TWELFTH ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The twelfth annual convention of the Oregon State Woman Suffrage Association will be held in Portland on Tuesday and Wednesday; Februrary 12th and 13th, 1884, at Turn Halle.

Woman Suffrage Associations, equal rights clubs, and societies in sympathy with the suffrage movement, of whatever name or order, are earnestly requested to send delegates.

The usual reduction of forty per cent in the fares will be made to visiting delegates by the various transportation companies, and entertainment will be provided for all who come from without the city.

This convention will be by far the most important ever held by the Association. Upon it will devolve the work of preparing plans for a vigorous campaign in support of the pending Constitutional Amendment. Arrangements must be made to present the justice of the Amendment fairly to the electors, that they may know the whole truth about the purposes of women who seek recognition of their rights as citizenship; who hold with our revolutionary fathers that representation and taxation should go together, and that every citizen of a country is entitled to a vote in its affairs; who assert their right to a voice in the laws affecting themselves, their children and their homes; who claim that, as woman's part in the world is fully as important as man's, she should have equal opportunities with him to do her best and receive equal pay for equal work; and who see that political rights are necessary to the enjoyment and protection of all other rights.

Let the friends of equal suffrage come promptly forward and make this convention a memorable one.

H. A. LOUGHARY, President
MARY E. COMBS, Secretary.

State Temperance Alliance.

The Oregon State Temperance Alliance will meet in the 13th Annual session in the city of Portland on Wednesday, Feb, 20th, 1884, continuing three days. The sessions will be held at the First Baptist Church beginning as half past 10 A. M.

The Alliance shall be composed of Delegates elected annually and duly accredited from temperance Societies and other organizations devoted to the interests of the Temperance cause.

The basis of representation being one for every twenty members, and one for each fraction over ten. Also any person of known temperance principles may become a member by paying into the Treasury the sum of one dollar.

It is important that all Blue Ribbon Clubs, Lodges, Societies, Unions, Churches, Sunday Schools, Bands of Hope, etc., elect delegates immediately on receipt of this circular and that such members be elected as will best represent you in the Alliance.

All delegates passing over the O. R. & N. Co's and O. & C. R. R. Co's lines and having paid full fare will be returned at 80 per cent off the usual fare, on presenting the Secretary's certificate at the Portland offices, which certificates will be issued during the session.

Now, fellow-workers, in the cause of humanity let us come up to this meeting with renewed zeal and a fixed purpose to press the battle to the very gates as above all previous years. When most important elections both State and National are in the near future, when the people are thinking and acting upon the question of questions, the total Prohibition of the cursed liquor traffic, when every man and woman should be actively engaged in this fight for our country and our Homes, through a more systematic organization, that we may be the better pre pared for the IRREPRESSIBLE conflict, for the combat deepens and now is the time for action, ACTION, ACTION.

A Shining Example.

John Engemar, a former scout on the plains, is dead. He began life as a news boy and rose to be a companion of Buffalo Bill and bowler of fast trotters, finally dying of Bright's disease and having his death telegraphed by the Associated Press. Engemar's career is an example which should act as an encouragement to every boy who is struggling a gainst adversity. It shows a boy what perseverance and energy can accomplish when his efforts are properly directed. It proves that any boy may rise from the lowliest of occupations until he occupies the most coveted positions in the United States. This example of John Engemar will do more toward instilling noble ambition into the mind of Young America than would the stories of Garfield and Lincoln themselves who, after all, only rose to the Presidency. The writers of boys' books make a serious mistake in that they don't sufficiently study their readers. Boys don't want their heroes to become Presidents and Senators; they want them to become brake-men on trains and stage-drivers, or, if in a commercial line, would like to have them become sole proprietor of a candy or cake store. Such are the ambitions of the boys themselves, and such are the ambitions that should actuate their heroes. A well-written story of John Engemar's life, with a proper spice of aristocratic female beauty in it, would be widely read and do much to neutralize the baieful influence of such institutions as the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, the Public Schools and the Domestic Hearth.—San Francisco Daily Report.

He had been to the doctor, and had a tooth pulled that had roots. It was the great event of his life. It aroused all the sympathies of his gushing nature. He met a Reporter. The Reporter asked his name, occupation &c. This was something the style of conversation.

Reporter. "Did you lately come from the States?"

"Yes sir, I just had a tooth pulled, and it made me jump. It had roots."

Reporter. "What part of the States did you come from?"

"Illinois, perhaps you would like to see the tooth. I have it in my vest pocket. I shall always keep it. It was awful."

Reporter. "What is your occupation?"

