The Prospects.

The campaign of 1872 has opened. The ball is in motion, and our State Candidates are now fairly and squarely before the people. After considerable wrangling the Democrats have trotted out their pet, and on Monday last he appeared before the citizens of Portland. Mr. Wilson, the Republican Candidate, gave him a cordial welcome, and met his assertions in a manner that showed that the first victory belonged to the Republicans. Mr. Barnett is bound to be defeated; public opinion is not in unison with the principles he advocates, and he is doomed to send his compliments to Washington, by his successful opponent, and inform his friends there that he has wisely determined to stay at home for the next two years.

At no time since 1866 has the prospects for success shone brighter than now; the party is a unit as regards the Representative, and in the different counties of the State, there is little if any disagreement as regards local nominees. It only now remains for every person having the interest of the Republican party at heart, to work; work with an energy that will show you are bound to win; no half way work, but let each member appoint himself a committee of one to aid in securing the triumphant success of the party.

Two weeks from to-day the Republican County Convention will meet at this place, and will bring out for the suffrages of the people honest, reliable and trustworthy men. It is reasonable to believe that Polk will make one effort more to redeem herself from the snares and allurement of the false gods that now hold her a slave, and come forth on the 3d day of June, a Republican county, a credit to herself and an honor to the State. We feel confident that this will be the result, and that it is but a matter of time.

Democratic Platform.

This instrument is just what might have been expected from such a source. A mass of generalities without any specifications—wild declarations without any meaning. In one breath they declare themselves opposed to monopolies, and in the next endorse the swamp Land Act, one of the grandest monopolies that was ever organized. One resolution opposes competition in any shape, and another sanctions the State Administration, which as everybody knows is run by the Salem ring full of the vilest corruption, and given to the deepest frauds. Taken together it is nothing but a bundle of inconsistencies. It is short. Lucky for them that it is. Had it been much longer and been of the same nature, it would have still further contradicted itself, and would upon the principle of affirmative and negative have been a blank. We had expected, when the Dallas Convention met and put out their platform of principles, to have received something upon which to ponder and reflect, but what does the sequel show? A mixture of sentences without any expression, a combination of words without any meaning—a myth, a blank. Alas! How has the mighty fallen. The Democratic party and its "time honored principle," where are they?

The Oregonian says: "John Burnett, Democratic candidate for Congress, in the course of his recent speech in Portland, denounced the whole system of land grants for railroads, said that the whole public domain ought to have been kept for the people, declared that it was robbery to build up powerful corporations by such means, and demanded that no more grants should ever be made."

Destruction of Timber.

We hardly pick up a paper but we read of vast amounts of timber being used up in different parts of the country. A recent writer says that more than 150,000 acres of timber are used in the United States in the manufacture of railroad ties alone; add to this, $60,000,000 worth of wood used by these same companies, and we have only commenced estimating the immense amount of timber which is being annually used up. But what we wished to call the attention of our readers more particularly to, was the timber being wantonly destroyed in our own State every year. It must be well known to all, that thousands of acres of timber was burned last fall in our own county, and in other parts of the State—some of it the best timbered lands we had. This, too, through the carelessness of parties who, had they been a little cautious, might have saved this heavy loss. The time is now near at hand when a fire left at a camping place in the mountains may cost the State thousands, perhaps millions of dollars. Everybody should be on their guard in this matter, and, if they will not be, the Legislature should take steps to stop this wholesale destruction of timber. The time is close at hand when the timber of our State will be very scarce, and it should be preserved.

MAY BE.—A correspondent of the Benton Democrat gives Ben Hayden the following back swipe, or left-handed compliment: "I feel certain that I express the feelings of Judge Hayden when I say that he will do generous service in the cause, and never cease working until Mr. Burnett will be elected by a larger majority than ever was given a Congressional Candidate, in Oregon, before." That's pretty. After throwing your best man out of the third story window of your wigwam, you descend the stairs and kick him—in a good-natured way, you know,—for falling. Ben isn't red hot, since the Convention. He feels like the fellow, in the play, that was sold, and is ready to cry with him, "Oh, spare me, spare me this disgrace; you've hurt my feelings." Guess Hayden won't strain a point to secure the election of Burnett.

A COINCIDENCE.—And now comes the Statesman with the following: "Hon. Jos. G. Wilson, amid cheers and music, arrived by the 4.40 train." That's as it should be. In another paragraph the following appears: "John Burnett came to town yesterday on the freight train, at noon. Nobody noticed him until he got to the hotel, and then they treated him rather shabby." This is as it should be again. We remember a similar circumstance that happened in California. Booth was welcomed by an enthusiastic delegation, while Haight, was compelled to wend his weary way alone, and arrived wet, weary, and footsore at his hotel. The same thing happened in both States—what does it signify? Simply this: Triumphant victory of the Republican party of Oregon, as the sequel has shown it to be in California.

