State Turtles. Turtles are very largely tound along the coast line of Burma and the impe cunious government has found means to make money out of it. The right to collect turtles and eggs is sold by auction annually by the deputy commissioners within whose districts the banks are situated. The revenue from this source in the Irrawaddy division alone was about 28,000 rupees. For some time past a decrease in the number of turtles and tortoises has been noticed and the government now pro poses that the islands on which the tortoises lay should be completely pro tected from January 1 to May 15 (the faying and hatching season) once in every five years and that a small establishment should be maintained for this purpose,-Calcutta Amrita Bazar Pa-

His first large gift was made about twenty years ago, when he gave $25,000 for a building for the Hebrew Free Schools Association. He established a nurses' settlement on the East Side, a nonsectarian charity. The initiatory cost $30,000, and it costs $7,500 to maintain it. A handsome stone fountain in Rutgers Square, bearing the simple inscription, "Presented to the City of New York-1895," was for a time an anonymous gift from Mr. Schiff, which cost $10,000. He has just redeemed his promise by giving the association a plot of ground at Ninety-second street and Lexington avenue, and instructing his architects to erect a building thereon, the ground and house to cost $150,000. He originated the plan which led to the birth of the Monteflore home. He gave a few years ago $25,000 for a country sanitarium in connection with the home at Bedford Station, on Harlem Rallroad. He has also given $5,-000 as the nucleus of a fund in memory of the late Michael Heilbron, $10,-000 to the Hebrew Loan Society, and a large sum to Barnard College. The offer of his gifts to Harvard for the Semltic Department was made June 27. The next day President Eliot said in effect the university would accept the conditions imposed. His Text in "Robinson Crusoe." A humorous incident happened in Cleveland several years ago. A certain pastor, widely known and greatly beloved, was not as careful as he might have been in the preparation of his sermons. He was hampered but little by his manuscripts, and had a way of wandering far from the written screed. However, he had the good sense to submit his texts, and usually his manuscript sermons, to his highly intelli gent wife. He usually did this Satur day night, but on one occasion the lady happened to be away from home all the evening. So on Sunday morning she asked him for the chosen text.
