BRITISH PRECEDENT.

How Brazil Was Treated When English Seamen Were Arrested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The state department yesterday gave out for publication a recital of the precedent established by Great Britain in her dealings with weaker nations. The facts as thus recalled are in the nature of a reply to some recent criticisms by the newspapers of London, which have assumed that the United States had taken or would take hasty and overhearing action toward Chili on account of the assault on the sailors of the Baltimore. It appears that in 1863 a British bark named the Prince of Wales had a claim against the Brazilian government. At the same time three officers of the British frigate Forte were arrested while ashore in a Brazilian town, and while in civilian dress, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The British minister at Rio de Janeiro at once demanded the payment of £6000. This sum not being forthcoming, four British men-of war sailed away from the harbor of Rio. In a few days one of them returned with the information that a number of Brazilian merchant vessels had been captured by the English men-of-war. Upon this the Brazilian government authorized the minister at London to pay the £6000 demanded under protest, and the dispute was referred to the king of the Belgians for arbitration. It was afterward decided that the British flag had not been insulted by the arrest of the naval officers, Diplomatic relations between the two nations were, however, interrupted for two years.

RUN BY A GHOST.

An Engine That Was Run Without Hands.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Oct. 29—Late last night a watchman and three other employes of the Jacksonville & Southeastern railway saw one of the big locomotives glide out of the roundhouse, cross the turntable and start down the main line. They ran after it, but it was going so fast they did not dare to try to board it, though they saw there was no one on it. When the main line was reached the engine whistled and disappeared down the track at a terrific speed. Pisgah was wired to clear the track. A north bound freight was sidetracked as the headlight of the wild engine came in view. The truant whistled, the bell rang, and the engine stopped directly in front of the station. The railroad men watched the engine from the moment it came in view. They saw no one get off, and when they jumped on board the throttle was found closed and steam was up sufficient to run twenty miles farther. The engine ran the twelve miles in ten minutes. The railroad men believe that the ghost of an engineer recently killed on the road was in the cab. It was his favorite engine.

COAST NOTES.

Jack Dempsey, the famous pugilist, came in on the Columbia this morning says the Astoria Town Talk with $38,000 in his inside pocket which he didn't have when he went down about ten days ago. The dazzling success of genial Jack is enough to make a minister who labors 38 years to make that amount of money feel as though the man who fights the devil hasn't quite as good a thing as the man who fights his fellow man.

The bottom of the potato market has dropped out. Excepting those bought and sold on the local market there was no sale for potatoes yesterday says the Salem Statesman. A letter from a San Francisco commission merchant says that in San Francisco the opinion is current that the crop of potatoes in Oregon is a very large and and that the people of this state will consequently ship their crop to San Francisco for sale, and that belief, he says, makes the price very low there. Herren & Levy have bought 5000 bushels of potatoes this season, but say they are out of the market now.

BUSY NAVY YARD.

Hasty Preparations Getting Warships Ready For Sea.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Everybody is busy at the Brooklyn navy yard. The Chicago, Rear-Admiral Walker, flagship, with the rear-admiral in command, arrived at the yard and applied for a board of survey to see what repairs she needed to fit her for sea. The board will examine the Chicago to-day. In fact, all possible haste is being made on the part of the Brooklyn navy yard officials to place the Atlanta, Bennington, Concord, Philadelphia, Chicago and Petral, the six cruisers, in a seagoing condition. The Petral will be ready to sail on Saturday. She is expecting her orders at any moment. The work of getting everything into shipshape on the Miantonomah, a practically new monitor, was continued to-day. Capt. Montgomery Sicard, her commander, has sent thirty more men from the receiving ships, which nearly makes up the monitor,s complement. Nothing tangible is known about the navy yard as to the exact determination of of the government in regard to Chilian matters. All that was known was that all hands are very busy getting every ship in sight ready for sea.

IRISH MATTERS.

THE WARRING FACTIONS COME TO BLOWS AND HATRED.

The Fighting Was Serious, and The End is Not Yet—The Irish Need a Balance Wheel.

CORK, Oct. 29.—John Dillion was pursued and attacked last night while driving to attend an anti-Parnellite meeting. He was pelted with stones, and during the fracas received a severe blow on the knee from a stick. The injury is not of a severe nature, but on account of the swelling Dillion must keep quiet. Consequently the injured parliamentarian has ceased his work of canvassing in behalf of the nominee of the McCarthyite party.

