Township Maps.

The Linn County Abstract Company is making a fine set of township maps for the county, showing the present ownership of all lands in the county. It will be a valuable work and will save considerable money to the county in bringing to light property that has heretofore escaped assessment. It will be complete in every way, and has already shown the existence of several small strips of land between farms in the settled portion of the county that are vacant. The company expects at a later date to make a complete set of township maps for the county showing the original occupancy of all land in the county.

THE UNITED PRESBYTERIANS.

Proceedings of Thursday-Meeting of the Synod Last Evening.

The Presbytery met yesterday morning at 9 a. m. for a business session. The moderator, Rev. A. W. Spaulding, of Spokane, occupied the chair. Rev. Fisher, of the Evangelical church, Rev. Prichard, of the Presbyterian church, Rev. Crabbe, of Los Angeles, and Rev. Dr. Gibson, of San Francisco, were invited to the courtesy of the floor.

Presbytery decided to ask the board of home missions for a Presbyterial missionary to labor in its bounds. Considerable routine business was transacted. At noon the ladies of the Albany congregation served a most bountiful lunch to the members of the Presbytery, at the residence of Mrs. Walter Monteith. The members of Presbytery sustained their reputation as good eaters.

At the afternoon session the question of a division of Presbytery was earnestly discussed. The matter was reported favorably by the committee in charge of it, but after considerable argument pro and con, it was recommitted. The committee on Waitsburg Academy presented a very encouraging report concerning the condition of that institution.

At 3 p. m. a conference was held on the condition of the Presbytery's work. Reports from the different fields were uniformly encouraging. From some of the fields the reports showed very remarkable success.

At 7:30 o'clock the Synod of the Pacific met. The attendance at Synod is very small. The Presbytery of San Francisco is represented by one minister and one lay delegate, only, and Los Angeles by only one minister. It is probable that this will be the last meeting until Synod is divided.

The opening sermon was preached by the retiring moderator, the Rev. W. W. Logan, of Portland. His theme was "The Evangelization of America." It was an earnest plea for home mission work.

APPLIQUED WITH LEPROSY.

A Genuine Case Developed in Lane County But is Isolated.

Eugene Register: J. H. Babcock, who lives up the McKenzie, is supposed to be afflicted with leprosy, and his neighbors have made complaint against him, fearing they will take the dreadful disease if he is not removed. Babcock spent some time in this city about a year ago, at that time it was thought that he had leprosy and on the advice of his physician he went up the McKenzie and took up a claim and has since lived there. When in this city his face was covered with pox marks and now is broken out with sores. Dr. Paine was sent up Monday to examine the man.

Speaking of the same matter the Eugene Guard says: Dr. D. A. Paine arrived last evening from McKenzie precinct, about 50 miles east of Eugene, where he had been for the purpose of examining into the condition of one, J. H. Babcock, who was charged by his neighbor with being afflicted with the incurable disease, leprosy. He was assisted by Dr. J. H. Barr, of the Foley Springs. After a thorough examination, it was determined beyond doubt that he was afflicted with the disease. The sores have broken out and are now running.

Dr. Paine made arrangements for his complete isolation, Babcock agreeing hereafter to stay on his premises, permitting no one to enter his house which is located about one-half mile north of the McKenzie bridge.

Arrangements were made with A. S. Powers to procure place for the afflicted man. Babcock says that his father and mother were both citizens of the United States, although he was born at Honolulu. That his mother came to the islands when a child with United States minister Gregg and family and was raised by them. His father is a pilot at the harbor of Honolulu. He said that the disease made its appearance on him first about four years ago in Honolulu, and he was examined by the government board of physicians who pronounced him a "suspect." He then left that place and came to Astoria, staying there for a time, and afterwards coming to this country about two years ago. Babcock is 24 years old.

It will be lucky, indeed, if some persons in that section have not contracted the disease, as he has been allowed to visit at pleasure at some of the houses there.

NEWS OF THE COAST.

Work is now progressing favorably in the jetty work at Siuslaw.

Wheat is selling at 60 cents and barley at 70 cents in the Grand Ronde valley, and the farmers are complaining that these prices are not high enough when compared with outside prices. They think that a few middle men are getting away with the profits.

A few days ago a steer raised on the bunchgrass plains of Crook county by Howard & Baldwin, was weighed on the scales at Sherar's Bridge tipped the beam at 1920 pounds. Another, a 4-year-old belonging to S. L. Logan, weighed 1950 pounds. Pretty good for bunchgrass and cold mountain water.

