

False Lives.

How many in this busy world of ours are living what may with propriety be termed false lives. We are prone to think it more prevalent in America than elsewhere.

We are all greedy for the acquisition of some or all of these, as requisites for future enjoyment. We are greedy for them; we know that each of these conditions separately, or more than ever cumulatively, is nearly all that can be reached in this existence.

The times are teeming with great men, great conceptions, and grand achievements. Nothing seems impossible to American industry and enterprise. Nobody expects less of young America at twenty-three than his father secured at fifty.

In endeavoring to secure these much-wished-for attainments, the young especially should be very cautious not to assume a false position. The tendency is too much in this direction.

WATCH THE "EARING." A favorite amusement just now is to examine the ears of the people one meets, in order to discover whether they bear "the marks of the beast" which Darwin has discovered.

The American Exchange and Review, published by Fowler & Moon, Philadelphia, is a miscellany of useful knowledge and general information.

THE DEMOCRATIC ADDRESS.

We have not space to devote to the above-named address entire, neither do we think it sufficiently explicit to require any very extended comments. It is a sweeping declaration of abuses, without any clear, distinct delineation of the same.

"Whenever in any State or part of a State, the unlawful combinations named in the preceding sections of this Act, shall be organized and armed, and so numerous and powerful as to be able, by violence, to either overthrow or set at defiance the constituted authorities of such State or the United States within such State; or when the constituted authorities are in complicity with, or shall connive at the unlawful purposes of such powerful and armed combinations, and whenever, by reason of either of all the causes aforesaid the conviction of such offenders, and preservation of the public safety shall become, in such district, impracticable; in every such case such combinations shall be deemed in rebellion against the Government of the United States, and during the continuance of such rebellion and within the limits of the district which shall be so under sway thereof, such limits to be prescribed by proclamation, it shall be lawful for the President of the United States when in his judgment the safety of the public shall require it, to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus to the end that such rebellion may be overthrown."

Provided that all the provisions of the second section of the Act entitled an act relating to habeas corpus and regulating judicial proceedings in certain cases, approved March 3d, 1863, which relates to the discharge of prisoners other than prisoners of war, and no penalty for refusing to obey an order of Court, shall be in full force, so far as the same are applicable, to the provisions of this section.

Provided further, that the President shall first have made proclamation as now provided by law, commanding such insurgents to disperse, and Provided also, that the provisions of this section shall not be in force after the next regular session of Congress.

THE PROPER SPIRIT—A TEXAS LETTER.

We are constantly hearing of letters being written and circulars sent out, offering to furnish counterfeit U. S. bonds, currency, &c., at a very low per cent. Of course, persons who are foolish enough to invest in such a speculation, and send their money to parties who thus advertise need ever expect to hear from either the money or the promised sureties.

RIO GRANDE CITY, TEXAS, W. Wade & Co., Cedar St., N. Y. Sirs: Your favor without date reached by this mail its proper destination, and I take especial pleasure in responding.

The Eugene Journal gives this account:—A very severe accident occurred to Mr. Jacob Hampton, of this city, last week. Mr. Hampton was standing in front of Titus' livery stable in conversation with some person, when Byron Van Haughten came driving a team in Mr. H. was standing with his back to the team, and did not know that it was so near until the tongue of the buggy struck him, throwing him violently to the platform, breaking two of his ribs and otherwise severely injuring him.

The Enterprise says:—We took a walk last Monday over to Linn City, and observed that Mr. Morris, the contractor for constructing the locks, has done considerable work already. A number of new buildings are going up, among which is a very large house for the quarters of the laborers, which is being erected by Mr. Morris, the Company's quarters and a large house at the ferry landing. Things look business like over that side.

COMING BY LAND.—A gentleman who recently made the overland trip from Sacramento to Portland, informs the Oregonian that in the progress of the stage through the northern part of California, he passed a considerable number of emigrant wagons, bound for Oregon. The people coming were Californians who had got tired of the annual droughts of that State and had concluded to migrate where "rains never cease," and where crops never fail.

The Bulletin gives the following:—On Sunday, as a team was being driven to the city from a farm on the east side with the family and children of Mr. T. B. Nicholson, the horses became frightened and started to run away. They were driven by a youth who could have controlled them, perhaps, but the bit broke on one of the animals and it looked as if loss of life was almost sure, but the youthful driver did his best, and pulled the team up against the telegraph pole, on the Base Line Road. The pole gave way and on they went, striking another, which also partly gave way, but the fallen telegraph wire in some way became entangled about the horses and stopped the team, most fortunately just before they came upon a narrow bridge over a deep canyon, and none of the occupants of the carriage was hurt. They were coming into the city to attend the Sunday-School exercises at the Taylor-street M. E. Church.—The case of the State of Oregon vs. L. F. Pfunder, having been brought before Hon. W. W. Upton, Judge of the Circuit Court, a writ of review of the case has been granted, and will be heard on the 22d of May, on application of the defendant F. Pfunder. The defendants, it will be recollected, were committed on the 5th day of May, 1871, for larceny of flowers from the hot-house of W. S. Ladd.—Gov. Grover has appointed J. C. Moreland Notary Public for Multnomah county.

