The Pioneers.

We make the following extract from the Hesperian.

From Brainard on the foliage was glowing with Autumnal tints far more brilliant and beautiful than anything of the kind in Oregon; but of the beauty of the country I shall speak more particularly at another time as I would like to get to St. Paul as soon as possible. From there on through to New York our pathway was almost literally strewn with flowers. Two railroads were striving for the pioneers' travel over their roads, or perhaps I should have said these were the only two who were at all likely to succeed in getting any of us, the Chicago and Milwaukie and the Rock Island. Their agents quarrelled and faught, and scratched and snubbed each other, and told such conflicting stories that the Oregon pioneer was constantly shaking himself and wondering which one of the passengers he was, and only comforting himself with the assurance that his little dog would know whether it be he when he gets home again. But, howsomever, we did, without accident, arrive at Chicago, where we were handsomely entertained at the Palmer house, the accounts of which you have read ere this. In the evening when the pioneer gentleman had got shaved (his face, not his pocket), and brushed up, and the ladies had the alkali dust washed off and something else washed on their faces, they looked well, and would even in the grand parlors of the Palmer House, compare very favorably with an equal number of persons from any community. Not old Mount Hood herself could have felt more important, or have behaved in a more dignified manner than did these same pioneers; and I, for one, felt like saying "goody," for I was proud of them. I believe many persons expected to see us in something like a "circus" or Modoc Indian light, but in that they were mistaken. But no matter what was expected, they treated us well. After we left Chicago we were treated royally. The Pennsylvania line gave us a special train of magnificent cars, all decorated with beautiful hothouse flowers, and on the sides of the train was a banner inscribed with the words, "Oregon Pioneers," and to each individual was presented a lovely bouquet, and all along the route the finest meals that could be gotten up were prepared for us. All other trains were switched that we might get over the road without delay, and the only wonder to me was that there was a car wheel left on the train when we arrived at New York, for we traveled so fast, making over nine hundred and fifty miles in thirty hours, and I almost expected to see the wheels worn out. I have not time in this letter to tell of all the wonderful sights and beautiful country we passed over, but it was a perfect Eden of beauty from Pittsburg to New York. At Philadelphia we were entertained as Oregon pioneers for the last time. Here we had an elegant dinner awaiting us, and the railroad company, in a beautiful speech, made by John Watt, one of the officials, took formal leave of us. His closing words were: "And now I say to you, the pioneers of Oregon, we have given to you the best of attentions ever bestowed upon any other excursionist, and have been pleasantly disappointed in you, for you have caused us the least trouble of any train that has ever traveled over our road, and have seemed to appreciate our efforts in your behalf; and I will just say this to all of you, if you ever have occasion to travel over our road, which you all know is the finest in the United States, all you have to do is to say 'I am a pioneer,' and you will be treated well and given a front seat in the procession." This of course brought down the house, and we went on our way perfectly satisfied that there was nothing like being an Oregon pioneer.

HILDEGARDE.

BURNT CANYON, BAKER CO. OREGON.
October 15th. 1883.

As I believe there are but few persons in the old Webfoot country, or may be in Columbia county that have visited this part of the state, it may be of some interest to the readers of your valuable paper, the COLUMBIAN, to give a picture in geographical and geological respects. No other name was ever better fitted to a locality than the name of "Burnt Canyon," because so far as visible, the surface looks all over as if burnt up of everything. In respect to the formation, for miles and miles around, so far as opportunity has been for me to see it, it is one of the wildest and grandest that the observer's eye may meet. When I met the the railroader last Summer in Wyoming he used to say, "Burnt River," but the river at present is a mere creek or brook and can be waded in almost any place with boots on without wetting the feet. But however small this stream may be, it possesses some magnificence, for its walls rise in different places to the height of five hundred feet in air, and so steep, that it is impossible for man to climb them unless by winding up through the ravines. If man is on top of one of those hills the idea comes as if he stood in the midst of giants' castles, with all their walls and towers for ages gone tumbled over with their splendor and might. Farther off, fifteen miles to the South, the formation is somewhat different. If man stand again upon one of those high hills, and turns the gaze towards the west lo! what a sight! as if some colossal plow with an almighty power had turned this spot of the earth's surface into parallel furrows not less than from a hundred to a thousand feet deep.

People that live in Western Oregon may be forever content with their abundant vegetation and water. Such is not the case in the Burnt River region. All these hills and all these canyons and ravines are all barren; no vegetation, not once bunch grass as in other torrid regions in Arizona and New Mexico, only thin slender small grass which in some places seems to grow on the steep hill slopes. If such places are like valleys or flats the sage brush grows. Along Burnt River grow willow bushes with which the inhabitants cook. Even so the Snake River which is close by here, is very sparsely lined with willow bushes.

