GOOD FOR MOUNT!

September 13th, the people of Fort Wayne, Ind., dedicated to the memory of General Henry W. Lawton a monument crowned by a cannon captured by him from the Filipinos, and christened the principal park in honor of Lawton. Some evil genius, or ignorance of the eternal fitness of things, prompted someone to invite Mr. W. J. Bryan to deliver the principal oration of the occasion, and Mr. Bryan, sublimely unconscious of the awkwardness of his position, accepted the invitation. These exercises were being held and this monument was erected to show Indiana's appreciation of General Lawton's services to his country in attempting to suppress the Filipino insurrection, and here was Mr. Bryan, who is denouncing this war as an unholy and unjust one, taking the most prominent part in doing honor to a soldier who gave up his life in that war. As well ask Aguiñaldo himself to take part in such a ceremony.

Governor Mount spoke just before Mr. Bryan. The governor took up the question of the Philippine war, denouncing Aguiñaldo by name and showing a tendency to strong condemnation of the insurgents and all who may sympathize with them. He spoke of the fact that the gun had been taken from men who had turned it upon our flag and our soldiers. If any man shall take offense at the words of Governor Mount, that man has no right to honor the memory of Lawton. The governor said in part:

"If this cannon was not captured in a just and humane war and from those resisting the lawfully constituted authority over these islands, fighting the soldiers of the government that had liberated them from Spanish thralldom, then where is the glory of the capture and the glory of this gift? Honor the insurgents as patriots and then you interpret wrongfully the words, the will and the act of our dead hero, and this shaft becomes a hollow mockery and this trophy of patriotic valor becomes a monument to the dishonor of our soldiers and the shame of our country. "I trust I may never see the day when I shall so far forget my devotion and my loyalty to my mother country as to characterize our soldiers as the agents of oppression, turning the banner of liberty into an ensign of imperialism, nor do I apprehend such a consummation."

Lumbering Activity.

During the past season there has been much activity among timbermen in securing holdings in the different belts. In Southwestern Benton a great deal of timber land has been secured. And much interest has been shown regarding timber land adjacent to the Siletz Indian Reservation. West and south of Dallas is quite a large belt of valuable timber. In seeking an investment in timber it appears that monied lumbermen are not very particular regarding the variety of timber so long as it is of good quality and of reasonably easy access. It will not be long before the question of location will be ignored in Oregon and available section of timber will be taken. Nor will it be many years before every belt of timber in the state will be easy of access, so rapidly is the country opening up, and so energetically are the various railroad companies securing new franchises and right-of-ways, etc. In order to give an idea of the immense amount of lumber that the forests of Oregon contain, it is only necessary to quote the following from the Brownsville Times:

H. G. McKinley, accompanied by three other timbermen, went into the timber belt a few miles east of this city this week, and in township 15 south, range 2 east, he measured off one acre and counted the fir trees thereon. On this one acre were 81 trees which will average 100 feet in length and 3 1/2 in diameter, making about 400,000 feet. This is all fir and hence does not include a large amount of hemlock. Mr. McKinley says this timber has fallen into good hands, and soon—less than five years—big mills will begin the manufacture of lumber and then Brownsville will take on new life.

Buys Another Road.

A. B. Hammond, the Montana capitalist who controls the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad and the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad, has recently shown his faith in the Pacific coast states by purchasing another important and valuable piece of railroad property, the new road running from Eureka, California, to the coast, the Eel River & Eureka Railroad, together with valuable timber lands and other enterprises and industrial undertakings connected with the road. As a result of the purchase of this valuable piece of property, Mr. Hammond, it is expected, will soon remove from his present home at Portland to San Francisco. It is believed that his purchase of the several properties now controlled by him on the coast will ultimately lead to a splendid system of railroads in Oregon and California, with a main line running north and south paralleling the coast line, and that the purchase of the several lines already controlled by Mr. Hammond was the result of a careful plan with this idea in view.—Statesman.

[There is a slight mistake apparent in the above statement that the "new road runs from Eureka, California, to the coast." Such is not the case. Eureka is right on the coast, being situated on the Humboldt bay. It is the coast terminus of the road. From this point the road runs south and a little east through the Eel River valley and from the inland terminus it is from 75 to 100 miles to Ukiah, Mendocino county, where it will eventually connect with the line that runs from the latter place to San Francisco bay.—Ed.]

Arthur Johnson.

The death of Arthur Johnson occurred at his home, seven miles north of Corvallis, early Saturday morning. His death was rather unexpected, for he was in Corvallis a short time ago as well as all appearances as he had been for several years. The cause of his death is thought to have been inflammation of the bowels.

Arthur Johnson was about 75 years of age. He came to Benton county many years ago and has been a highly respected citizen during the entire period of his residence in this county. He has been over the greater part of the coast, at one time having been engaged in mining during the great mining boom of California. He received a number of severe jabs while working in the mines that left him somewhat crippled during the remainder of his life. His wife died a few years ago and he has two daughters who survive him, and they are the wives of the Marris brothers. Both gentlemen and their wives reside on the Johnson farm.

The funeral occurred Sunday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge of this city. The services took place at the family residence and were conducted by Rev. MacLean, of the Episcopal church. The remains were interred in the Locke cemetery.

And thus another Oregon pioneer has passed to the great unknown, but he has so lived that his memory will be cherished by former friends and companions for years to come.
