E. J. Kaiser, editor of the Ashland Valley Record who has been in Portland stopped over in Albany on his way home yesterday. His own paper this week says: "The Albany team, assisted by the Germany upon his countenance, who will register 'Kaiser' in Portland this week, is not Kaiser Wilhelm but E. J. Kaiser of the Valley Record, and he visits the metropolis to make in the exposition and see what is worth looking at in the city."

VALUABLE COAL DISCOVERY.

The Toledo Mine Promises to Develop into a Magnificent Industry.

Call Van Cleave, of the Toledo Coal Mining Co., was in the city yesterday. He says the company has reached a large body of good coal which he is confident is a fortune for its owners. The vein he says is eight feet thick and thousands of tons of a fine grade of coal lie in sight. Some prominent Albany business men are in the company and they are putting in machinery to work the mines. They will begin to take out coal next week, and if this coal discovery is as good as claimed for it will prove one of the valuable industries of Oregon. A good paying coal mine is what has long been sought in this state, and if it has been discovered at Toledo, as it seems has been done, it will prove a bonanza.

A SUPPOSED CASE OF LEPROSY.

A Supposed Case of Leprosy is Reported in Lane County.

J. H. Balscock, who lives in the McKinzie bridge precinct, is to be examined on the charge of being afflicted with the leprosy, on complaint of the people of that section. Balscock came to Lane county, about one year ago from Salem, and has been treated by Dr. Paine since that time. He has a timber homestead claim in McKinzie precinct, a lot in Eugene, and about $3,000 worth of property in Salem.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

One of the six farmers' institutes that are held during the year under the auspices of the State Agricultural College will convene at Harrisburg in the last week of Oct. or first of Nov. We trust that our citizens and all farmers, in this neighborhood will be on hand to meet the affair with their presence, and by papers and discussions make the meeting interesting and instructive. It has been found that the institutes, which are for farmers especially, are the very best means of spreading agricultural knowledge; they form a medium of exchange between professors and farmers where topics of practical interest are discussed and many valuable facts added to the knowledge of all participants. These meetings are of course free to all, and to the citizens as well as the farmer a cordial invitation is extended to earnestly to be present and help the cause with statements of his practical experience.

Four professors from the college will be present at this institute. Many of our farmer citizens have already kindly consented to prepare papers, and good music has been most generously promised. Some of the subjects which will be discussed are: Rotation of Crops; Hop Raising in Linn County; Some Common Weeds; Breeds of Hogs and the Proper Care of Pork; Silo and Ensilage, etc., besides other papers of more general interest. It is the object of the institute to offer topics of interest to housekeeper as well as to the farmer, and we trust that our lady citizens and farmers' wives will be present at the various sessions. It is a great attraction and a very appropriate one to have displays of vegetables and fruits, grain, live stock, etc., made at these institutes, and it would be interesting and instructive to see specimens of canned fruit, butter, etc., and to have the makers of the same relate any special method they may use in preparation of the same.

Mrs. Damon Smith, Sam May, J. F. Hendrix, M. Fuller, and G. W. Isham have been appointed as local committee on arrangements.—Courier.

About Free Postal Delivery.

The Albany Herald advocates the establishment of a free postal delivery system in that city, apparently forgetting the fact that the coveted privileges are only conferred upon cities where postal sales and cancellations reach a certain figure.—Astorian. In this statement the Astorian is in error. Albany's postoffice business has reached a required figure entitling this city to free postal delivery, or at least the postoffice receipts an considerably longer than some other Oregon cities which already have free delivery.

Appreciated at Lebanon.

The Lebanon Daily Effort has this to say of a well known Albany firm: E. L. Quinn, one of the most practical cornice makers on the coast is the gentleman who is putting the cornice on our new Lebanon Bank, it is work worthy of inspection and deserves mention and is a credit to the firm which Mr. Quinn is an employe, they are Hopkins Bros., of Albany, one of the largest hardware firms in our state and have a large patronage, and are a firm worthy of mention. They have a large and well filled store in Albany.

Special Announcement.

The dancing academy so well managed last winter under the direction of Mr. H. J. Hopkins will be reopened for the season of 1891 at the opera house, next Friday evening Oct. 23, at 8 o'clock, unless otherwise announced. Pupils desirous of attending will please be present on that date. The latest and most popular dances will be introduced and all instruction guaranteed first-class.

The public are invited to attend services to-day at the Christian church, corner of 5th and Jackson streets. The theme for 11 a. m. will be "Bearing the Yoke." At 7:30 the pastor will begin a series of discourses on the Bible illustrated by charts. Strangers in the city will be welcome. Seats are free.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS.

LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY. The play a treat, and Georgia Cooper a gem.

A laddie small, with big bright eyes, A mop of curly tresses, A sweet face, a bonnie boy, For kisses and caresses, With childish love for sports and fun, Opinions fixed, emphatic, An early young heart, with wealth and name, But strictly democratic.

A tender, little pitying heart, A loyal, fast devotion To early friends—a clinging trust That reaches over the ocean, A sweet child-nature, fresh-unspoiled, For love and trust appealing, An earnest, grave philosopher, Quiet views of life revealing, A sunny, bright and happy lad, An old man's pride and pleasure, A nest on whom the warmest love Is lavished without measure.

This is our young Lord Fauntleroy, Round whom such fortunes hover, And yet whose sweetest, truest name Is the "Dearest" little love.

Get the above out and have your little ones at home commit it to memory, and don't fail to attend on Wednesday evening next, at the opera house for one night only. Little Lord Fauntleroy is preached from the pulpit. Praised by the press. Reserved seats selling fast at Will & Link's music store. Popular prices.

The Sale and Races.

About 600 people assembled at McKnight Bro's farm near Tallman, this county, yesterday to witness the sale and races of horses. About twenty-three horses and colts were sold at prices ranging from $75 to $100. In the trotting race Charles Burkhardt's horse was first, Clarence Edwards' second and Mark Hilburt's third. A horse entered by George McKnight received no time. The best time made was 3:11.

Business Change. Mr. F. E. Allen has purchased of Blodgett & Son their grocery store in this city, and will at once assume charge of the business. Mr. Allen is an energetic business man and will doubtless do well. Mr. Blodgett, who is well known here, will remain in Albany.

The Weather To-Day. Following is the forecast of the signal service for the next twenty-four hours: Warmer; fair weather.

Mrs. Bessie Hicks and daughter, of Portland, is visiting at the residence of Chas. Kieffer in this city.

Reinhold Harris, the Walls Walls butcher, was riding along the road from Pendleton when his horse shied against a barb wire fence. Reinhold's leg was terribly cut, just missing the main artery. The wounds are so severe that it will be several months before he can walk.

William Bolin, of Brownsville, was showing George Keeney, his pistol and telling him how safe it was, when the weapon accidentally discharged, the bullet breaking the middle finger of his left hand. The finger was amputated about half way between the knuckle and the second joint.
