E. G. ADAMS, Editor & Proprietor.

Memorabilia of Yale College.

It was in 1845 that my brother John and myself entered Yale College as Freshmen. My brother was taken sick, and lost a year, and graduated in the class of 1850, and I, 2 1/2 years the younger graduated in the class of 1849. Our mother and sister and younger brother Joseph accompanied us to New Haven. Our father was Domestic Missionary on Martha's Vineyard, and while we were in College sent as Delegate by Dukes County, Massachusetts to the Evangelical Alliance in London. He travelled through England, Ireland and Scotland, France and Belgium. He was in Paris when Louis Philippe was dethroned, and the last Napoleon took the imperial crown. The different denominations on Martha's Vineyard gave our father $1500 in gold to pay his expenses in Europe.

When we first lived in New Haven we rented a house in Salem Street, then one in George Street, then one in York Street. Before we graduated our mother, younger brother and sister returned to New Hampshire. Jeremiah Day was President of the College. He was soon succeeded by Theodore Dwight Woolsey; James Kingsley was Professor of Latin, T. A. Thatcher Assistant Professor. The elder Silliman, Professor of Chemistry, Hadley, Professor of Greek, Mr. Olmstead, Professor of Astronomy, Emerson was Tutor of Mathematics, a tall six-footer. The students of my class were about half of them from the Southern States. The father of Bishop who sat next to me was so poor when he entered college, he had not credit enough to buy a sack of flour, yet the year Bishop graduated he left each of his children a million and a half apiece. Bishop has since been Commissioner of Patents and Member of Congress from Connecticut. His father's name was Isaac Bishop, and all the flags in Connecticut were at half mast at the time of his death. He built a railroad through New Jersey.

The class was divided into 3 Divisions. The 1st Division had those whose names commenced with the first letters of the alphabet. The character of each lesson was marked. Two absences from prayers were followed by expulsion. Prayers were at 4 A. M. in the College Chapel.

When we first went to New Haven we boarded with a family by the name of Warren. They lived in a beautiful place, had a large garden of all kinds of flowers. They had one daughter living at home named Adeline Warren. She kept a private school. She was quite talented as a writer. She married a man by the name of Bostwick. He was an incorrigible drunkard. She got a divorce and married a Mr. Beach. I think a son of Moses Y. Beach of New York City. He was very rich, and educated the Bostwick children in splendid style. Mr. Warren had another daughter married to a Protestant Methodist clergyman. She was very beautiful. Mrs. Warren was French by descent, and had more executive ability than any woman I ever knew. She had charge of the infant part of the Sabbath School in the Methodist Church where my brother John was Superintendent. Quite a number of the richest people in New Haven attended the Methodist Church. Among them was the owner, of a large part of the townsite of New Haven, an old Methodist preacher, worth a number of millions. He was father-in-law of the Gilberts, a firm dealing in leather. Their sign was a specimen of antiquity. They were an ancient firm. One of the Gilbert girls married Colonel Pardee of Washington Territory.

When we lived on George Street we rented a house of Rev. Mr. Bartlett, a Methodist preacher. He was too feeble to preach but made telescopes. One lady asked him if he had seen lately, that quadruped star. It was a quadruple star she was talking about but was not posted. The same lady gave a party, and said the grapes on her arbor hung in clutches. She meant clusters. They got in clutches as soon as the visitors were turned loose on them.

On George Street lived a family of Barbers. The old gentleman was the author of the Histories of Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York and Virginia. He was an engraver by trade, and the histories were fully illustrated by his own hand. He and his daughter Elizabeth Gertrude wrote a book of allegories by which they made $40,000. The book was nothing extraordinary in a literary point of view. The father made the pictures, and wrote the prose, and the daughter composed a verse at the end of each allegory. It took immensely, and and is probably published to this day. Allegory is something very interesting to the average mind. Miss Barber was an excellent player on the guitar. I think she was of Spanish descent on her mother's side. She had a sister married a lieutenant in the Navy. Miss E. G. Barber I think married a Bancroft in San Francisco. I used to beau her round and also a lady by the name of Day. Her father was a rich carriage builder. Miss Day married a Trowbridge, belonging to one of the most aristocratic families in New Haven. Day was very rich. His sons are bankers. The Days were Methodists. So were the Barbers.