The fighting which took place between the McCarthyites and Parnellites last night in the streets of this city was more serious than at first appeared. There was a series of scrimmages between the contending parties, the most severe being the one in which Mr. Dillon was disabled. Crowds of McCarthyites were upon that occasion accompanying Dillon and O'Brien, who were on their way to attend a McCarthyite meeting. The McCarthyites came into collision with a procession of Parnellites. Neither crowd would give away to the other, and so a general melee followed, several thousand combatants taking part. Blackthorns, bricks and stones were used by both parties. Finally the McCarthyites succeeded in wrenching the torches from the hands of the Parnellites. The victorious McCarthyites then continued their march. Upon arriving at the market-place, where the meeting was held, O'Brien addressed about 5000 McCarthyites. In the meantime the routed Parnellites, with reinforcements, made another onslaught on the McCarthyites. They charged into the square, slashing right and left with their blackthorns and splitting many heads. The McCarthyites, though they fought desperately, were slowly driven back. Then for a time the Parnellites held the market place. The McCarthyites soon found strong reinforcements, and thus strengthened they again mustered in a compact body and made a dash at the Parnellites. After a most desperate battle, the Parnellites was routed. Many on both sides were injured, in addition to those already reported as having been taken to the hospital to have their wounds attended to

A similar scene, though on somewhat more modest a scale, occurred at Bandon, twenty miles from here. During the fight a number of contestants on both sides were severely cut and bruised.

They Were Really Carried Away.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Samuel W. Thornton and Miss Eva Jewell are held guiltless of any wrong by the committee appointed by the Mount Olivet Presbyterian church, Brooklyn. The committee report that, after careful investigation, they believe that the two persons above mentioned were carried away by the undertow at Coney island, rescued by a vessel and landed on the Florida coast. This decision was unanimously adopted yesterday, and was based on the statements secured by the Rev. Junor, in Jacksonville, Fla., and at other places.

WILL IT BE WAR?

That is the Way It Looks in Chili Now.

SHARP REPLY TO EGAN.

Refusal of Chilians to Explain Loud Talk and Much Egotism—Warship Baltimore Boycotted.

SANTIAGO, Chili, Oct. 29.—The Chilian government has replied to Minister Egan's demand for an explanation for the recent attack upon the American sailors. The reply is couched in very strong language, and it is understood it amounts to a refusal to accept the responsibility for the affair. The state department at Washington has been notified. Minister Egan, Commander Schley and Consul McCreery are consulting together, and it is thought decisive action will be taken soon. The state department's orders in reference to the matter are very strong. The intendente of Valparaiso has refused to guarantee the safety of the market boats coming to that city early in the morning from the United States warship Baltimore, or the safety of the officers of that vessel coming ashore at night. There is a practical boycott on the Baltimore. No American sailors are allowed ashore. Great excitement has been caused here by the report that the Chilian legation in Washington had been attacked.

LOVED A CHEERFUL LIAR.

Henry Villard's Experience With Seattle Railroad Men.

Henry Villard, the railway magnate, while in Seattle Tuesday, says the Press-Times, visited most of the railway offices in the city. He walked up to the counter of the down-town Northern Pacific ticket office and said to Ticket Agent Johnson, who had not the slightest idea that he stood in the presence of the highest official on his road:

"Give me a ticket to Boston over the Canadian Pacific."

"Canadian Pacific's blocked," laconically responded Johnson.

"Don't believe it," said Villard.

"Fact," affirmed Johnson.

"How?" inquired Villard.

"Mountain fell on track, cutting tunnel half a mile long."

"I'll investigate," said the financier, as he asked Mr. Jacob Furth to await his return, and started over to the Canadian Pacific office.

Agent McGinnis looked up from his books, but did not recognize Villard.

"Want to go to Boston over the Northern Pacific," said Villard briefly.

"Can't do it," said McGinnis.

"Why?"

"Four feet of sand on the road at Pasco, Lake Pend d'Oreille overflowed and Indians on the war path in Dakota."

"Anything else?"

"Yes. Gang of train robbers near Helena. Prohibition in force in Dakota and a strike on the Eastern division."

"Jewhillkers," exclaimed Villard. "Think I'll go and try the Union Pacific then. That's all right ain't it."

"Yes, that's all right," sarcastically observed McGinnis, who stopped telephoning to Johnson for assistance. "That's all right, I said," continued McGinnis again, with a sort of lost-hope move of the hand, as his supposed customer was about to leave.

"What do you mean?" inquired Villard.

"Oh, nothing. Go on and take the U. P. You'll see time enough if you live through it."

"Oh, good morning, Mr. Johnson," said McGinnis, greeting him ally as if he had not seen him for a month. "Have you any tidings of your father yet. Would you mind telling this gentleman what you know about him?"