On time, as usual, is the Aldine for May. It is in every way equal, if not superior to any former issue of this superb publication. It is useless to expatiate upon the beauties of its many illustrations, or attempt a criticism of its excellent articles. $2 50 sent to J. Sutton & Co., 23 Liberty Street, N. Y. will secure it for one year.

Wood's Household Magazine for May comes out, with the flowers, in a new dress. Truly welcome are its many pleasing articles to the family circle. Published by S. S. Wood, Newbury, N. Y., for $1 a year.

AN ALLURING PICTURE.—Texas seeks to allure emigrants, and says through one of its Journals:—"Our rivers, like Athena, leap into the world full grown and full of life and promise. The San Marcos, at the foot of the mountains, rushes up from the unfathomed depths, through perpendicular rents in the rock. The water is perfectly clear. The channel is about 20 feet wide, and the depth of water at the shallowest place from 2 1/2 to 3 feet, with a swift current, affording splendid power for the propulsion of machinery. The San Antonio has its source from series of Springs, 3 miles above the city, of the same name. The Comal, at New Braunfels, comes forth in the same way; and all excel the famed rivers of Damascus, both in purity of their waters and the natural beauty of their banks."

The West Side says:—There has been a scarcity of flour in the retail market this week. The Commercial and the Cornucopia, two favorites were entirely out, and so were the stores that have their agencies.

State Items.

[Cleanings from State Exchange.] The Bedrock Democrat has the following:—Last Saturday a new Lode was discovered by Alexander Stewart, lying North East of Sparta and three-fourths of a mile distant therefrom. Three pans of the loose dirt yielded $2 50 of good gold. Forty tons of quartz are now ready for the mill, and Mr. Stewart will commence crushing next Monday.—W. W. Webber, Esq., of Rye Valley, cleaned up this week, and had $2,000 as the result of twenty days' work. One hundred dollars per day is pretty fair wages.

From the Statesman:—The Beaver Hoisery Company, has organized, with Jacob Conser, President; A. Smith, Vice President; M. L. Culver, Agent and Secretary.—The wagon makers, blacksmiths, Painters, etc., of this city, met yesterday and initiated steps to unite and organize a protective system in favor of home-made wagons. They will meet again on Wednesday for further action.

At a meeting of the Real Estate agents of Portland the following offer was made:—A prize of $300 will be given by the "State Board of Real Estate Agents" for the best Essay on Oregon, its advantages as an agricultural and commercial State, indements it presents to capitalists, immigrants, etc.

The Essay not to exceed 100 pages of printed matter the size of the pamphlet published by the "Labor exchange."

The decision is to be made by a committee consisting of officers of the "State Agricultural Society" and the following: Hon. M. P. Deady, J. C. Ainsworth, Esq., L. White, Esq., Gen. Canby, Dr. W. H. Watkins.

The manuscript to be handed in within 60 days from date. Address all communications to C. P. FERRY, Secretary Oregon State Board of Real Estate Agents, Portland, May 15th, 1871.

The cars of the O. & C. R. R. are now running to Halsey, a new station 17 miles South of Albany, and about 3 miles this side of the 100 mile stake.

A peach tree near Corvallis, last year bore a lot of peaches, nearly all of them being double or treble in form. This year it is producing the same kind again.

Mothers, Have Found It!

FOR YEARS I HAVE SEARCHED FOR a remedy that will CURE my children by removing the CAUSE, and at last I can say "Bureka." TRY IT.

GARMINITIVE CORDIAL.

This is a pleasant antacid, and in large doses laxative; in small doses, an astringent medicine; exceedingly useful in all bowel affections, especially of children. It is a safe, certain and effectual remedy for Cholera, Diarrhoea, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaint, Griping Pain, Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Wind on the Stomach, Crying and Fretting of Children. In Teaching, there is nothing that equals it. It softens the gums, and renders Teaching easy. It is no blubbing medicine, got up to sell, but a really valuable preparation, having been in use for several years it recommends itself. Do not give your children the "blubbing syrups," for they stupify without doing any permanent good.