The only family we knew in New Haven when we came there were Mr. Gerard Halleck's family. He was the Editor of the New York Journal of Commerce. His residence was at Oyster Point, which runs down one side of New Haven Bay. His mansion was a perfect English Castle with towers and turrets more splendid than anything in New Haven. The grounds were magnificent and rose in terraces from the beach. His wife was an old acquaintance of ours. She was a native of Chilmark, Martha's Vineyard, an only child of Deacon Ezra Allen. Every thing was in keeping about the mansion. They had a chaplain to pray and say grace at meals. He had a salary, and in this Coast parlance, had a soft thing. His name was Rev. Glen Wood. Mr. Halleck was a Congregationalist. Our being acquainted with the most stylish family in New Haven gave us the entry into the most polished circles. My brother set the fashions as he was called the handsomest man at Yale. The name they gave him was "Lion" Adams he took so immensely among the ladies. The tailors donated him many clothes to introduce styles that were not salable. As soon as he donned a peculiar kind of a hat or suit, they went off like hot cakes. He was not an empty-headed fop, as his scholarship was as fine as his looks or clothes, taking the highest prizes in English Composition and excelling in Mathematics and Languages.

REST IN PEACE.

The funeral of the late Mrs. S. C. Adams on Sabbath last was largely attended, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The services at the church were impressive; tears of sorrow and sympathy moistened almost every cheek. The church was tastefully draped and all the surroundings tended to show the great place in the hearts of the community by the departed one, for it can be truthfully be said of Mrs. Martha Adams, "None knew her but to love her," to love her for her purity of character, for her broad sympathy, and for her unselfish charities.

IN MEMORIAM.

Inasmuch as the providence of our Heavenly Father has removed our beloved sister, Mrs. S. C. Adams, and since, in her death, we have lost an exemplary Christian and an earnest member of the board of managers of the Oregon Children's Aid Society, be it Resolved, That, as members of the Board, we deeply deplore the loss of one whose varied endearments, all devoted to the service of the Master, made her a most successful worker in His vineyard, and that the memory of her consistent life shall aid us in gaining the haven she has already entered.

Resolved, That we offer to those nearest and dearest the sympathies with which our hearts were filled, and feeling that their loss is our loss, we will together seek comfort in the promise which to her is fulfilled, "Thy will be done."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, a copy be furnished the DAILY STATESMAN, and the same be spread on the records of the Association. In behalf of the Ladies of the Board of Managers of the Oregon Children's Aid Society.

MRS. J. H. MOORES, Pres.
MRS. JOSEPH HOLMAN, Sec'y.

In Memory of Mrs. Martha E. Adams.

Come up higher! said the Master,
I have need of thee,
From this world of parting and disaster!
Faithful spirit thou art free.
Well done, well done, was the angel's cry.
As she reaches their blessed shore,
While the bow of promise spans the sky,
Where sorrows are no more.

Onward thy course from star to star,
That gem the tranquil night,
Or dwelling in that home afar,
Where Jesus is the light!

Thy earth work was in deeds sublime,
Shedding incense by the way,
And as Life's rugged hills we climb,
Thy memory is a golden ray.

Oh! joy for thee thy perfect rest,
Is unshadowed evermore;
And joy for those forever blest—
The band that has gone before!

And while our human tears must fall,
For such a friend as thee,
Ours is the casquet, ours the pall—
Thine the glad victory.

'Twas but to fold away the veil,
The fleeting of a breath,
To clasp the hand of the guest so pale—
The guest that we call Death;
And on thy palms to bear above,
The richest jewels won from life—
Thy Saviour's priceless love!
True Christian, sister, mother, wife.
—SARAH G. MINER.

IN MEMORIAM OF MRS. S. C. ADAMS.

On Sunday last all that was mortal or perishable of Mrs. S. C. Adams was borne to its peaceful rest in the Odd Fellows' Cemetery, near this city. Her funeral, at the Christian Church, at 11 A. M. was attended by a large number of her best and warmest hearted and most deeply sympathizing friends, who had known and loved her so well. The house was tastefully and beautifully draped in wreaths and flowers and ivy festoons. The sweetest singers of the city had kindly volunteered their best services and the music was most pathetic and sweet. The discourse of Elder J. W. Spriggs, her pastor, was calm, dignified and grandly appropriate to the high character and pure noble life of her who was one of the strongest and most beautiful pillars of the social, religious and charitable institutions of our city with which she was associated.