Johnson, after struggling with his feelings and wiping away several imaginary tears, spoke up, sorrowfully:

"It pains me to speak of it, but my father started west six months ago over the Union Pacific. He died on the way of course, and we hope to receive his corpse before Christmas."

"Well done boys," said Villard after a hearty laugh, and handing each agent his card,

"When the Canadian Pacific fails to appreciate your services, come over and see Mr. McGinnis."

"Johnson," he said laying his hand on that gentleman's shoulder in a fatherly manner, "some day you will take my place."

Independent Western Postmaster.

A story recently published in the Independent recalls to a prominent mining man an incident in the early days of Pony, which, by the way, is an old camp. At the time referred to the town had about forty people. Of course they needed a postoffice, though no one could be found willing to take the responsibility. There was no money in it and the office would be a decided nuisance to the postmaster. However, a saloon keeper, who was more public spirited than his fellow citizens, took the office. The office consisted of an old tea box, in which all the mail was dumped. The citizen would sort over the lot and take what belonged to him.

One day a gentleman came along and after glancing at the system turned to the postmaster.

"Don't you know that it is illegal to allow people to pick out their own mail like that?" he said.

Well, stranger, I don't know as it is any of your business how this office is run," replied the postmaster.

"But I am a United States postoffice inspector."

"Well, in that case," said the postmaster, "we will finish up this postoffice in Pony right now." And he took the tea box and placed it in the middle of the road, and, with a good run, came down and kicked it clear across the gulch.

"There," said he to the officer, "now you go back to Washington and tell the administration that the accounts are closed up and the postmaster of Pony has resigned."—Helena Independent.

Parnellites Confident of Success.

CORK, Oct. 29.—Both parties boast this morning of their ability to carry the election, but the McCarthyites, although working earnestly, do not seem to be so confident. The Parnellites have so far shown themselves in the majority in the street fights, and but for police and military protection the McCarthyites would have been driven out of Cork. The Parnellite element, however, includes many non-voters, whose names were stricken off the roll during the severe canvas of last autumn.

McCarthyite Elected to Parliament

DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—Patrick McDermott, McCarthyite candidate, was elected without opposition to a seat in commons left vacant by the death of John Pope Hennessy.

PRINCE'S BIRTHDAY

HE ARRIVES AT THE HALF CENTURY MARK.

London Pries Around to Find How He Wants the Address. In a Gold Snuff Box or Otherwise.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The 50th birthday of the Prince of Wales falls on November 9, and preparations are being made to have it royally celebrated. The corporation of the city of London is taking steps to ascertain what the prince would like to do on the occasion and whether he would be satisfied with an address in a gold box or some more substantial donation. Orders have already been issued to give the army and navy something out of the usual line, and the grenadiers at Windsor will probably have a dinner they can eat for that day at least. The prince is said to be hesitating as to whether he will court publicity of the occasion, and his personal friends whisper that he is not at all proud of his age, and especially in view of the fact that his mother's health is particularly good and her chances of life are at least equal to those of Mr. Gladstone when he was her age.

Tennessee High-Life.

Bill Nye, reporting society matters in the upper-ten circles of Buncombe Co., Tennessee, remarks that Miss Birdie Mudge, of Variolid, O., gave a Scotch plaid tea and marshmallow roast day before yesterday, and invited the president of the United States. It is thought that he did not get the letter. Dancing was had in the evening, which was only marred by a cutting scrape, participated in by the first violin and the mouth organ man, both colored. Miss Mudge was greatly pained over the outcome, but not so much as the mouth organist, who accidentally exposed some of the plans and specifications connected with his digestive scheme. So that it took the entire E. string to sew him up with. Birdie was greatly annoyed by the occurrence, and said she was so glad, as it turned out, that the president did not come.

Scarcity of Water in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. Oct. 29.—The present spell of dry weather is one of the longest ever experienced in this section. Streams are drying up and the railroads find it very troublesome to secure water necessary to run trains. Employes along the lines are supplied with water from this city, every train carrying barrels full.

A Fatal Train Wreck.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 29.—Early this morning at Lapol, 100 south of here, at the crossing of the Milwaukee and Kansas City roads, a Milwaukee freight collided with a Kansas City passenger train from here.

Trying to Bring England In.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The merchants in the Chilian trade are moving every influence at their command to bring about British interference in behalf of Chili in the present misunderstanding between Chili and the United States.

That sour-tempered, cross, dyspeptic individual, should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla! It will make him feel as well and hearty as the healthiest of us. He needs bracing up, vitalizing, that is all.
