LOCAL NEWS.

F. L. Miller.

O. L. Clark was a Portland passenger, Wednesday.

If you don't know F. L. Miller ask some one who does.

Frank Lilly went over to the Siletz during the week to attend to some business.

Night officer C. B. Wells, who has been quite ill with pneumonia, is now convalescent.

Mrs. Thorp goes to Toledo, January 24th, to install officers of the W. R. C. of that city.

Services at the Baptist church, morning and evening, Sunday, conducted by the pastor.

Dr. Thompson occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church at Brownsville last Sunday.

Born, in this city, Tuesday, January 15th, to the wife of Jesse Wilsey, a 9-pound daughter.

Albert J. Metzger is an experienced watchmaker and jeweler. His place of business is three doors north of the postoffice.

At the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday at 11 a. m., "The Forward Movement," and at 7:30 p. m., "The Living Element in the Best Grade Morality."

Cal Thrasher arrived home a few days ago from a ten-days' sojourn at Lebanon. While over there he was engaged in work for the order of Modern Woodmen of America.

The Modern Woodmen of America, of this city, had installation of officers last Saturday evening. They also initiated a new member, after which a nice luncheon was served.

Services in the United Evangelical church Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. and at Mt. View school house at 2:30 p. m. Rev. L. M. Boozer will preach at each service.

The firemen will give a dance in their hall tomorrow evening and the boys are making special arrangements to have a good time on this occasion. If you can go you should not fail to do so.

Our best advertisements are not printed; they are worn by our customers. Our clothing gives satisfaction, and there is no better advertisement than a satisfied customer. F. L. MILLER.

Parties wishing first-class photographic work, copying, enlarging, color work, photo buttons, pins, etc., should call on or write to B. R. Thompson. He makes a specialty of view work. Residence near the Catholic cemetery, west of Corvallis.

Their will be a game of indoor base ball at the Armory tonight. The game will be played by the Harvard and Yale teams, and will be called, promptly at 8 o'clock. An admission fee of 15 cents will be charged, but it is in a worthy cause and everybody should respond.

A recent letter from A. F. Peterson, posted at Fossil, Oregon, states that he has secured the contract for building a court house for Wheeler county. The price is in the neighborhood of $10,000, and the work will begin shortly. Mr. Peterson, at the time of writing, was quite busy.

Mr. Ed Wiles, of Wells, was in the city Tuesday completing arrangements for the Farmers' Institute to be held at that place in February. This institute will consist of three sessions. An excellent program has been prepared which will appear in the columns of this paper in the near future.

A petition was being circulated yesterday asking the legislature to make the steel bridge over the Willamette river at this city a toll bridge. This bridge question is a grave one for Albany, and one it will be difficult to solve. A toll bridge may be the best way out of it, and that may not be a success, as it will probably involve the city in expensive litigation. Many of the citizens of Benton county subscribed and paid liberally to the construction of the bridge on the condition that Linn county should maintain a free bridge. The county was let off by the city on paying a gross sum of $40,000. The question now is, can the city change this without the consent of all parties? In other words, are these vested rights which the city can ignore?—Albany Herald.

W. A. Sanders, the best watch maker.

Mrs. E. R. Bryson returned yesterday from a visit with relatives in Portland.

Mrs. Plummer, of Albany, is visiting in this city the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. A. Cathey.

Mrs. S. N. Wilkins gave a delightful tea Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, to about fifteen of her lady friends.

Don Hoigate left yesterday for Seattle, Wash., where he will accept a position as stenographer with a prominent law firm.

We are asked to utter a word of warning to the parties who recently forced an entrance to a residence in the northwestern portion of this city. They are known, and a repetition of the offense will bring summary punishment.

A trio of fine poultry were received by M. O. Wilkins today. The variety is White Plymouth Rocks Pollard strain, Sattlesboro, Mass. This trio of hens added to Mr. Wilkin's pen gives him one of the best yards of White Rocks in the county.—Register.