Martha Eveline Adams, was born near St. Louis, Missouri, May 12th, 1831, and died in Salem, Oregon, at 1:45 A. M. Saturday Dec. 16th, 1882, aged 51 years, 7 months and 4 days. She was the eldest of ten daughters and four sons, born to Dr. James McBride and wife, all of whom are still living, except her parents and youngest sister. She was married to her now broken-hearted husband February 6, 1851, in Yamhill Co. Oregon, where they resided until October 1868. The family then visited and spent the winter in California, but returned and settled in Salem in May, 1869. Here she lived a useful and highly honored life up to her decease, with the exception of a temporary residence in Cincinnati, Ohio, from 1874 to 1877, and a six months visit, one year ago, with her sister, Mrs. Gov. Woods, in San Jose, California. She was the affectionate mother of four children, the oldest and youngest of whom survive her to mourn their irreparable loss, while she has gone to the paradise of God. Of her it can be truly said—

"None knew her, but to love her,
None named her, but to praise."
The sentiments of Proverbs 31:12, 28, being "her verses," as it is sometimes said, were peculiarly appropriate in her case:

"She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life.
Her children arise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her."

Her memory will be revered for real goodness and worth, and her prudent counsels will not soon be forgotten by the church and the social and charitable societies of which she was a devoted and valued member. Her "true religion" was best manifested and proven by visiting the sick, the fatherless and the widow in their affliction, and her unspotted life. Her life-work will be her brightest and most enduring monument.

While the great moving world goes on, there will be one joyous home in ruins, and at least one heart left to all the sad and bitter desolation of bitter loneliness, while he stands in his place and briefly waits till his change come that he may join her in the beautiful beyond where there shall be no pain, nor sorrow, nor death forevermore.

A CARD OF THANKS.

For myself and broken family I desire to tender our most sincere and heartfelt thanks to all the kind and sympathizing friends who so tenderly ministered to the relief and comfort of my departed wife in the bitter sufferings of her last sickness. The sweet singers of Salem who so kindly contributed their best services at the sad funeral hour; and all the kind friends whose presence then, and through all this bitter trial, has exhibited their respect and appreciation of her who now rests in peace, and their hallowed sympathy with us who are left to mourn, will ever be held in grateful remembrance. May none ever want for that which they so kindly and cheerfully gave.

S. C. ADAMS.

"The Best Practical Art Magazine."

The ART AMATEUR for 1883, judging from the publisher's announcement, will amply maintain its high reputation as the "best practical art magazine" of the day. To an abundance of beautiful full-size working designs for painting, embroidery, wood-carving, and other art work, with copious practical instructions for all classes of amateur artists, it will continue to add a profusion of charming illustrations of porcelain, furniture, needlework, and bric-a-brac, together with an endless supply of entertaining information on decorative and industrial art. Numerous artists' sketches will be published as usual; the leading exhibitions will be largely illustrated and piquantly criticized, and artists of merit will be biographically noticed. A series of beautiful embroidery designs from the South Kensington Royal School of Art Needlework, and a number of articles on china painting by Miss McLaughlin of Cincinnati, will be published during the year. It is not too much to declare, with the London Academy (which places it above any magazine of the kind in England), that THE ART AMATEUR is a "marvel of variety, beauty, and cheapness." This opinion may be readily verified by sending thirty-five cents for a specimen copy to Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York. The subscription price is $4 a year.

We desire to call the especial attention of our lady readers to the advertisement found in another column headed "Pleasant and Profitable Work for Women." Never was such an opportunity offered to some energetic lady to acquire a good income so easily. We have it on good authority that lady canvassers east of the Rocky Mountains are making $75.00 and 100.00 per month selling "Practical Housekeeping" & "Manners that Win." The books come endorsed by such eminent women as Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Mrs. Livermore, and many others. We trust that some intelligent and energetic lady among our many readers will take advantage of the opportunity and secure the agency for this vicinity. It is surely worth trying for.

Received Ridley's Fashion Magazine. It is full of interesting stories, in prose and verse, useful home articles, amusing and instructive sketches, a profuse illustration of the fashion of the day, and invaluable shopping information. Just the book for every home. The Autumn number is if possible, an improvement on the Summer number. Published quarterly, and only 50 cts. per year, or 15 cts. per single copy, by E. Ridley & Sons, Grand, Allen, and Orchard Streets, New York City.

We have received Wilford's Microcosm, a Religio Scientific Monthly, whose mission is to reconcile Science and the Bible. It has produced a great sensation in the world and is far ahead of anything that has before appeared in the theological world. It shows the giants of religion are not all dead. $1.00 per year. A. Wilford Hall, Editor & Proprietor, 23 Park Row, New York.