As near as I could observe the formation is of very old standing; the rock is the generol blue rock, and is of very hard quality. No shells and no fossils appear in the cuts where we work at present; some crystal and some lime, even some quartz are to be seen in the seams. Mineral specimens can be picked up every day; and probably one day this locality may be a valuable field for prospectors. We have lately had some signs here of a little "boom." One day last week one townsman hired a man to dig a cellar on the hillside. He had picked only a very few feet into the wall before he found out, as he believed, that there was gold in the dirt, and when he proceeded further with his digging, he got his visitors to believe the same. So when they had been fully confirmed that there was gold in the hill, it did not take a very long time before the rest of the boys were on hand and had the whole hill located.

Three miles from the mouth of Burnt Canyon or Snake River is the new town Huntington, called from the present ranch-owner, situated in a small valley, three quarters of a mile in width and three quarters in length. This place is is the terminus of the U. P. Co.'s O. S. L., and at the same the terminus of the O. N. Co.'s Road. Originally the O. N. Co.'s right of road was to the Snake River, or to the mouth of Burnt Canyon, and the last-named Company had put ome heavy work on grading through the whole length of the Canyon. Now as the Snake River at this place is pressed in a very narrow furrow with steep mountains on both sides, there was no place for a station or meeting for two so big railroad lines, so the U. P. Company was compelled to buy out the other Company and get their road over to Huntington. This place, small as it is, may after not a very long time be covered with hundreds of railroad cars when the U. P. Company's road is graded to the last crossing of the Snake River on the mouth of Burnt Canyon. The contractors are hard at work on the last three miles with all their might and force, and may finish the job in a couple of months. Said Company's road is track-laid to the first crossing of the Snake River, thirty miles west of the Boise River crossing. It would not take a very long time to track-lay the remaining forty-five miles, but for the several crossings over the river that have to be bridged. But as the work at present is progressing, so it is to be hoped that after a few months the iron horses, rolling and whistling, from the East, will sound in Burnt Canyon.

We have had here some fine weather last week, a perfect Indian Summer; in day-time it has been clear and pleasant, and in the night not cold. To-day however, the sky has been cloudy and the wind rushing lown the canyon, and flapping the many tents, that line the narrow stream from Huntington to Snake River. The few settlers who are in the country are awaiting with great expectancy rain. For weeks agone all the grass has been sun-burnt and faded away; the stock has been driven out of country, except a few domestic cows and horses. Such is Burnt River country at present!

LOCAL NEWS

The dance at Thomas Cloninger's was a great success, there were 44 numbers sold, the fare, the music, the supper were all regal. Miss Mary McKay, in whose honor it was given was the cynosure of all eyes, dressed in most beautiful taste. John Lamberson and his interesting family were present also the following beautiful ladies Miss Ida Lamberson, the three Misses Sharringhausen Miss Josie Ramsey, Mrs. Frank Henrici Mrs. Ed. Henrici, the two Misses Gillihan from Sauvie's Island, the two Misses French from Springville, Henry Lamberson's beautiful daughter. There was a big delegation of splendid-looking ladies and gentlemen from St. Helen The musicians on this festive occasion. were John Leonard and T. Grant, and we should fail to substantiate the enjoyability of the party if we did not mention the following gentlemen were present, Stephen Haines, J. P. Walker, James McKay, H. West, John, Joseph, and George Beaver and Joseph Harris.

Mr. Cloninger will have a shooting match on Thanksgiving Day for turkeys and beef, and will give a dance at night.

We wish it distinctly understood we want no cutting of trees on Frogmore Neck, no hunting of game, no running of logs, nor other action of trespass on our premises. We wish to keep the game for ourselves or guests, and not have the birds terrorized, but let them make love, rear their young, and enjoy their own sweet will, with no one to molest or make them affaid. St. Helen hunters or any others will please keep their feet off our hunting grounds.

Mr. E. E. Quick is agent for three kinds of Sewing machines, The Royal, St. Johns, the New Home, and Singer's, The Royal St. John's is a magnificent machine. All you have to do is to start it, and then have a pair of pants or a new dress drop out all flounced and laced.

Mr. Whitney is improving his stock of goods all the time, and has a big run of custom. He has milk to sell as well as Davenport. We think Whitney and Davenport both show great enterprise in catering to the Public. Mr. Davenport has oysters in the shell from the seaboard.

