WESTERN SLOPE REMOVED.

As Eastern Man Gives Washington and Oregon a Good Send Off.

George R. Voseburg tells his friends that part of the Pacific slope, Washington and Oregon, suited to him on his late western tour, says the Idaho Pac. Morning Courier, is the most desirable country in which to live of any visited in the travels of the Pacific. On leaving home he went to his son's farm in Kansas, where, as soon as able to do so, he cast off all thoughts of business and took part in the farm work. He became greatly navigated and went further west. After having been in many southern and western states he found in Oregon and Washington what he most desired, a climate that he most desired, the most promising resources and the greatest possibilities of any, and he talks only of what came under his personal observation. He took note of many things as a practical man; among the large trees he measured some circumferences, measured the length of fallen trees and arrived at the average number of feet of timber they contained and then counted the number of trees on an acre, as purchasers of western lumber land have been doing. One tree near the Columbia river measured twenty-five feet in circumference and another twenty-four. The Willamette valley wheat brings about five cents per bushel more in San Francisco market than wheat on the upland, and Mr. Voseburg thinks the thing really needed for the rapid development of this country is the completion of the Nicaragua canal. An inestimable commerce with the east would spring up which it is impossible to estimate, only in a comparatively limited way, around "the Horn" or overland.

A Pure Baking Powder.

A baking powder that can be depended upon to be free from lime and alum is a desideratum in these days of adulterated food. So far as can be judged from the official reports, the "Royal" seems to be the only one yet found by chemical analyses to be entirely without one or the other of these substances, and absolutely pure. This is the only one that is in exclusive use by its manufacturers of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally remove the tartrate of lime and other impurities. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder except the "Royal." The manufacturers of which control the patents under which it is refined. Dr. Edward G. Love, formerly analytical chemist for the U. S. Government, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, and whose intimate knowledge of ingredients of all those sold in this market enables him to speak authoritatively, says of the purity, wholesomeness and superior quality of the "Royal": "I find the Royal Baking powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder, and does not contain either alum or phosphates or other injurious substance. From Love's tests, and the recent official tests by both the United States and Canadian Governments, show the Royal Baking Powder to be superior to all others in strength and leavening power. It is not only the most economical in use, but makes the purest, finest flavored and most wholesome food."

WINDS-GOINGING METER.

Something about the Weather in this county.

"The winter in this county has changed wonderfully since I was a boy," said Edward O'Neil, the insurance man yesterday, "and while Pittsburgers complain with greater cause of the disagreeable snow storm now on, than they get in the winter or month, they are not alone in the enjoyment of the discomforts of a treacherous, shifty climate. When I was a boy and lived on the banks of the Hudson in New York state, the river used to freeze solid. I thank you, and from then till late in March we had all the sleighing we wanted; the snow accumulated all night on wheels was to be thought of as a vehicle for man and beast. I remember going to school in weather that was simply arctic, with the thermometer at 10 degrees below zero. They have no such long periods of very cold weather here now; there are cold snaps, and they still have some sleighing and skating, but the kind of weather I remember as the normal one of my school days the Hudson river valley knows to name. Pittsburgers enjoyed snow winters twenty years ago, too. The theory that the destruction of forests and the clearing and cultivating of the land has had this effect upon the climate may explain the mild, uncertain winter conditions now, but it will hardly hold good in regard to the Hudson valley, which is still dominated by the forest old sides on the Catskills." -Pittsburg Dispatch.

VASTNESS OF TAXES.

One of its Native Sons Tells How it Can be Measured.

Very few persons really appreciate the vastness of the Lone Star State's tax. Frank Young, of Lyng, Texas, tells Seattle Press Times reporter: "If you apply a pair of draughtsman's compasses to the map, using Texasiana as the center and El Paso as a point on the circumference, and draw a circle the size of the Lone Star State, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa reaching nearly to Chicago on the north, and extend almost to the Atlantic seaboard in South Carolina and take in a large section of the Gulf and the republic of Mexico. You can circle thirty-six hours on the east and west boundaries of the State."

"Another fact will illustrate the extent of the great revenue. From the cattle ranges of the West, thousands of steers are shipped to Chicago, where they are bought by the people of the Southern and middle parts, while the ranges send to the market for export which is the staple of the South and East."

But Texas will not be divided for a great many years, not at any rate until the present generation is dead. That generation is a nation's power. I believe that a vote on the proposition this year would be in the proportion of one to ten against a division. And yet not only the Texas Legislature but the people are becoming ardent and that division of land and interests would be a benefit. The convention that nominated Hogg, the present Governor, was a vote of 105 men.
