

VANITY.

Three fishes were sailing out into the East. Where the sailing boat and the sailing was least.

When home they would sail, there was no wind. So they had to row hard 'gainst the t. i. d. e.

Now, safe on the shore most devoutly they wish. They might go to store and b. u. y. some fish.

Oh woe to the f. i. s. h. e. r, who brings As the prey of the angler, salt cod and such things.

Every one, t. e. r. with a line and a hook. - J. Thierette, in the Brooklyn Eagle.

ABOUT LIZARDS.

The sight of a lizard crawling over the walls of her house would doubtless horrify and disgust an American house-keeper.

Catching flies is a favorite pastime, these and other small insects serving as food, and the dexterity with which they capture their prey is remarkable.

The strange thing about a lizard is its power of losing its tail and having it grow again.

These house lizards' eggs are round as marbles and about the size of small peas.