"School-teaching, there look in my mouth, and see what a hole it made. The doctor pulled me awfully. It aches now."

Reporter. "How do you like the country?"

"Well, didn't it have prongs? It was set in solid. Would you like to examine the tooth again?"

Reporter. "Good-bye."

"Good day, it was rough, I was pulled all out of shape."

The young man with a look of injured innocence, then departed. He met a strange lady on horseback. He introduced himself, showed her his tooth, and related in full his aches, which so aroused her sympathies she shed a reticule full of tears.

All Fixed.

An insurance agent in Nashville, who was applied to by a small dealer in clothing for insurance on his stock, inquired:

"Did not your brother Isaac burn out in Atlanta, and did they not find kerosine sprinkled all over the floors?"

"Yes, dot vas Isaacs, but didn't he proof dot a barrel of kerosene busted on him?"

"Was it your brother who burned out in Mobile?"

"It vas."

"There was an explosion of powder, wasn't there?"

"Vell, Shacob said it vas robbers who blew open his safe."

"If this company insures you and you burn out, there will be a rigid investigation," said the agent.

"Vell, dot vas all right. If my store purns oop it will pe found dot I vas in Cincinnati, und dot my wife was oop all night mit a corpse. I vas a man who don't gif myself avay."

Rebuking a Chinaman.

Little Ada W., of Brooklyn, went to a neighbor's on the eve of election to fold Seth Low's tickets with the other little girls. While there a lady related the following, which Ada repeated to her parents when she got home. A Chinaman came into the ladies' cabin on the ferryboat and took a seat beside an Irish market-woman He seemed to want to make himself agreeable and remarked: "Belly cold." The woman looked at him with an air of contempt and replied: "If you'd put your shurt inside your pants your belly wouldn't be cowld, you heathen blackguard!"—New York Sun.

LOCAL NEWS

Three young men, Ewell, William and Paul Bonser lately made a trip to Mount Hood. They had a severe time of it, and are now paying the penalty of their temerity in the shape of frozen feet. Two of the young men have claims on the Spilei Prairie, and went out to visit them. They went up Lewis River as far as they could in a boat, and securely fastened their craft to the shore. At Spilei the notion took them to visit Mt Hood, so on they went to a lake beyond. They found it a perilous adventure. One place they climbed up, they were forced to make a path with the muzzles of their guns. The last day of their return, they only had some coffee to soothe their ravenous appetites. It seems a miracle that they escaped with their lives. We shudder to think what might have been the result had they met with any accident. Their adventures if written out by the hand of a master probably would be thrilling and romantic in the extreme, more interesting to read than endure.

Sunday we went out to hunt our horses, we went to Milton, then on to William Harris'. There we took dinner. Mr. Larsen Derlon and wife were there. Miss Derlon is house keeper for the Harrises. She is an excellent cook, for we partook of a sumptuous repast of her preparation. Mr. George Harris informed us his brother John was with Mr. Root, his brother-in-law, 12 miles from The Dalles. Mr. Root is about to engage in farming, and John was turning up the soil with the time honored plough. After dinner we went on to the Stephens place, and then to Mr. Joseph Copeland's, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kellogg were there. Mrs. Kellogg was down to attend on her sick sister Dora. Our horses we found in Mr. Copeland's field across the road.

Mr. Copeland has some fine enlarged photographs of himself and wife. Mrs. Copeland's is one of the most life-like portraits we ever saw. It must be a great comfort to her husband and children.

Josie Copeland looks very healthy, and with her innocent prattle is very entertaining. She has a doll of great flexibility.

Haven who stole Blakesley's breech-loading shot gun was tried before J. P. Whitney, and fined $25 and costs or 12 days imprisonment. Flagg, of the mist, circulated around and got $12.50 subscribed to pay Haven's fine, but could not get enough so Haven was sent to Portland to work out his salvation in the street gang. George Foster had loaned him $6.00 on the gun, and then gave it up, and Haven says he lent it to a section boss by the name of Reed. He might steal, but of course he would'nt lie.

Those Republicans who go back on a soldier who has a bullet in his body, and stood up for his country when she needed him, and support the Muckles in robbing him and freezing him out—the Muckles who have done nothing for the country except to help skin it—show they are ungrateful and either poltroons or hypocrites. They can take which horn of the dilemma they choose. They are sneaks. Thank God their number is few.

We called at Mrs. Rubert's lately. Ethilda repeated us an interesting poem entitled "The Fisherman." It was very beautiful. Some low-bred girls in town make faces and call this gifted child "Ethilda Nobody;" but she will be remembered when they are forgotton. Some people remind us of cattle in a cow yard when a strange animal appears in their midst. They display their brutal nature by hooking them.