The tide effects the river differently from what it did last June when there was little flood; the great fresh water current of the Columbia sweeping down the mountains clear out to sea, carrying the incoming tide before it, now the flood comes rushing in with almost unchecked force, and he inlets away up feel the effects fit.

Sparks from an engine ignited a car of household goods on the Southern Pacific railroad south of Grant's Pass the other night. The household goods belonged to Mr. Sloan, of Klamath county, who was moving to Albany. The car also contained a mare, the property of W. W. Chatten, of Portland, which had been shipped at Central Point. The car and all its contents were destroyed. Mr. Chatten valued his mare at $250.

A guardian should be appointed for the city council of Eugene. It passes some very foolish ordinances and tries to enforce them, carrying the burden of the law in Eugene. The other day a balloonist, while up in the air, distributed hand bills that were scattered hither and thither by the wind. Some fellow was promptly arrested for violation of the city law that prohibits throwing of hand bills on the streets.

OREGON TIMBER.

It Makes the Best Lumber Put on the American Market.

The owners of the world of fine timber up the Santiam, which has been opened to market by the Oregon Pacific Railroad, and which equals any timber district in the Northwest, will be interested in the discussion of the relative value of the yellow fir of Oregon and Eastern white pine.

A short time ago the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Company ordered a quantity of bridge timbers from mills in Washington.

Some of the Eastern papers are slightly agitated over the exhibition of fir timber in the heart of the White Pine districts, and are exposing their jealousy a little by attempting to find flaws in it. They claim that the Douglas fir, or Oregon Pine is not good wood for bridges, and that it warps and twists from exposure. When warped, it is impossible to straighten it, while white pine can readily be so treated. It is also claimed that timbers of full size are difficult to obtain, and, moreover, that it is only an experiment to see whether the wood will stand the test of their dry climate.

There is no doubt of the Douglas fir or Oregon pine being fully able to stand the climate of Wisconsin. It has stood the test on the Northern Pacific railway east of the mountains, and the climate there is more dry than it is in Wisconsin.

Many of the timbers have been in use for ten years and are now as good as when first put in. Considering the difference of strength and life of the two woods, there is no question that the Douglas fir is 50 per cent cheaper for long timbers than the white pine. When the Eastern buyers become aware of the difference between the red and yellow varieties, and the superior qualities of the yellow is recognized it will be difficult to place white pine in any position where strength and long timbers are wanted.

It is stated that the life of the fir is twelve years, and that of the white pine ten. If these proportions are correct, the fir is from 25 to 50 per cent cheaper, according to the length and size of timbers, than white pine of the same length and size. It is, therefore, no wonder that railroads are giving it the trial they are now doing.

SCOTT AND VANDERBILT.

The Pennsylvania's Business Activity Illustrated.

In business matters Mr. Scott was quick in his conclusions, sound in judgment and inexhaustible in resources. The public remembers yet the sale by Vanderbilt of $20,000,000 worth of stock in New York Central at 120. That sale was made by William L. Scott.

Vanderbilt, harassed and worried in the management of the property, vexed by public criticism and anxious about his health, expressed in the presence of Scott a wish to be rid of the property.

"You are not in earnest," said Scott. "I was never more earnest in my life," was the reply.

"Why not sell it, then?" the Pennsylvania asked. "Sell it!" explained Vanderbilt, "where can I find a purchaser for $20,000,000 of the stock?"

"I can find such a purchaser," said Scott, "at a fair commission." "Do it," was the response, "and I will pay you half a million dollars."

In a few days Scott had organized a syndicate among the bankers of New York to purchase the Vanderbilt stock at 120, and without any difficulty the transaction was concluded.

Then came Mr. Scott's demand for his commission of $500,000. Vanderbilt demurred, for a million dollars was a big sum of money for such work. Mr. Scott insisted that it was a bargain made openly and seriously and carried to a conclusion. Still Vanderbilt objected that it was too big a commission.

"What was it worth?" asked Mr. Scott. "Oh," said Mr. Vanderbilt, "two hundred thousand."

"Very well, then, let me have the $500,000," said the gentleman from Pennsylvania, and the matter was settled. Had Mr. Scott insisted there is little doubt the half million would have been forthcoming. As it was the commission was as easily earned as any money Mr. Scott ever made.—Courier Journal.
