County Court next week.

Goose-Mr. Jessa Lewis left town this week bound for Union County

We are compelled to omit our comments on the Farmers' Convention, for want of room Hons J. K. Kelley and James H. Slater have our thanks for several valuable public documents

WATSON-An experienced musician to take charge of the Good Templars' NEW ORGAN Salary negotiable

Remember that the public examination of school teachers takes place to-day at the acade-my building,

WILL RETURN-We are requested to state, that Mr. J. H. Kipsaid will soon return to Dallas. All persons wishing their pictures taken will find him by calling at his old stand.

ORGANS.-Our town can now boast of two organs-The Litanist organ and Good Templar's organ. We play the first, and the blacksmith the second.

It is said that there was a party in town last night at the residence of one of the No 10's But as we don't run with that class, we wasn't there, consequently we are unable to make any report of the affair

THAT ORGAN.-We are informed that the Good Templars of this burg are highly delighted with their new organ which they purchased with the proceeds derived from their public entertainment held about a month since. The sweet and charming music which it gives forth upon the guidance of skillful and experienced musicians, is not only very refreshing to the weary mind, but also serves to whittle away the monopoly of that part of the sessions occupied by recesses. In fact the Good Templars are so charmed with their new acquisition that they talk of giving another entertainment for the purpose of purchasing another organ to place in the other end of the hall. May victory perch upon their banner.

DIED.

Alvin Anderson Williams a little son of John and Eliza Williams, died February the 8th, 1873.

Kentucky papers please copy.

Little Alvin.
We miss our little angel Alvin; Yes, we miss him all the while;
We are ever longing for him With his childish playful smile, But now I gaze with tearful eye,
And there is one empty chair.
Well I remember times gone by When I saw him sitting there.
Then I looked around the table,
And there is one vacant place;
It was there I watched and loved His little angelic face.
But death comes and cut the bow With its cold and icy hands, To bloom in another bower In a brighter, better land.
Near the gentle stream, the Luokiamute We laid him down to rest, And 'twas there we left him sleeping With the clouds upon his breast.
'Twas there I pressed the last fair kiss, And smoothed his fair Golden hair;
But I must not, will not murmur, For this world he was to fair.

Where was He? One night last week one of the young men of Dallas was found missing from his usual haunts on Main Street, by one of his friends who was anxious to see him on very urgent business. His friend searched from one end of Main Street to the other, but all in vain, no traces of the truant could be discovered. At length he met another friend who suggested that Mr. A might in all probability be found at a certain residence in which resided a certain young lady, with whose charming smile and golden locks he was known to be terrible smitten. He accordingly proceeded to the residence referred to, and walks boldly up the door which after three or four gentle raps, was opened by the fair damsel in person, who very politely invited him to walk in. This was too much for our hero, and after a few ineffectual attempts to recover from his embarrassment, he succeeded in stammering out his errand, and upon being informed that the object of his search was not there, he trembling, bid her good evening, and silently walked away, revolving in his mind the still unsolved problem, "Where is he?"

THE MARCH ALDINE opens with a very effective coast scene: "After the storm," by Tavinier. The black and ragged cliffs are in powerful relief against the moonlight, bursting through the broken clouds and reflected from every rippling wave.

"Break, break, break On thy cold, gray crags, O Sea! F"

