BRYANITE INCONSISTENCIES.

When the campaign fairly opens next month, the little boomlet which Mr. Bryan's candidacy is enjoying just at present will be dissipated by the searching analysis democratic literature and florid oratory must undergo.

Everything has an auspicious look to it at present,—politically speaking; our friends are in high glee and are now analytically going through the recent Bryan manifesto and exposing the many inconsistencies as well as contradictions which are quickly pointed out.

The Eugene Guard—a fearfully and wonderfully edited Bryan organ—has persistently insisted that the Filipinos are now offering as strenuous opposition to the American forces as during any period of the war. A letter from Louia A. Ranoff, now a member of Co. K, 35th Infantry, stationed at San Miguel, Philippine Islands, published in the Guard of August 27th, says: "There is no fighting going on now. I doubt if we ever see any more fighting; the war is all over. However, we are all very anxious to see a good scrap. We have had a few skirmishes, but nothing to speak of." This article doesn't seem to substantiate the Guard's editorial utterances.
