birthday, Aug. 17 last, he was again married to Rebecca Gold at the home of his childhood in Missouri. They returned to his home here a few weeks later. The funeral will occur from his late residence near Albany at 9:30 to-day. The funeral sermon will be preached by Rev. S. G. Irvine. The burial services will be conducted by the Masonic order of which he was a member, at the Masonic cemetery at 12:00. He was a man of upright character and determined purpose, and had acquired a comfortable fortune. By his death the community loses a respected citizen. Masons are requested to assemble at the Masonic temple at 11 o'clock sharp and proceed to the cemetery at 11:45 to attend the burial ceremonies. A Midnight Prowler. A well known gentleman who resides on a farm between Albany and Langdon was in this city attending lodge Friday night, when about 8 o'clock a noise was heard outside. The hired man went out and saw a man raise up from beneath a window and run away and conceal himself in a corn patch. The hired man took a gun and made his way noiselessly into the corn patch, and after waiting a couple of hours beheld his man get up and start away. He called to him to stop and on his refusing to do so, shot at him, but missed him. It is not exactly known what the prowler wanted and he was lucky to escape with his skin whole. He will hereafter probably be a citizen of the State, as the peaceable citizen as this one will hereafter be "loaded for bear," should a repetition of such conduct be made. There is a strong suspicion as to who the party was, and his identity, which may become known before long.

The running of the special trains from Ashland to Central Point during the fair cost the fair management $400 for the four days, as the railroad would not run the train as it own venture, but retained the recreational board to charter it outright. It was a good thing for the board to do, however, and helped out the attendance very largely, for the early morning freight north from Ashland having been suspended, left no train accommodations whatever for the people south of the fair grounds. QUARTER OF A CENTURY ago, a man who has since become identified with the resources and development of this country. This man is no other than Mr. John Stewart, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens in the country. In a recent letter he says: "I had been suffering from pain in my back and general aching complaint for some time, and had used many remedies without any temporary relief. The pain in my back had become so severe that I was prevented from attending to my work and could not move with the use of a cane. Hearing, through a friend, of the wonderful cure effected by Oregon Kidney Tea, I was induced to try a box, and from that very first dose I found instant relief, and before a box had been consumed the pain in my back entirely disappeared. I have every faith in the virtues of the Oregon Kidney Tea, and am conscientiously recommending it to my friends. I would not be without it for any thing." Oregon Kidney Tea cures headache, indigestion, neuralgia, backache, burning of painful urination while urinating, and all affections of the kidney or urinary organs of either sex.