But there is one ship which can never go to that "haven under the hill." It is battered bulk tells of a scene when old Ocean was in a far different mood. Probably the most purely artistic cut that has ever appeared in The Aldine is the study of "White Birches" of the Saranac, after Hows. The wonderful fidelity of every detail convinces us that we are gazing upon actual portraits of these venerable monarchs of the forest, drawn by one who knows and loves them well. The engraving, which truthfully renders every varying texture of bark and leaf, is a worthy specimen of the talent of that prince of engravers-the older Linton. A proof impression of this cut has been on exhibition in New York; where it has won the highest praise from connoisseurs.
Although many other pictures will more widely popular, it will be hard to select a single one which will do more to win for The Aldine the respect of those whose cultivation enables them to recognize and appreciate the highest forms of art. James D. Smith's guess a spirited sketch of that famous rick "From Front St. N.Y." and there are also two smaller sketches by Tav-inier, which are very beautiful. "The Fox and Grapes," after Dore is a specimen of that master's most happy style, and is a triumph of pictorial art. Although we congratulate the publishers upon their success in the ardement of this number and will also congratulate ourselves upon the possession of such a magnificent "exponent of American taste." The literature is more excellent than usual The most noticeable articles are "Interludes," a sparkling story by Elizabeth Stoddard and "The Tawny Mustache," a bright social sketch by Sue Chesnutwood. Charles Dawson Shanly contributes a pleasant paper about "Giants, Kai and Mythical;" W. W. Bailey a little study in natural history about "Pussy Willows and Alders" and Henry Richards a bit of gossip about "Short and Pithy Letters." The editorials, which are in Mr. Stoddard's best vein are "A Few Thoughts about water," "The Horse and his Rider," "White Birches of the Saranac," and "Love's Last Service." Elizabeth Akers Allen opens the number with a pathetic poem, entitled "Inconstancy;" Edgar Fawcett follows with "Apostasy," a melancholy love poem; and John Eynedy with an amusing nursery song on "Baby's Toilet." Music, art, literature are intelligently and critically treated. Although the MARCH ALDINE is the best yet issued, Subscription price $600 including Chromos, "Village Belle" and crossing the Moor." James Sutton

First, It has complied fully with the Oregon State Law.

Second, Its contracts in Oregon are backed under a reinsurance contract, by its own and the united assets of the Home Ins. Co. of New York and the North British and Mercantile Ins.
Company of London, aggregating $22,564,087 97 offering the best security of any Fire Insurance Company or Association in the world.

Third, It can carry large risks, as its policies are re-insured by the above mentioned Companies, so that the PHENIX alone can carry the same line that all three companies would take separately.

Fourth, It requires but one set of proofs in case of loss; thus giving the security of three Companies without the trouble of dealing

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

In the matter of the estate of Mary Chit-wood, deceased. County Court for Polk County, Oregon, March 4, 1873.

NOW ON THIS DAY CAME ON TO BE heard the petition of Jesse Chitwood, administrator of the estate of Mary Chitwood, deceased, asking for an order to sell the real estate of said deceased, situate in Polk County, and being the south half of the Donation Land Claim of Jefferson Chitwood and wife and known in surveys and plats of the United States as Chitwood's Island, situated in Township seven (7) South in Range number three (3) west of the Willamette Meridian, notification No. 14922 four thousand six hundred and sixty-two, and being that portion of said Land Claim set off by the Surveyor General to the said Mary Chitwood deceased, containing one hundred and sixty acres and it appearing to the Court that due and legal notice had been given as by law required to all persons interested and the next of kin of said deceased; and it further appearing that it is necessary to sell the said real estate to pay the debts of said deceased and the expenses of administration; and it further appearing that there is not sufficient personal property to satisfy the debts of said deceased, and that there is a large amount of debts against said estate unpaid after disposing of all the personal property, and in person appearing to make objections to the sale of said real estate for the purpose of paying the debts of said deceased: It is therefore ordered, decreed and adjudged that the said real estate above described, be sold by said administrator to pay the debts, for gold coin in hand, ON SATURDAY THE 12th DAY OF APRIL, 1873, at 10 o'clock, A. M., at the Court House door in Dallas, Polk County Oregon, at public auction to the highest bidder, and that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks in the LIBERAL REPUBLICAN at Dallas in said county.

By order of J. H. Myer, County Judge.
Now by virtue of the above decree, I will proceed to sell said real estate at the above named time and place to the highest bidder for cash in hand, gold coin.
