| AMERICA IN CHINA. | The attitude of the Unit

States in the Chinese crisis is tracting the attention of oorld.
One of the of tracting the attention of the world. 0 one of the London papers, for example, says the papers, for example, says the Globe-Democrat, has an artice Entitled "President McKinley's entitled "President McKinley's Opportunity, Hin which it says that this country can act with then that this country can act with more moral effect in China than can any of the great nations of Europe:
It remarks that Eng. land's movements are regarded with so much sumppicion by Rus-ion with so much suspicion by Russia that serious complications might anse if a force of British might arise if a force of British troops should be landed near Peck Pekin. The sae is true of Russia, it says, "but the United Russia, it says, "but the United States has traditions of friendship with Russia, and a community of interests with England. Its action, therefore, woold nut encounter the hostility of eithe power.', This is a cliance, it remarks, for the United States to preserve the open door which Secretary Hay has obtained, and adds: $A m e r i c a ' s ~ o p p o r t u n i t y ~$ has come. Will she be equal to it or will she let it slip from her hands and lose her vast poten tialities of trade in Northeri China." this is true of course.
All
America can take the initiative America can take the initiative any other nation. It is known to the world that this country wants no spherefof influence in continent. America's action i China wouid arouse no jealousy among any of the nations which own or seek territory in tha quarter.
Moreover, the Unite Startes is oniterevers of friendshi with all other countries. The "traditions of friendship with Russia" which the British jour day as they ever were, to country has traditions of frienc chin with Germany France Italy and all the rest of the coun tries interested in Chinese affair also, for the cordiality which ha also, for the cordiality which haa existed between the United States and England for the past two or three years has pretty well extirpated all remembranc of the earlier hostility betwee the two countries. So far as re gards the attitude of the rest o the great nations towards the United States, there is an era good feeling for this conntry al ver the world.
Yet the action o States in China will be eutirel independent of that of all the there nations be to the extent tha between this and any other coun try. The purpose of the admin Istration at Washington on thi point has been made tolerably plain in the past eight or ten days. At the end of The Hague delegates, in signing the agree ment, made the declaration that vention shall be so in this con to require the United States a America to depart from its tra ditional policy of not entering upon, interfering with or en tangling itself in the por en uestions or internal administral tion of any foreign state." United States will apply to Chin as well as to Europe, for United which it may take, will be for the purpose of giving the protec tion to its citizens which the Chinese government virtually confesses its inability to affard. The United States will enter into no entangling alliances with any European nation or nations question. It decclined England's invitation for a joint action in 1823 against the holy alliance, and, in the Morroe warning that coalition which was issuec in that year, established a policy of independent action which will be followed in the Chinese crisis.