What was said to have been one of the most valuable as well as interesting papers delivered before the Dairymen's Association recently held at Hillsboro, was Prof. A. L. Kniesley's discussion of the relative effect of dairying and grain growing on the soil.

Losses due to the recent flood were not heavy, so far as reported. The greatest, perhaps was that sustained by Judge W. S. McFadden. A band of 120 sheep, belonging to this gentleman, were drowned on his place near Harrisburg. They were valued at about $600.

A. D. Morrison left Tuesday for Elgin, where he has an interest in a drugstore together with S. E. Harris, a member of last year's graduating class of O. A. C. Mr. Morrison will be home Monday. During his absence, Thomas Jones will dispense prescriptions at Graham & Wells.

Blind people don't read our ads, but they are about the only ones in Corvallis who don't. They are read because it is just as much a matter of news to learn where and on what article you can save a dollar when buying, as it is to learn that "John Brown was in town last week," or any other local item. F. L. MILLER.

Claude Riddle leaves Monday for Grants Pass, where he will assume the duties of city editor on the Observer of that city. Claude is well fitted for this position. He has a natural scent for news, and his ability as a practical printer has been attested by the artistic appearance of the College Barometer this year, for which he is entitled to all credit.

It seems like old times to announce a game of football to take place on the college campus. The contest occurs tomorrow afternoon, between two O. A. C. elevens. An admission fee of 15 cents will be charged, the proceeds to be used in liquidating bills owed by the athletic association, when inter-collegiate sports were prohibited by the board of regents.

At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Andrew Gellatly, in this city, Wednesday evening, January 16, 1901, occurred the marriage of Mr. Elmer Thayer and Miss Nettie Gellatly. The ceremony was performed by Dr. E. J. Thompson, in the presence of relatives and numerous friends of the high contracting parties. Mr. Thayer is the general agent of the O. R. & N. company in this city, which position he has filled for the past two years. During his residence here he has made himself popular both in social and business circles. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Andrew Gellatly. A graduate of the Agricultural college, she is a young lady of refinement and culture. Her entire life has been spent in this county, where she commands the respect and esteem of all who know her.

Installation of officers of E. H. W. R. O., Tuesday evening was made a very pleasant social affair. Mrs. Mandana C. Thorp acted as installing officer. A beautiful feature of this ceremony, was the new service with the flag. Following are the new officers: Mrs. Prudence Chipman, president; Mrs. Elizabeth Hubler, S. V.; Mrs. Sarah Elgin, J. V.; Mrs. Jane Lane, chaplain; Mrs. C. Reed, conductor; Mrs. T. O. Case, treasurer; Mrs. Emily Henkle, secretary; Mrs. Frankie Smith, guard; Mrs. Ada Farmer, assistant conductor; Mrs. Robinson, assistant guard; Mrs. S. T. Kerr, Mrs. Sarah Cronk, Mrs. A. M. Maxwell and Mrs. Stewart, color bearers.

At the conclusion of these exercises, Mrs. Chipman, on behalf of the Corps, presented Mrs. Thorp, retiring president, with a beautiful silver bread tray. Mrs. Thorpe made a happy response. The entertainment concluded with music and short addresses by comrades, and serving of appropriate refreshments.

LACK OF APPRECIATION.

An Unfortunate Habit Into Which The People of Oregon Have Fallen.

TO THE GAZETTE.—The agitation in favor of reducing the South's representation in congress as a punishment for suppressing the negro vote ended, naturally, in smoke. Practical republicans admit that the great republican mistake was the fifteenth amendment and recent legislation limiting suffrage, adopted by several Southern states would be enforced in Northern commonwealths were conditions there similar.

Several Northern States have now educational or property limitations or both and the tendency is toward restriction rather than toward liberality. Sober students predict a general limiting of the suffrage, in the selection of legislative officers to actual taxpayers, regardless of sex. In voting for administrative and judicial officers the test, they say, will be sex and education. There will thus be a patriotic reward for thrift, and the improvident will not be able by their ballots to waste the accumulations of the prudent.

