JEFFERSON'S METHOD.

In a special message to conin reciting the prompt and ener- excluded from the mails. getic methods employed to hold and maintain order in the newly acquired domain of Louisiana:

"In execution of the act of present session of congress for taking possession of Louisiana, as ceded to us by France, and for the temporary government Newth, farm lot thereof, Governor Claiborne, of math; con, $200. the Mississippi Territory, and General Wilkinson were appointed commissioners to receive north of Corvallis, $1. possession. They proceeded with such regular troops as had been assembled at Fort Adams ands, 2 lots in block 8, $1. from the nearest posts, and with some militia of the Mississippi territory to New Orleans. To be prepared for anything unexpected which might arise out of the transaction, a respectable ton, 1 lot in block 3, $100. body of militia was ordered to be G B Smith to John Sm in readiness in the states of Ohio, acres 5 miles south of Corvallis, Kentucky and Tennessee, and a $2,000. part of those of Tennessee was moved on to Natchez. No occasion, however, arose for their services. Our commissioners, on their arrival at New Orleans, found the province already delivered by the commissioners of $10. Governor Claiborne, being duly invested with the powers heretotore extendant of Louisiana, assumed tion, so favorable to the immediate interests of our Western blessings of freedom and selfgovernment, I offer to congress and our country my sincere congratulations."

The last paragraph of this message might be used word for word by President McKinley, as he contemplated the newly acquired islands of this republic.

From the message of President Jefferson may be interred two or three things which are of interest in this particular year of our Lord, 1900, namely, that congress has the sole power to devise a new government for newly acquired territory; that the forms of government of the states did not instantly spread themselves over such territory, and the military force was found a useful thing in maintaining desiring instruction will please leave orthe dignity of the flag in such ders at Daniel's Book Store, or confer new territory. Will Support McKinley.

Hugh Fields, president and controlling owner of the woolen mills ccated at Brownsville, and one of Linn county's best-known residents, has declared his intention of sup-porting McKinley. Mr. Fields naturally takes great interest in politics, and is keenly a ive to the effect upon his business. After having been a lifelong democrat, with strong Southern sympathies, he has renounced his party and declares himself emphatically in favor of McKinley, the gold standard, expansion and a tariff. He is confident that his loss on sheep and wool alone during Cleve.and's last administration was $10,000 a year, and he is not anxious to go through another such commercial depression. Since then the price of sheep has advanced from $1.50 to $3 per head, and wool that sold then for 7 and 8 cents now brings 15, and if Bryan should be on hand at the county treasurer's office elected he calculates that his loss to pay all orders endorsed and marked not paid for want of funds up to and inbrings 15, and if Bryan should be elected he calculates that his loss will amount to $20,000. Many other former democrats in Linn on the stopped on same from this date. county he states, have lost faith in that party's cause, and will vote the republican ticket this fall for the first time in their lives.

Coming from Missouri to Oregon in 1845, Mr. Fields naturally brought with him his love of the South, and later during the war, he was one of the principal conductors of the pony express that distributed gress, under date of January 16, the "Occident," a secession paper 1804, Thomas Jefferson used the published at Corvallis by Pat J. following concise, terse language Malone, which the Government had
