INSANE JEALOUSY.

Causes the Murder of An Innocent Man.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 12.--Near LaGarto, an isolated little town of Live Oak county, one night last week occurred a very peculiar murder. Antonio Vera and Sebastian Terres, well-to-do Mexican ranchers, loved a girl named Chiquita Flores. Vera first met Chiquita, courted her and was to marry her when the fall crop of cattle was sold. Terres then appeared on the scene. He came from Southern Mexico and wore the picturesque dress of that section. He was a handsome young fellow with plenty of money. He bought a large pasture and stocked it. The girl became infatuated with him, and the lover remonstrated with her in vain He burned with jealousy. Finally he plotted to kill his rival. On seemingly friendly terms with Terres, he invited him to pass the night at his quarters. Terres accepted, promising to call at the house at 1 o'clock, after finishing a call upon Senorita Flores. Vera got drunk and went to his ranch. A little after the appointed hour he entered his room. Only the starlight was shining through the windows. He could see the form of Terres lying on the bed. He placed a Winchester to the ear of his sleeping rival, blew out his brains, and coolly lighted a lamp, holding it near the body. He was petrified to see the body of Hermas Ventro, an intimate friend. As it appears in the evidence Terres suspected foul play, and induced Ventro to take his place as the guest of the dispossessed lover, having first loaded him with mescal. Terres has disappeared, the girl is still at her father's ranch. Vera has surrendered, and unless he finds means to commit suicide, will undoubtedly hang.

DEFENDING HIS ACTION.

And in so Doing Kills the Defendant in the Suit.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., Nov. 12.--Yesterday afternoon A. M. Sherwood met Judge John Kelshaw upon the street and inquired about the charge that had been examined before Kelshaw and a jury, in which Sherwood was defendant, the jury having disagreed. Judge Kelshaw told him he did not know, that it all lay with the prosecuting witnesses, but that he hoped the jury would be dismissed. Sherwood said he hoped not, as he wanted to be tried and acquitted. He then commenced to call the judge names and said that he had endeavored to rake up cases against him. Kelshaw denied the charge, and one word brought on another until Sherwood struck Kelshaw with a screw-driver, which he had in his hand, and Kelshaw backed off and endeavored to get away, but Sherwood caught hold of him. Kelshaw then drew a revolver and shot Sherwood three times, one ball entered the body near the heart. The combatants struggled for a few minutes before Sherwood loosened his grasp and fell. Popular opinion is that Kelshaw acted in self defense.

A GIRL'S WILD RIDE.

For Miles, Like Mazeppa, Fast to a Broncho's Back.

Miss Cora Arledge, a young girl 14 years of age, with her father, arrived in town last night from the forests of the West and from the Big Horn basin. Miss Arledge met with a most serious and remarkable accident at her home recently. Her father is a ranchman in the Big Horn basin, and one day last week a cowboy rode up to his ranch on a young horse that he was breaking. In a spirit of jest he dared Miss Cora to ride the horse, when, without a thought, she vaulted into the saddle, throwing her leg around the horn, and the horse in to bucking and pitching at a furious rate, but she stuck to him, quieting him every jump. Then the horse began to run and ran for two straight hours over the prairie, with Miss Arledge hanging to the reins and three cowboys in hot pursuit.

One of them at last succeeded in lassoing the frightened animal and gradually brought it to a standstill. Miss Arledge was told to get off, but she answered that she could not, and just then the horse made another plunge, broke the lasso and started again on its wild career. It ran for over twenty miles and then dropped dead, and its daring rider was found unconscious by its side. At first it was thought that her leg was broken, as she did not appear to have the use of it, but upon an investigation it was found that no bones were broken, but the muscles of the right leg, from the long severe strain in holding on to the horn of the saddle, had lost their power, and her leg hangs limp and useless She was sent to Omaha for treatment.--Casper (Wyo.) Special to Denver News.

Important Timber Case.

