

ACROSS THE STREET.

When dawn was lighting in the rose heaven,
At four in summer, in winter seven,
Ere Phobos glowed,
Or yet the city had turned in its bed,
There by the window, with needle and thread,
She sat and sewed.

And, as the hand so busily plied,
A baby boy played softly by her side,
The whole day long,
And sad and sweet in the evening mild
Were heard the voices of mother and child
In gentle song.

'Mid toil and trouble and dire despair,
The child's smile soled the mother's care
Thro' dire years;
For the little one had his father's face
That naded away from her fond embrace
With burning tears.

But there came a day when the song was still,
And the needle stopped at the window sill,
For the babe was low;
And there came a day when the boy was dead,
And cold and pale in his little bed,
Where the violets blow.

No longer the woman sits and sews,
No longer the tear of sorrow flows,
Or memories throng,
For the gentle ties of mother and child
Are blended again in the evening mild
In angel song.

Pumping Out a Sea.

One of the greatest enterprises ever undertaken has been definitely decided upon by the government of Holland. This is the reclamation of the Zuyder Zee, a gulf or bay on the coast, about forty miles in length, and of nearly the same breadth where it is widest, though its average breadth is considerably less. Its area is not far from 800 square miles, or half a million acres, about one-tenth of the area of the State of Massachusetts. A dyke of nearly twenty-five miles across the mouth of the bay will be required, extending from the city of Enkhuysen to the coast of the province of Overysel. Then the great salt lake thus formed will be pumped dry by huge steam pumps. The dyke itself will be a tremendous work, of great thickness, to withstand the force of the waves on that stormy coast. The material will be sand and clay, and its height will be sixteen feet above the sea-level. The cost of the work is estimated at $16,000,000.

Work will be begun on the dyke at four different points, and from seven to ten years will be required to complete it according to present calculations. When the lake is pumped out, what is now the bottom of the sea will be a vast meadow of remarkable fertility, as similar works on a small scale have proved, and the value of the land thus reclaimed from the sea will handsomely pay for the great investment. Many square miles of the present territory of Holland have been rescued from the sea by the stout and tenacious Dutchmen, but no enterprise on vast a scale as this has been attempted before. It is now ten years or more since the project was seriously entertained, and the engineers, who fully understand their problem, have now completed their plans and estimates, and the government has resolved to enter upon their task without delay.

Arizona Farming.

"No, sir; I wouldn't advise any man to try farming in Arizona," he continued, as he rubbed his back against the depot wall. "I've been there, and I know all about it."

"What's the trouble?"

"Well, I had the purtiest farm you ever set eyes on. Just as I got my wheat in along came a parcel o' fellars an' discovered a silver mine right in the middle o' my wheat field, and I believe they split at least thirty acres."

"But you sold the mine?"

"Oh yes, they come down purdy handsome for that, but I never felt quite right about it. Then there was my medder. I had a hundred acres of the purtiest medder in the United States, when 'long came a galoot an' discovered a mineral spring on the back end, an' nuthin' would do but I must sell him fifty acres for $500 an acre. I had to do it, but it split that medder completely. Then I had a hill, all graded off nicely for the boys to slide down in the winter, an' they was anticipatin' heaps o' fun, when a gang rode up one day an' began to hammer an' dig, an' afore night they coaxed me into selling thirty acres for $50,000. Then another crew discovered asbestos in my calf pasture, an' stuck an' hung for ten acres at $2000 an acre, an' to cut it short I was driven out o' that in my old age with only $200,000 in my wallet. I tell ye farmin' don't pay out there; the mini ye git a start an' begin to feel at him, they disilver a silver mine in the door-yard an' shoot ye out."—Walt Street Daily News.

Satisfactory Explanation.

"No, gentlemen," exclaimed a middle-aged man, who was talking to a crowd of Ansin Avenue, "nothing in the world could induce me to allow one of my children to enter a school door, for the reason that—"

"You hire a teacher to come to the house," interrupted one of the crowd.

"No, it's not that. It's because—"

"They are too sticky to go to school," exclaimed another excitedly.

"No, that's not the reason, either. No child of mine will ever attend school, because—"

"Because you don't want them to be smarter than their daddy."

"No, gentlemen; the reason is because I've not got any children."—Texas Sittings.