The most amusing of all things is the braggadocio of the mist. They can lie about their circulation and ours with such ease. Since the Father of lies orignated the paper, it is not wonderful. Falshood is their chief stock in trade. Glendye was a good representative of their kind. The coat of arms of the Muckles should be an octopus, a dirty slimy thing that kills everybody it hugs.

J. Press Walker reports that T. A. Cloninger will give a ball on St. Valentine's Day and Washington's Birthday. He just knows how to bring a big crowd, and interest them after he gets them there. Tom is a splendid entertainer, and a rusher when he starts in. He has acquired deservedly a big reputation, and his wife can just take the cake in the matter of splendid cookery.

Did you ever have a guitar in the head? Isn't it musical? And then there is always an oyster in your mouth or a gob of condensed milk, and you are hunting a place to deposit, and your throat has more hems than a well ruffled dress and more haws than grow on a well-fruited thorn tree. Isn't it a sweet way to live and enjoy yourself in coughing. (coffin)

G. W. McBride has increased his stock lately in many articles.

James Shintaffer has a ranch on the the headwaters of the Coweman. He lately went there, and found the house burned down. It was full of tools, bedding and provisions; there being nothing left there he was necessitated to return. He hired a man to build another house. He believes the house was robbed, and then burnt to conceal the theft.

Hans had a wife whose mouth was always open. She was very scarey about her health. Hans told her he had consulted a physician who said one to be healthy must breathe through their nose and keep their mouth shut. By this ruse he escaped many a scolding and his wife acknowledged her mouth felt better, and was not as near tired as it used to be.

We visited the Butts House and took supper. Mr. Butts was very sweet on us, treating us to some magnificent honey. His son Albert has arrived from East of the Mountains. There we met Mr. and Mrs. Waud. Mr. Butts talks of going into the canning business in Alaska with Mr. Waud. A son of Mr. Butts is there already.

Mrs. Currier has been to Portland with her little son who has been ill. His grandfather, Mr. Currier took him to a skillful physician and had the child examined. It is a great pet with his grandfather, as he is an only grandson. Mr. Currier is a leading man in Portland. He was originally from Newburyport Mass.

The Army and Navy Journal of a recent date says: "Lieutenant A. Thomas, of the 9th U. S. Infantry, who recently resigned from the army; after a short service of less than a year, has been offered an excellent chance for embarking in business in Portland, Oregon, and will leave for that city in a short time."

The mist man tried Cloninger in his paper, and sat as judge on the case. He made himself very fresh on the premises. Every man is entitled to a fair trial and it is cruel as well as base to hound on the public. It is the bravery of a Sioux Indian who counts his coos by kicking a dead foe.

There is to be a Teachers' Institute here in February so School Superintendent Quick informs us. Mr. Quick has been to the Washington County Institute where he was Secretary. He reports there were some teachers there from Portland of the genus, dude.

A generous hearted Chinaman gave a certain family a bank. The paterfamilias of the family aforesaid was said to be a stock owner in the mist. The bank was exchanged for a scrap book as the mist-stock would not yet yield an income sufficient to fill the bank.

Enoch Shintaffer will give a Ball on St. Valentine's night at the Masonic Hall. Mrs. Konkle will prepare the supper. Everything will undoubtedly be first-class, as Enoch is a rusher in such matters, and understands how to get up a boom.

We visited two stores at Columbia City, one kept by Caples & Brown, and Mr. C. H. Hodges. They seemed well filled with goods. Mr. Hodges has a beautiful stand, and is very popular. In his dealings he is straight as a shingle.

Broyles' pond is the great attraction. People going and while there are full of life and spirit. When they return they feel like a tow dish rag, or a dude after his tailor has presented his bill. There is a general feeling of goneness.

There is near $500 due us on last years COLUMBIAN. Will not our friends come out promptly. We need money to settle our bills. It is not much for each one that owes us, but would in the aggregate be a big thing for us.

It is reported the Muckles have bought a half interest in all Dean Blanchard has. Time will show whether the clique are trying to change the county seat so as to make the county buy the land and lumber of them.

Hezekiah Caples' house now sits in a street and will be moved in the spring perhaps to the opposite side of the road, higher up the Columbia. Some very valuable fruit-trees will have to be dug up.

Judge Moore has received his new Safe. It is a beauty, and cost near $500. It will contain the abstract of title of lands in Columbia County. These as the lands advance in value will increase in worth.

There is a paper out west called the mist because there is so much due on it. It is dam p so those say best posted, and watery like a low ground potato. It is better mist, than taken.—Ex.

