

THE MODOC FARCE.

Now that a score of Oregon's best citizens have been ruthlessly murdered, and one of our best and most faithful generals and his aids shamefully massacred through dark, darning treachery; now that Columbia's sail has been saturated by the best blood of America's borne, sons and now that the smoke has cleared away and the curtains raise, the consummated folly of the peace policy and Peace Commission is plainly seen even by its warmest advocates, and the shallow, meaningless motto of the present chief magistrate, "Let Us Have Peace," is painfully seen and disgracefully felt.

This demonstrates how easy it is for a confiding people to receive and offer imposition even to oppression. If the policy inaugurated by the Governor of Oregon could have been carried out, long before this the Modocs would have brought upon themselves a punishment for which justice would loudly call, and Canby would have spared the assassin's hand and knife, but the councils of the wise and good were disregarded and that policy adopted indicated and dictated by insane, pretended immigrant agents and petty, foolish political demagogues whose over grown bumps of self-esteem and shallow brain, prompt and permit them to sacrifice the public good to satiate their inordinate thirst for self elevation and popular position in consequence of which the country to day is draped in mourning.

The people have reason to rejoice, however, to know that after so long a time there appears upon the surface a disposition on the part of the administration to abandon the folly of listening to irresponsible parties, and maintain the dignity of the country and put an end to the further butchery of its citizens at the hands of the brutal savages, by visiting upon them summary justice. If the Government will vigorously carry out the last and present policy the farce will soon be ended. The only danger is that Grant will hereafter as he has in the past, yield to the sophistry of demagogues who operate from motives purely selfish, but the people had fair warning at the last election of the total unfitness of this man as the chief officer in the civil department, of the Government and if their fingers are badly burned, they patiently wait and blow them until they are done smarting, and profit by it in the future.

It is to be hoped that wise instead of foolish counsel will hereafter prevail in respect to the policy to be pursued toward the savages within our jurisdiction, and that the peaceable pioneer will hereafter feel the protecting arm of the Government, to a degree that shall establish confidence of security for their persons, property and families, and that the people will wake up fully to the necessity of placing in civil position as their servants, men who are both honest and capable.

According to the Mountaineer, "Smokehollow an Indian dreamer and a man of much influence with all the tribes between the Cascades and the Rocky Mountains, has been preaching for some time to them, that in the course of time the spirits of all dead Indians will arise from their graves and assist in exterminating the ruthless invader from their country and that they will once more become masters of the land. It is reported that there are over two thousand Indians congregated at Priest's Rapids on the Upper Columbia, followers of this dreamer, Smokehollow." The story of Christ's resurrection having been preached to these Indians, they don't see why they shouldn't be a general resurrection of their own people.

We clip the following item from the Statesman of the 23d:

The boldest robbery that has been perpetrated in this vicinity for some time took place last Monday evening about 7 1/2 o'clock at the "Last Chance" Saloon near the Fair Ground. The particulars were furnished by Deputy Sheriff Barker, and are as follows: About 7 1/2 o'clock two men entered the "Last Chance" Saloon and called for a glass of beer. The proprietor, Mr. Chas. Gies, immediately waited upon them. After drinking the first glass, they called for another, and as Mr. G. was stooping down to draw it, one of the men covered him with a revolver, while the other tied his hands and feet and covered him with a revolver. Everything in the house was overturned and examined. After collecting all the articles of any value to them, they carried the proprietor up stairs where they left him. The articles stolen were $30 in coin; Colt's revolver; Waltham watch; two pair of pants; two coats; one pair of boots; one white shirt; two pair of blankets; one bottle of whiskey; one bottle of port wine; five pounds of candy; silk velvet vest; crackers and tobacco, amounting in all to about $150. After the robbers had departed, M. G. busied himself in getting free from the cords that now pained him greatly. In this distressing condition, he worked until 10 1/2 o'clock before he succeeded, and when he accomplished it, his limbs were swollen so badly, and were so weak that he could not walk. Deputy Sheriff Barker left on the 2:15 northern bound train for a station north of this place where he expects to find them. It is possible to find them, our Deputy will surely succeed.

On Sunday night Yamhill County was visited with the heaviest storm of wind within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

TELEGRAPHIC.

New York, April 21.—A Washington special published on the 12th, erroneously states that a patent had been issued to the lands on which the Anador mines are located. Before the attempted fraud was discovered, I tried to telegraph you that it had not been issued. The word "The" appears to have been substituted for "No" before words, "patent having been."

Chicago, April 21.—A Washington special says, the present attitude of Government with regard to the Louisiana disturbances may be summed up as follows: The Acting Secretary of War has instructed General Emery, in command of the Department of the Gulf, not to use the troops in any local troubles, except to enforce the decisions of the United States Circuit Court, and in the event of disturbances becoming general, to await the requisition of the Government or President for troops.

Comstock's Mill, April 21.—This morning a young man named Tracy went to work on the mill. He and Stewart were working near the station, and as he approached called Stewart to hand over his money, in a peculiar manner, at the same time raising his gun. Stewart said he had but little, and not to shoot him for that. Tracy said Poland always had plenty of money, and he would give him a rifle, and raise Poland's breast. He called to Tracy, "You have killed me," and started for the house, but fell before reaching it. Stewart started for the doctor and overtook Tracy, who had walked toward his horse. Tracy proposed to go, when Stewart went to Poland's house, but being unable to move him went to a neighbor's house for help, and on his return Tracy was found lying dead, shot through the head. It is supposed that Tracy did not intend to kill Poland, and that he only pointed his gun in sport. The gun was of the thunderbolt pattern, which cracks itself in loading, and it is thought Tracy was not aware of this fact. Poland is mortally wounded. The parties are respectively connected and are of good reputation. They had always been good friends.

Mr. Marshall, near Hastings, perished while trying to reach his stock, from his house. Their bodies were found today ten rods from the house.

Yreka, April 22.—The following has just been received:

In The Lava Beds, April 21.—The pack train leaving the camp for Colonel Mason's camp at the lava bed, under escort of Lieutenant Howe and twenty men, was attacked yesterday at about 10 A. M. Prior to this an escort from Mason's camp coming to meet the train was attacked at the head of long cave. Lieutenant Larey and men sought shelter behind the rocks and drove the Modocs back. When Lieutenant Howe came near the Modocs attacked him, but were again driven off. Lieutenant Larey lost one man killed and one wounded. The train arrived safely. When returning, on this side of the cave, Howe was again attacked by the Modocs, who followed him to camp, firing on the escort. They came up within one hundred yards, and fired at the pickets and sent a volley through camp. Major Thomas sent a shell into their midst, which scattered them. There were eleven in the attacking party. Arms were distributed to all in camp; we were ready for them, but they soon fled into the rocks. The warm Springs Indians will be armed to day, and started to hunt them out. The Modocs are all scattered in small parties and will be difficult to follow. The roads are not safe to Yreka. The country is in a great ferment.
