The timbers are all on the ground for a new railroad bridge across the Catawpa at Brownsville, and a large force of men will be put on at once to finish the work. The Southern Pacific Company is making improvements all along the line of the road.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Notes and Comments Concerning Matters and Things of Public Interest.

The extension of the street car line next season will result in the erection of many elegant new residences in the suburbs. The orphan's home and hospital on the contemplated extension, and will be ready for occupancy soon.

As the time of city election approaches the interest in city politics becomes an increasing quantity and no undignified scramble for office, but simply a determined effort to put good men in the offices to be filled, which this year includes a full set of city officials.

The action of the Linn County Agricultural Association in arranging to improve the fair grounds and race track preparatory for a county or district fair next season is commendable, and ought meet the hearty support of business men of Albany, as well as stockmen and producers throughout the county.

In spite of alleged dull times during the summer, the march of public improvements in Albany has continued steadily. A summary of the year's expenditures for building and improvements, including the big bridge, street and sewer work, the new United Presbyterian church, hospital building and scores of new residences, will reach nearly half a million dollars.

Work on the big bridge is progressing rapidly and in a satisfactory manner. The contractors expect to have it completed by the close of the year. A good view of this structure, which will be the most important public improvement of the year, and tending to materially enlarge the city's trade, will be published in the New Year's issue of the Herald.

Postmaster General Wannamaker is finding that the $1000 appropriation for the fact congress for free postal delivery in growing cities and towns which have not heretofore been entitled to that public convenience, has worked with satisfaction in almost all of the 47 places where it has been tried, on netting a small profit, so that there will be good grounds for asking congress for a larger appropriation. Albany is large enough to be entitled to a free delivery system, and could no doubt secure it with the proper effort.

Secretary Blaine is back; not so hearty, perhaps, as he once was, but ready to assume the duties of his office. The letter which he wrote to the citizens explaining the beneficial effects of the McKinley Bill with its reciprocity amendment, showed that there is certainly nothing the matter with Mr. Blaine mentally. His return to Washington notwithstanding that there is nothing the matter with him physically. The return means a better understanding between the president and the secretary of state, who have been drifting apart somewhat, and the result is a better feeling already amongst Republicans of all followings.

Grand Jury Report.

The grand jury for the October term of court yesterday returned the following report: To the Hon. Judge of the Circuit Court of Linn County, Or. We, the Grand Jury for the October term of the Circuit Court of 1891, have as required by law, examined the different county buildings and the offices therein, including the jail, outbuildings, etc. We find that each of the county officers without exception have their office and tools in good condition and clean, and the officers themselves courteous and obliging. We would especially commend the competent manner in which County Clerk Payne has systematized his work in adding the accounting and distribution register, also the probate register and fee book, which is a great convenience to the office.

We would recommend that the roof of the court house be repaired as soon as possible so it will not leak and the winter rains thereby damage the plastering. Also that the water supply be looked after, so that the closets can be kept in a cleanly condition, the present water service being entirely inadequate. And we would further recommend that a new table be procured for the treasurer's office, the present one not being suitable to the business of the office.

THE ALBANY COLLEGE.

Its Present Most Successful and Growing Condition and Future Prospects.

Our citizens are justly proud of the most excellent school that we have in the Albany Collegiate Institute. It is becoming well and favorably known, and students are gathering in numbers. Last year was a most successful one in the work, and this year has opened with a still greater promise of success.

As we have mentioned before, however, the growing numbers of the school and its importance call loudly for more room and better school apparatus, are concerned, we have now as good as the best in the state, but the present building is too crowded and a more commodious one must be built. Plans have been formulated and are being carried out as rapidly as possible to that end, but funds must be raised for that purpose, and upon the citizens of Albany rests the matter of raising these funds.

A consideration of the situation will be amply worth looking into by raising large amounts for location and building has secured permanent schools. Corvallis raised $20,000 and secured the Agricultural college. Eugene raised even more and put up the brick building for the State University and thus laid the foundation for her prosperity.

Looking at these facts and considering the means in other directions that have conspired to give Albany prosperity, our citizens will readily see that it pays to give an institution like our present successful Collegiate Institute a standing that will enable it to compete with other schools in the state. A subscription is being circulated for that purpose and it should be promptly filled out.

The plan is to raise money enough to either enlarge the present building to give sufficient room or build new and use the old building for a dormitory.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETIES.

Proceedings of the Second Day's Session Next Convention at Eugene.

The second day's session of the Christian Endeavor Societies of Oregon convened at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

After devotional exercises led by Mr. H. W. Alexander, of Salem, the convention listened to reports of delegates who had attended the late international convention at Minneapolis. Reports were then read from the various societies which showed a membership of 2561 from the 51 societies reporting out of 107 societies in the state.

In the afternoon session interesting papers were read by Mr. D. H. Thomas, of Forest Grove, and by Miss Anna McNear, of Salem, and the subject of the papers discussed at length by the delegates.

The election of officers resulted: E. S. Miller, Portland, secretary; F. P. Cooke, Portland, secretary; Miss Lena E. Preston, Portland, corresponding secretary.

Eugene was chosen as the next place for the annual convention. The evening session was held in the First M. E. Church, after singing and considerable delay on account of the electric lights in the church going out, the address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Henry L. Bates, of Eugene, on the subject of "The Book We Study." Resolutions were adopted thanking the citizens of Albany for their entertainment of the delegates and use of the churches, the newspapers for their courtesy in publishing accounts of their proceedings, and the railroad company for reduced rates of fare to the delegates; also to the resister officers for their services on behalf of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Oregon.