We wish all owing us on last year's subscription would come out. We need the ready cash to pay current bills. We shall turn our color from green to dun, and if that don't answer we shall turn yeller. God deliver the bearer, he will give us two dollars to stop our mouth.

Mr. E. D. Marvin has started a fishery at the mouth of Lewis River on a little island adjacent to Mr. Richardson's. He reports his business as highly successful. He supplies St. Helen market with fish, fowl and deer meat.

Mr. Wagner has prepared a most elegant map of Columbia City on the order of G. W. McBride, To say it is an elegant affair would hardly express the reality. It is perfect in every respect.

Rev. J. A. Hanna, Presbyterian minister, will preach in the M. E. Church at St. Helen next Sunday Nov. 4th. at 11 o'clock, A. M., and in Columbia City in the evening at 7 o'clock.

J. S. Davenport's plants are all in bloom, and make his place a very pleasant place of resort. He keeps all the late papers—mental as well as material food.

There is a man in John Edmonds' employ who makes images of Christ on the Cross and places them in a bottle. They are very beautiful.

Mr. T. H. Taylor offers his splendid ranches for sale, one at the foot of Sauvie's Island, the other contiguous to the N. P. R. R.

Mrs. Adams has been very sick the past week hence the paucity of locals, next week we trust to make the COLUMBIAN boom.

We want 1000 to 5000 fence rails for which we will pay highest cash price. We also want 2 or 3 thousand pickets.

Rev. Mr. Hanna is appointed by the Presbytery of Oregon. His field extends from St. Helen to Knappa.

Rev. Mr. Crozier will preach at Columbia City at 11 A. M. on Suaday and at 7 P. M. at St. Helen.

One of the finest preachers that have ever visited St. Helen is the Rev. Clark Davis.

In consequence of the demands of trade between Portland, Seattle and intermediate points, the Kalama branch of the Northern Pacific railroad, although incomplete, is in daily use, and construction trains between this city and Columbia city carry passengers and freight. In a short time cars will be able to run into Seattle from Portland.—Commercial Herald.

We have received the Art Amateur for October. One article entitled "Bedroom" is just beautiful as well as suggestive. So much of our happiness depends on our surroundings, it is wonderful how people have neglected them. People decorate themselves, while their homes are like dens; it is not poverty that causes this but lack of taste, and simply because they do not know how. As a case in hand we will mention Mrs. Benham, she can make the roughest home look like a palace, she possesses the powers of discrimination and combination. Nature gave her good taste; to those for whom Nature has not done so much, we would say subscribe for the Art Amateur, No. 23 Union Square, New York. Terms, $4.00 per year. Cheap as dirt considering the amount of information.

On the good taste of your home depends the salvation of your children in a measure, and your own. Winning Heaven depends in starting a little Heaven of your own, and the way to lay the corner stone is to subscribe for the Art Amateur.

We have received the New York Sun and the first issue it made when it started in 1832. It has increased in size since then, and is a fair emblem of what America was then and what she is now.

We have received the Pacific Printer. There is an interesting article respecting printers from the able pen of a cousin of qurs whose nom de plume is Q E. DERF.

Mr. J. N. Dolph, ex-vice president of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co., and ex-attorney of the Northern Pacific railroad, passed up the road to-day on the noon train on his way to Washington to take his seat in the United States Senate as senator for six years for Oregon.

He was furnished by the railroad company with a sleeping car, a dining car and a car for a sitting room, making three cars to convey this gentleman and family to Washington, where he goes to represent the state of Oregon.

The people along the route can now see that Oregon is to be some pumpkins, and the state, accorded to tde distinguished representative of the people, by the Northern Pacific railroad, shows how much that gentleman's ability is appreciated.—The Dalles Daily Sun.

B. J. KENDALL & CO.–GENTS:–I take pleasure in infoming you that I used nearlp all of the bottles of Kendall's Spavin Cure that you sent me from St. Louis, according to directions, and to my satisfaction (and I must say to my surprise) in about two weeks my mare was entirely well of her lameness caused by a bog spavin of over one year's standing and in three weeks time the swelling was all gone and the mare is now entirely well and can trot as glib as ever. I consider the bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure worth to me $150 00 as the animal was worthless as she was on three legs and could scarcely get around on them and now she is the finest buggy animal in these parts and with the remiment of the bottle after curing the mare I have nearly cured a very severe corn on the ball of my big toe that has given me great pain for two or three years. I have only applied Kendall's Spavin Cure four times and the corn now is nearly out by the roots and without any pain. In short I think it is the best liniment that is in use. I have Kendall's Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases and I would not take any money for it if I could not get another. Hoping you great success I remain
