For the very best photographs go to Brail & Buloff's Gallery without STAIRS—ASCEND IN THE ELEVATOR, 24 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Examine and make out the puzzle in the new column advertisement of Cohn Bros. in this issue, and you will then have learned where to purchase your dry goods, and make money.

This office is under many obligations to Mrs. Ed Delashmutt for two nice ripe watermelons, which were hugely enjoyed by the boys in this office and members of the household generally.

Dallas is improving and property has an upward tendency. The vacant buildings are all fast filling up and from present indication, the academy will be filled to its utmost capacity.

Our foreman is overjoyed at the reception of a large beautiful bouquet, as fresh and delightful as May can produce, from Miss J. D. by the hands of Miss M. H.

We call attention to the New Advertisement of William Kientoff this week. All who desire to purchase clocks, watches or jewelry or desire repairs in that line, will find it to their advantage to call and see Kientoff who will always be on hand at his store on main street opposite to the court house.

The most complete assortment of goods to be found in Polk county, can now be seen at the postoffice store, Dallas, New goods 15th of every month. Terms low for cash or produce. I keep no books.

Yesterday, a family of emigrants came here from Southern Iowa. They came by rail to Utah, then by stage to the Dallas, they left about two weeks ago. The harvest was over when they left Iowa. They are quite well pleased, so far, and expect to remain in this county.

The attention of all who desire any article kept by our best druggists, is specially called to the new advertisement of Wetherford and company in this issue on second page. This well known firm, keeps constantly on hand a very large and choice stock which they sell at whole sale and retail cheaper than any establishment of the kind in Salem. Call upon them and see if we are not correct.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A CONGRESSMAN WANTED.

Every age has its men, every day has its needs, political opinion like the sands, shift with shifting tides. The days of party lines in Oregon is over, the crying evil that is now fastening itself upon the body politic is corruption and the cause of corruption is the lust of power. Men to maintain themselves in high positions descend to the lowest tricks and bribery, pollute not only their own souls by every conceivable crime but either force or tempt others to their fall for the sake of power. Thereby familiarizing the Nation with official crime, and by openly endorsing both official and private crime in person, high in official positions corrupting the Nation, and paving the way to a Nation's downfall. What we want in our present dilemma is a man one that is free from rings and cliques one that will be an honor to us in the halls of Congress, and one that will stand aloof from the Notional thieving which has become a most a household word, all over the Nation. Is such a man now in nomination? can the masses of either party say while pointing to their candidate there is the man for the place? Did the masses have anything to do with the nomination of either of the present nominees? was not the whole thing cut and dried before the conventions met? Did not the "old man" say that he did not care a d—m which of the nominees was elected, that he owned 'em both anyhow, "and if you refused to endorse Hipple, who I elected to the Senate last fall, I'll bust you wide open, and elect a man that will answer my purpose just as well, and at the same fell stroke ruin the Republican party. He may have accomplished all he threatened, but as we said at the outset the days of party lines are over. Thank God the intelligent masses are waking up to a sense of their duty, to a revolution of the State of things, and if there is a man put him in the field, both of the ring candidates will have the exquisite pleasure of piping at their own funerals.
