General Forey brought his whole division into action, supported by that of General Levaillant. The brigade of General de Lourmel charged the Russians, who fell back to the foot of their ramparts. A perfect tempest of grape-shot was poured from them on the French. One unbroken sheet of murderous fire enveloped the advancing brigade, and General de Lourmel halted it under the cover of a deserted village. He then rode on alone and received a mortal wound in the chest. When struck, he remained in the saddle, rode slowly back to his brigade, and sent his aide-de camp to tell the officer next to him in rank that he handed over to him the command. General Forey sent an order that the brigade are genuine works of art and will bear the closest should retreat. Finding it im; ossible to alter his formation in a ravine which he had imprudently followed, the Prince was not in time to get into his place in the general advance. De Lourmel was ordered to march to the support of Gen. Bosquet, who was isolated on the acclivities of the heights to be occupied. Prince Napoleon's unwieldy column stopped the way, and De Lourmel had to stand inactive with his brigade. Fortunately General Bosquet found no formidable enemy before him when he reached the telegraph tower and flag staff, and he suffered little from the desultory fire of the distant Russian artillery. No greater evil was produced than the intense disgust felt by skillfall generals at sight of the clubbing of their troops by one who was sheltered by imperial favor from the or-deal of fair military criticism. I rereatedly cautioned General De Lourmel not to tell me anything which should not be communicated to my chiefs, as I was in duty bound to withhold no information from them. He always answered that he was required to keep silence when his military character was at stake, and that, after the disgraceful figure he was made to cut, he should get knocked on the head at the first opportunity. And that was what he did before the bastion

It is on record in this State that a Michigan editor was once engaged to fight a duel. If the editor himself is not living he must have died within a past week. The affair occurred twenty-five years ago, and was brought about by the journalist making several vicious attacks upon the honor and honesty of a member of the legislature. The solon first EYE & EAR INFIRMARY tried the usual way of getting even, by buying a horsewhip and hunting the edi-tor, but when he had found him he was knocked down and rolled in the mud. doning all hopes, for it will cost you nothing. I give no encouragement onless there is a fair prospect of making a cure. I will endeavor to be candid in my opinion and reasonable in my charges. I claim not to cure everybody, but to cure all that can be cured. I have had twenty years' successful practice in the treatment of both acute and chronic diseases. I have located in Port and, and all I ask is that you give me a fair, unbiased trial, by which I hope to merit your con fidence, and give entire satisfaction to all suffering humanity. My reputation has been acquired by being candid with my patients, through vears of successful practice, both in Europe and in this country, and studiously keeping up with the age. I know the cause and remedy needed, not by guesswork, but by years of experience.

MATHEWS, Pacific Depository, 806 Monigomery St, San Francisco. Cal. and remedy needed, not by guesswork, but by years of experience.

In my treatment of many diseases I make use of a new method of care. The treatment is simple and the most feasible of all. There is no impleasant sensation whatever attending the treatment. I invite all persons afflicted to visit and freely convince themselves, leaving me to verify the assertion that there has never existed a remedy so startling and immediate in its effects. These noted curative alds, as handled in my practice, are endor ed and approved by the faculties of both Europe and America. The beneficial effects are perceptible aimost from the start. Cases regarded incurable, and of years standing, yield to its mild but woncerful influence. And in no case can the treatment be attended with the least danger, thereby testif ing it to be the most harpless agent in therapeuties. Those who wish to apply for advice or creatment may confidently do so without hesitation or diffidence, as the most timid may rely on that inviolable secrecy which has already proved the basis of an extensive professional reputation abroad.

which has already proved the basis of an extensive professional reputation sbroad.

Cases can be treated by correspondence when a ersonal interview is impossible, providing the patients will minutely detail all of their bodily infirmaties and mental disturbances written in a simple and natural style, and in accordance with the necessary de alls of their own feelings. One personal interview, however, even with patients residing at a distance is highly desirable when practicable, and will more than repay the patient the expense and trouble of a trip ic Portland. The advantage of even a visit are apparent and manifold. A single visit in most cases will enable the doctor to form an accurate opinion and note particulars which might be lost sight of in mere correspondence, particularly when a microscopic and chemical analysis is absolutely necessary. Patients not residing in the city who wish to transact their business through the mails or by express can have the necessary remedies sent to any address or left at any rall-way station or ceach office in Oregon or Washington Territory until called for, carefully packed and securely sealed.