A motion was agreed to in the United States supreme court Tuesday, in which thousands of men, who have taken up the heavily timbered land of Oregon, Washington and California, under the act of June 7, 1878, as timber land, are interested. The United States courts on the Pacific coast have uniformly decided that lands "chiefly valuable for timber, but unfit for cultivation," were timber lands within the meaning of the act, but the interior department has held that if they were valuable for timber, but capable of being made agricultural land at any cost, then they were agricultural lands. The result is that under such a construction, it is contended there is little or no timber land, unless it was to be found, the department of the interior declared, "in the rugged, barren and mountainous regions." In the case of the United States vs. Budd & Montgomery, there was a suit brought to cancel a patent on that ground. United States District Judge Hanford decided that it was timber land or else there was no timber land in Washington. Now the United States, through the attorney general, appeals the case and asks that it be advanced. The supreme court decided to advance the case, inasmuch as there are thousands of cases depending on this decision There will be a hearing January 11 next.

A Large Cougar.

Eugene Register: Fairmount will soon have the reputation of being a resort for wild animals. Not long since a she bear and her cubs were killed there and last Sunday considerable excitement was caused by a large cougar passing through there. The cougar went its way unmolested. Some of the sportsmen in town wanted to chase it, but could not find a good dog to assist. When last since Mr. Cougar was southwest of town a short distance and was probably after a lot of sheep pastured out that way.

The princess is the most beautiful woman connected with the Austrian imperial family, and also the most religious. As head of the community in Prague, the abbess has earned a reputation for sanctity that may help to place her in the list of saints. There appears to be no romance connected with her adoption of the veil. She is now 21 years old.

TRAIN ROBBERS.

Hold Up a Milwaukee Train in Wisconsin.

LARGE TREASURE IN SAFES.

Withstand the Robbers Efforts--Passengers Unmolested--Bombs Used to Open the Car.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.--A midnight train from Chicago on the Milwaukee & St. Paul road was robbed by masked men near Western Union junction at one o'clock this morning. The train had been out to a junction twenty-three miles south of this place, and when within about a half a mile, the fireman, Edward Averill, who was putting some coal into the furnace, was startled by a noise behind him. He turned around and discovered two masked men clambering over the tender. Both levelled their double-barrelled guns at the fireman and engineer, Bill McKay, with the injunction, "Don't move an inch till we tell you to, or we will blow the top of your d--d heads off." Engineer McKay was directed to run about a mile from the Western Union junction. He was then commanded to stop, and both men ordered to step down out of the cab. They were marched to the express car, under cover, and then the work of blowing open the express car began. Several bombs, the fireman thinks, were thrown into the cars, and the explosions were terrific, and must have awakened every passenger on the train, but nobody appeared on the scene. The robbers were undoubtedly not less than six or seven in number, judging from the manner in which they conducted the operations.

General Manager Erling of the St. Paul & Milwaukee road received a dispatch this morning saying the robbers did not get any booty from the express car held up near Western Union junction this morning. The dispatch said the robbers, after gaining admission to the express car demanded the messenger to open the safes. He refused and the safes were pitched out of the car on to the ground. In the meantime a rear brakeman, understanding the situation, rushed back to the junction and got the engine, and a posse at once went to the scene and the robbers fled. The robbers had tried to force open the doors of the safe, but were unsuccessful. The train went on to Milwaukee, and a fast mail train, which left Chicago, picked up the safes and carried them to Milwaukee. The police of Milwaukee and the secret service of the St. Paul system, together with the sheriff of Racine county, are in pursuit of the robbers. Their flight was so hasty, they did not take the precaution to cover their tracks, so the officials believe they will get them before long. Express Messenger Murphy reported at headquarters of the American Express Company and gave an account of his experience. He detailed that a number of shots were fired by three robbers who, after gaining an entrance, demanded and got the keys to the safe at the muzzles of their guns. The engineer was compelled to force open the local safe containing money and valuables consigned from Chicago for points between Chicago and La Crosse. As the through safes had combination locks, the robbers were unable to get into them.

TURKISH SULTAN.

His Tyrannical Cruelty Does Not Work Well

CONSTANTINOPE, Nov. 12.--The sultan has ordered the strengthening of the military forces in Tripoli, the only important African province still acknowledging the actual sovereignty of the porte. The Tripolitans have been considerably shaken in their allegiance by the reports of the prosperity of Tunis under French, and Egypt under English rule, and the symptoms of discontent have of late become alarming to the tyrannical pasha. This officer has endeavored to put down discontent by the infliction of barbarous punishments, and it is no uncommon sight in the capital to see half a dozen poor wretches impaled in the market-place. These horrors have only served to excite the popular feeling in a still higher degree. Turkish rule is in real danger, and the appearance of a French fleet would doubtless be followed by an overwhelming insurrection against the sultan's authority.