UNGRATEFUL.—The late Democratic Convention showed conclusively its utter ingratitude to friends of its party, by turning the cold shoulder to Mr. Hayden of this county. There is not a man in this State, Grover not excepted, who has done more for the Democracy than Mr. Hayden, but for some unaccountable reason he has never received a nomination of any prominence. He is certainly true grit or he would have kicked in the traces long ere this. There is a point, however, where forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and Mr. Hayden may come to that point if such treatment is continued. We have no reason to complain, however, as Mr. Hayden would have been a harder man to beat than Mr. Burnett, the present nominee.

IS THAT SO?—Rumor has it that Grover is stamping Eastern Oregon on the 'Possum issues. We heard it different. It is talked hereabouts that he remained at the Dallos for the purpose of securing the bones and "sich" of them Oro Fino Lambs that sought refuge in the Bob Ladd Lion's inards. —That's his mission.

Discussion at Salem.

[From the Statesman of Thursday.]

Reed's Opera House was filled last evening, parquette, gallery and pit, with the people of Marion county, who had come to hear the discussion between Jos. G. Wilson and John Burnett, the Republican and Democratic Candidates for Congress. A large number of ladies graced the occasion with their presence. It was one of the finest looking audiences we ever saw at a political meeting in Oregon.

JOHN BURNETT

Opened the discussion, if his part it could be called a discussion. When he rose he was greeted with some applause got up by some boys (who "chaw") in the gallery, and a number of employees in the Penitentiary. There was evidence of some intention, at the start, to get up a little enthusiasm, but it froze out as Burnett proceeded, till after awhile there was rarely any demonstration from the audience, except of impatience. He began by puffing the National side show which is soon to exhibit at Cincinnati, then discussed the Tariff, then he went after privileged capital. Monopolies was another thing that troubled the Hon. John's peaceful repose. After discussing fundamental principles he subsided.

JOS. G. WILSON

Then came forward amid a storm of applause, which was continued for a considerable length of time. He said that he had listened for three nights to learn from the Hon. John's speeches what was the Democratic Platform. He had listened in vain. He had not said anything which had relation to the present age, except that he had said the question is whether the administration of Grant should be continued. The Judge thought that was pretty near the issue. The issue is whether the wise and beneficent policy of Grant and the Republican party shall be continued. He then attacked the Democratic Platform and we do not believe there was a man present who did not think he did it most successfully. The hour is too late, and our space too limited to undertake the mention of half the telling arguments and happy hits the Judge made, not only against Burnett but the Democratic party. He handled his opponent as a cat would daily with a helpless mouse and tossed and buffed him unmercifully. He fairly flayed him on the New Departureism of the party; skinned him on State Rights; basted him on the tariff; roasted him on the public debt; carved him on the Democratic Platform; served him up with sauce on the habeas corpus, trial by jury, taxation, etc.; rattled his bones on the railroad question, proving by persons in the audience that the Hon. John dared not stick to his Portland declaration against aids to Railroads in Oregon; and then hung the man's skeleton up to whistle in the wind on the questions of the school fund and the corruption of the last Legislature. His conclusion on the Democratic situation was scathing and torturing to poor Hon. John. The Judge was applauded throughout his speech, and at the close the shouts, stamping of feet and clapping of hands was deafening. The meeting was a rousing triumph for the Judge and the Republican party. It can be confidently stated that Hon. John is getting discouraged.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BONA VISTA, April 18, 1872.

ED. REPUBLICAN:

With the glorious sunshine of Spring the business of the season seems to advance with a greater degree of earnestness than ever before in the annals of Oregon history. Farmers seem to strive with each other to see who will accomplish the most in the best order and least time. The saw mill has started up afresh, with a new set of hands, under the direction of A. C. Bonzy, who evidently knows what he is about, judging from the good supply of logs he has on hand, and the order and system of his every day procedure. Our district school has opened under the care of Prof. A. A. Boney, for the term of a year, much to the delight and satisfaction of all the people, both big and little. We can now boast of as fine a district school as any in the county. Divine services were held last Sunday, by a young man. He discoursed very appropriately on the subject of acting promptly on the conviction of duty. Politics are running in no particular direction, further than to endorse the Farmer in its views of corruptions in general. The Temperance folks are as busy as ever, and right here let me say that it is a very uncertain experiment to run a whisky man for office in Polk county. There are enough Temperance men in Buena Vista precinct to defeat any whisky man, if it be established that he be such; and they will defeat him, too, by voting for the Temperance man.

THE HOUSE WE LIVE IN AND THE INHABITANTS OF THE HUMAN BODY, WORMS.

The cause of a great many diseases that have been pronounced incurable by the most eminent physicians, for the very reason that they overlooked the cause, and as Dr. Van Den Bergh has made the Entozoa a life long study, he would inform the sick generally that by close observation and great experiments he has come to the conclusion that there are more acute and chronic diseases caused by Worms, Hydatids, Animalcules or other species of Entozoa. The public generally, or the profession at large, are not aware of the number of patients who are cured by eminent physicians for this, that, or such a complaint, without any relief. If the disease had been understood, a few doses of Dr. V's Soregine Worm Remedy would have immediately cured the complaint and have saved a great many lives.