Mrs. Maxwell is living in Portland educating her children. She has improved in appearance and spirits, and her children are very promising. Lawence V. is learning telegraphy.

LITERARY NOTICES.

A Valuable Publication.

Each number of The West Shore is an improvement upon its predecessors and a pleasant surprise to the subscribers. „Pro-gress" is the publisher's watchword and perfection his aim. With its January number the Journal enters its tenth year, and will then appear in an intirely new dress of type, be generally remodeled and have eight pages added to its present size. More attention will be devoted to general literature than formerly, and its artistic features will also be improved. The improvements will make it almost indespensable to every family in the Northwest. The Daily Oregonian of November 27th speaks of it as follows: "The sketches are admirable and the workmanship would do credit to any city in the Union. Well written descriptions of the scenery illustrated are given, and the number also contains concise and interesting articles on mining, agriculture, fishing, transportation, etc. It is exclusively an Oregon production, and has done a great deal towards making the rescources of the Northwest known abroad, having been devoted especially to this work. Mr. Samuel has just purchased at a large expense a complete new dress for his journal, and from the advance sheets of the January number it is deemed safe to assert that it will be the handsomest work ever published in Oregon." The Northwest News of the 28th says: "The West Shore is recognized as the most powerful instrument in drawing desirable immigrants and in making known abroad the resources of the Pacific Northwest. With the Jan. number it begins its tenth year, and will then be entirely remodeled and enlarged, and will be made far more attractive artistically and in its literary features. While it will continue to devote as much attention as formerly to the resources of our country it will enter more fully the general field of literature. The improvements will make of it a journal that should find its way into every counting room and family circle on the coast." By all means secur this source of information and pleasure for 1884 by sending $2 to the publisher, L. Samuel, Portland, Or.

The Best and Most Practical Art Magazine.

The Art Amateur for January, consisting of sixty-four folio pages, is the largest and best number yet issued of this popular magazine. More then a hundred illustrations are given, not counting numerous full-size supplementary working drawings for china-painting, wood-carving, hammered brass, monograms, and embroidery designs from the South Kensington Royal School of Art Needlework. The Pedestal Fund Art Loan Exhibition is fully and critically noticed, with a biography of M. Bartholdi and pictures of his best sculptures. There are two facinating pages of illustrations of the matchless collection of Cosway miniatures, shown by Edward Joseph of London, with other works of art, at the Loan Exhibition; and interesting examples are given of the new very artistic Haviland "grès" ceramic ware. Other especially attractive illustrations are of Detaille's painting, "Saluting the Wounded," and the picture gallery in the W. H. Vanderbilt mansion. Editorially, Ward's statue of Washington is criticised somewhat severely; "Montezuma" in "My Note-Book" exposes new frauds in the picture trade, and Clarence Cook discusses the Salmagundi Club and Brooklyn Academy picture exhibitions. Altogether The Art Amateur enters on its tenth volumn fully sustaining its reputation as a very entertaining, instructive, and practical family art magazine; $4 a year, 35c. single copy. Montague Marks, publisher, New York.

An Old Friend.

Who of us does not enjoy greeting an old friend, especially when we can congratulate him on looking well? It is with some such feeling that we welcome to our table VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE, which comes to us dressed in the neatest and most elegant cover that enterprising house ever issued. To every lover of garden work we commend, in the heartiest possible manner, this beautiful and exceedingly practical publication. There is not a flower or a vegetable grown that is not illustrated in it, and some valuable advice given as to how to raise and care for them. Besides all this the book contains a charming colored plate of flowers, one containing a collection of vegetables, and a third shows a specimen of Vick's Extra Early Potato. Vick presents this Floral Guide (how appropriate the title!) to all his last year's customers as a Christmas present, and to all others at the low price of ten cents, and tells such that they can deduct the cost of it from their first order for seeds. To our farmer friends, to every market gardener, and those who merely garden for pleasure, we say—Get Vick's Floral Guide, of James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

The Inland Printer published in Chicago comes to hand. All printers should have it. It is a monthly, only $1.00 a year.

We have received the Pacific Coast, W. B. Bancroft & Co., Publishers, San Francisco, Cal. It is issued monthly, and its price is $2 00 per annum. It is illustrated, and devoted to the interests of this Coast, its ancient, its modern, history, its industries, its resources, its development and growth. It is very interesting and a perfect God-send to one who wishes to be posted on this part of God's moral vineyard. It is a good kind and good of the kind.

We don't see why the mist needed to enlarge, as it filled in with perfection plates before it enlarged and has all the time since.