BRAZILIAN TROUBLES.

Dictator Fonseca Trying to Subdue Revolution.

LONDON, Nov. 12.--To-day's advices from Rio Grande Do Sul give the reasons for the secession of that province. One is that, owing to the distance of the province from Rio Janeiro, its interests do not attract the attention they deserve. Another is that the state prefers to govern itself, and does not agree with the general policy of guiding affairs at the north. Da Fonseca is, all rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, in apparently good health, and able to make a vigorous campaign. It is reported in Montevideo that Da Fonseca has declared his positive resolution to put down the rebellion in the south, and to employ, if need be, every able-bodied man within reach of his authority. The dictator has abolished exemption from military service, which heretofore could be purchased in Brazil. Hereafter rich and poor will have to take their turns in the army, which is being rapidly increased. The army is more efficient than it was under the empire, and the navy has also been strengthened. There is every prospect, therefore, of a protracted struggle, should Rio Grande Do Sul persist in its determination to secede.

A private telegram received is to the effect that Rio Grande Do Sul is now entirely in the hands of the seceders from the dictatorship of Da Fonseca. The dispatch also says the military have given support to the seceders.

INDICTED FOR BRIBERY.

That is What the S. F. Grand Jury Say.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.--The joint indictment by the grand jury against Buckley and Rainey on Tuesday, charging them with bribery, is the universal subject of conversation today about the city hall and the city generally. The grand jurors are generally complimented, and it is frankly admitted that they have now certainly proven that they have been in earnest in their work. Rainey's present whereabouts is not definite. After the sheriff returns the bench warrant, which he will probably do tomorrow, the district attorney will have to write to the governor, stating the facts of the case, enclosing certified copies of the indictments, the bench warrants, the returns made thereon, depositions taken before the grand jury, etc., and cite the extradition laws between the United States and Great Britain pertaining to persons wanted for felony. The governor will then inform the state department at Washington requesting them to take the necessary steps to secure the surrender of the culprits by the dominion government. If Buckley and Rainey can only be brought within the reach of California law, it is generally supposed that this first indictment will be only one of the many indictments that will be found against them for the many jobs that they have taken a conspicuous part in.

Mormon Elders at Work in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 12.--The authorities of the famine-stricken province of Samara are dealing with a new evil in the shape of an invasion of Mormon missionaries from America. These are conducting an active campaign among the poor peasants, who are induced by circumstances to readily believe any story about the promised land being at a distance away from Russia. The Mormons invariably select for their victims families that have girls. They describe their home in America as a land flowing with milk and honey, and just the place for the starving peasants. The latter are led to part with their little belongings at any price and undertake a journey to America. The authorities are at last aroused to the determination to put down Mormonism in Samara, and the missionaries will have to seek pastures new.

Federation of Woman's Press Clubs

BOSTON, Nov. 12.--The first annual convention of the National Federation of Woman's Press Clubs is in session here. The principal business was the adoption of a constitution and the election of their officers. Mrs. Sallie Joy White, of Boston, president; Mrs. Martha D. Lincoln, Washington, vice-president; Mrs. Ed. C. Edhorn, San Francisco, recording secretary; Mrs. Fannie H. Rastall, Chicago, treasurer; Mrs. Belva Lockwood, Washington, auditor.

He is Paid to Stay Away.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.--Ex-King Milan is to receive an additional 2,000,000 francs from Servia as part of the price for his compliance in living away from Servia. The ex-king has no desire to return, having tasted the delights of Paris, where he has been leading a most extravagant life, having run through 1,000,000 francs in a few months. He is known on one occasion to have given a diamond ring worth 5000 francs to a favorite artist.

The Chilian Cabinet Resigns.

LONDON, Nov. 12.--A dispatch from Santiago de Chili, says the cabinet appointed by the junta have tendered their resignations. This action is due to the fact the liberal deputies failed to elect councilors of state in accordance with the agreement they had previously entered upon with the ministers.

Trichinae in American Pork.

LONDON, Nov. 12.--The Chronicle this morning announces that trichinae has been found in American pork at Solingent, a town of Rhenish Prussia.

Have you seen those beautiful cement walls in the cemeteries, put up by E. W. Achison, at all the cost of stone.