We have received the Cottage Hearth, published in Boston, Mass., 11 Brookfield Street, by the Cottage Hearth Company. Price, $1.50 per year. This is a beautiful monthly with some of the leading American authors for contributors. The typographical execution is fine. This Number contains two beautiful pieces of music.

We have received an Anti-monopoly paper published in New York. Its name is Justice and it goes for all big corporations like a sledge hammer. Its terms, $1.00 a year, No. 25 Broadway, New York.

The Independent sends us a long Ad. to pay for its paper. If its religion is as penurious as its publisher, it must be like rolled gold, when it is rolled exceedingly thin.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Christmas Tree was well loaded with presents, and everybody there seemed well pleased. We helped read off the gifts, and so were not posted on what was given as if we had simply been a spectator. There were several fine gold watches, chains, lockets, and gifts innumerable, both beautiful and costly and it would seem invidious to mention names of the recipients lest those who received few gifts should feel jealous and unpleasant over the affair. The music was of a superior quality, and appreciated by all. Indeed St. Helen is gaining notoriety for its musical talent.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST.

Just received a large stock of Men's ready-made clothing consisting of fine Diagonal, Beaver, Cassimere and Tweed suits.

Also
a large stock of Men's and boys' boots, made in San Francisco expressly for this trade. A full line of ladies' and misses' Fine shoes. Call and examine quality and prices of these goods at McBRIDE'S STORE.

Our paper was carried by because some persons in town were too mean to pay the expressage of 50 cts. Verily the souls of some men are so small ten thousand of them would dance on the pint of a cambric needle, and St. Helen possesses these whole-soled beings; the flunkies of the O. R. & N. Company disobey the orders of the head men, if what they wrote us means anything, in using us very meanly.

David C. Cook of 46 Adams Street, Chicago, Illinois is a most enterprising business man, and sends out everything in the shape of papers, lesson quarterlies, Sunday School helps, cards, rewards, Bibles, organs, library books, &c. &c. everything required in a Band of Hope, or modern Sunday School run on the most approved plan. He sells every thing cheaply and is as prompt as an eight day clock.

We have received some fine books from Bancroft to pay for Advertisements. Grey's History of Oregon, Hol for Elford, Conquest of Turkey, Caxton's book, For Our Boys, and a box of Kindergarten Blocks. The books are got up in splendid style typographically, and the contents are very interesting.

S. D. Morrison has suddenly passed away. He died at St. Vincent's Hospital in Portland after a short illness, caused by hemorrhage of the lungs. He had had a bad fall over a counter sitting in front of George McBride's store. He undoubtedly injured himself inwardly.

Hon. Owen Wade now in California, formerly Register of the Land Office at Oregon City has married a widow with a vineyard joining his own. Putting their vineyards together, they will probably manufacture much excellent wine.

We have not received the November and December Numbers of the West Shore. We miss this beautiful magazine very much. Samuel said "Lo here am I," and so say we. Let the magazine explode. Let it hit us.

Stinson & Co. of Portland, Maine sent us some splendid engravings and panel pictures. When we build a palace we will have them framed, and hung up for spectators. They are marvels of beauty and grace.

Muckles' logs have cut a passage from Milton Creek across into a little slough in the Milton field, from the rest of the place, and make a bridge necessary to go from the house to the front shore with a team.

Prof. Quick had a contribution of over $6.00 from his pupils. It was laid out as part payment for a fine silver watch.

PLEASANT AND PROFITABLE WORK FOR WOMEN.

We want a few energetic lady canvassers to introduce our popular and fast selling books in each town and county west of the Rocky Mountains, to whom liberal commissions will be paid. Just at the present time, immediately before the holidays, is the GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY to take orders for "PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPING," the Queen of all the books published on house-keeping and cookery and "MANNERS THAT WIN," as a great many can readily be sold for holiday presents. These two books are both practical in the treatment of the subjects they discuss, and will be found ENTIRELY NEW and UNUSUAL, as they are the embodiment of SOLID COMMON SENSE. The best evidence of their popularity is the fact that over 2 hundred thousand copies have been sold. Lady canvassers every where report big sales, some making from $75.00 to 100.00 per month. To show the book is to create a desire to possess. Write immediately for terms, territory and full particulars.
Address, NORTH PACIFIC PUBLISHING CO., Portland, Oregon.