Inhabitants of the Human Body!

What think you, reader, of your body being a planet, inhabited by living races, as we inhabit the earth? Whatever may be your thoughts on the subject, it is even so. Your body may be but a home for parasites that crawl over the surface, burrow beneath the skin, nestle in its entrails, and riot and propagate their kind in every corner of its frame.

The following is from the San Francisco Bulletin, of January 26th, 1872—a recent date:

Carl Martins recently died in Cleveland, Ohio, from eating meat affected with the Ova of Taenia Solium. At the Coroner's Inquest on Tuesday, January 23, it was shown that three weeks before Christmas, Martins purchased a carcass of pork. Some of the meat was eaten the same day, and some was made into sausage. About ten days later some of the sausage was eaten, and in a short time the whole family were taken sick. Martin died Sunday Dec. 31, 1871. Mrs. Martins and her two children are now very sick, and the former is not likely to recover. The verdict was in accordance with the facts. For further particulars, see Cleveland, Ohio, papers of the above date. A Coroner's Inquest brought this fact to light.

Now I would ask how many more such deaths an inquest would bring to light? Don't you well, reader, upon this, and think of the thousands that die every year and no cause can be assigned for their death. Now the question that would naturally enter the mind of the reader is, what shall I do? The advice of the Doctor would be to go to some one that is competent of treating such complaints. And who is there more competent than the one that has made Worms a specialty.

TEXAS.—Yesterday, Dr. Van Den Bergh exhibited to a number of parasites which had been removed from persons afflicted. There were several different species, one of which appears to be entirely unknown to the medical profession. This new Taenia is found something like an orange seed, but perfectly flat, or rather like a cucumber seed, with a tail about a quarter of an inch in length. Another was a tape worm 87 feet in length, and consisted of 4,650 joints. Among medical men there exists a little difference of opinion relative to the origin of these Entozoa. One class of writers believe that these parasites, or at least many of them, originate in the endowment of animal molecules with vitality from the parent body, favored by certain states of the vital forces of that body; the others originating their organization and promoting their growth and propagation. That all descriptions of entozoa are met with far more frequently where animal food is used in greatest abundance is an indisputable fact, especially where the food is the flesh of the "unclean beasts," which the Jews and Mohammedans are forbidden to partake of. But our intention is not to write a thesis on this subject; we only wish to chronicle the fact that Dr. J. W. Van Den Bergh has found a medicine—a simple vegetable, which grows in abundance in California, which is a dead shot to all entozoa, of whatever description, generally accomplishing its object in from an hour and a half to six hours.—Morning Call.

Had we space here, hundreds of testimonials could be produced testifying to the truth of the assertions that have been made, but it would be useless, and would occupy the reader's time.

The following are some of the diseases that Worms are often mistaken for:

Dyspepsia, Chronic Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Consumption, White Swelling, Palsy, Spermatorrhoea or Local Weakness, Nervous Debility, Epileptic Fits, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Diarrhoea, Incontinence of Urine, Gravel, Fluor Albus, Diabetes, Dropsy, &c.

Dr. V. would advise those ladies troubled with any Irregularities of the Uterus to try his new remedies and get cured.

Dr. Van Den Bergh's Infallible Worm Syrup for Children. Warranted to expel the worms. Price $1. Sent everywhere upon receipt of price.

Dr. J. W. Van Den Bergh's Hair Tonic—a sure cure to destroy all animalcules of the hair follicles, prevents falling out, and promotes the growth of the hair. Price $1 50. Warranted.

By Consulting and Undergoing a SIMPLE EXAMINATION

The afflicted can learn if their disease is caused by Worms or not; at all events, Dr. Van Den Bergh can tell them from what disease they are suffering.

Symptoms of Worms.

Alternate paleness and flushing of the countenance, dull expression of the eyes, drowsiness, itching of the nose, a swollen upper lip, tongue whitely furred and thickly speckled with red points, foetid breath, an enlarged abdomen, a partial or general swelling or puffiness of the skin, a starting in the sleep and grinding of the teeth, a sensation as if something was lodged in the throat, a gradual wasting of the flesh, sickness of the stomach, vomiting, a short and dry cough, appetite sometimes voracious, at other times feeble, bowels sometimes constipated, at other times loose, great fretfulness and irritability of temper, pains in the stomach and bowels, colic, fits, convulsions and palsy.

If the Worm Syrup is not to be had in your town, send orders to the manufacturers, and it will be sent to any address. Direct orders to Dr. J. W. Van Den Bergh, P. O. Box 172, Salem, Oregon.

Letters describing the symptoms will be promptly answered, and persons living at a distance will be sent the expense and trouble of calling upon the Doctor.