Senator Dolph once remarked to Editor Lighter, of Astoria, that a constant source of disappointment to him was the lack of personal evidences of appreciation from his home people when, after perhaps a long hard fight, he accomplished something favorable to their interests. Not a telegram of congratulations, not a letter of thanks. The victories were often hardy won; sometimes gained by unimagined sacrifices. Senators and congressmen are human and a "thank you" from those they are trying to serve is often appreciated as much as a re-election would be, and gives heart for renewed exertion. It is unfortunate for Oregon that her people are falling into the hurtful habit of criticizing and fault-finding her representatives at Washington out of office as soon as they begin to gain committee experience and legislative power.

It has been very difficult to see Mr. Tongue lately, for he has been constantly busy day and night, as a member of the river and harbor committee, and a study of the bill as presented by the committee will show that his efforts in behalf of Oregon have been phenomenally successful. Yet, when I pressed him the other day for information concerning the manner in which Oregon people received the news, he reluctantly admitted that he had only received messages of congratulation from Corvallis for the liberal allowance for the reversion near there. Judge Burnett, and I believe some others, wrote him personally. Later, other places voiced their commendation, but Portland—well, we all know Portland.

The Oregonian not only failed to give Mr. Tongue credit, but actually said that the results were due to the action of the members from Washington, in spite of the fact that not one man of the Washington or Idaho delegations aided in the slightest degree a single Oregon project mentioned in the bill as presented by the committee. The injustice to Mr. Tongue is the grosser because the great bulk of the appropriations secured for Oregon are for the second district. The whole state, it is true, will be benefited by the improvement of the Columbia bar, but broadmindedness merits more than misrepresentation and blame. H. L. HOLTGATE. Washington, D. C., Jan. 9, '01.

Obituary.

All that is mortal of the late Mrs. Mary Smith now lies at the home of her son, John Smith, in this city. Wednesday of last week she was stricken with pneumonia. The best medical skill and loving attention were of no avail, and dissolution came Monday night at ten o'clock.

Mary, daughter of John and Elizabeth Baker, was born March 4, 1829, in Cumberland county, Tennessee. Together with her parents, she moved from that state to Missouri in 1843, and three years later all the members of the family began that weary journey to the Pacific coast. California was reached in the autumn of that year, and the train moved on to Oregon under the guidance of Capt. Lindsey Applegate, being the first to enter the western portion of this state through the Rogue river country. Passing the spot where the city of Eugene now stands, they found the pioneer resident, Mr. Skinner, laying the foundation for his log house, the first building erected on the site of the present county seat of Lane. Marys river was crossed by swimming, January 15, 1847, and the party discovered the first residence seen by them since taking the plains. It was the log hut of the late J. C. Avery, standing upon the site of the present Avery residence. The journey was continued into Polk county, where the winter was spent on the place of J. W. Nesmith. In the autumn of 1847, Mr. Baker filed on a donation claim six miles south of Corvallis, and immediately occupied it with his family.

Green Berry Smith met and won Mary Baker, and their marriage occurred in 1849. Mr. and Mrs. Smith soon filed the donation land claim of 640 acres twelve miles north of this city, and here they resided until 1862, when they moved to Corvallis. Four years later they removed to the farm four miles south of Corvallis, not returning here until 1883. Upon the death of her husband in 1886, Mrs. Smith retained a large share of the vast property he had amassed.

Besides her son, John, the immediate surviving relative, is a brother, William Baker, of Arlington. Her brother, John, and sister, Mrs. Butterfield, mother of Mrs. E. H. Taylor, died years ago.

Concerning the character and social and home life of the deceased the GAZETTE can say nothing that is not familiar to old and young of this community. All knew her, and all honored and respected her. No greater tribute could be paid to her memory; her loved ones could ask no prouder heritage.

The funeral services will be conducted at the residence of John Smith, this afternoon at 2 o'clock, by Dr. E. J. Thompson. Interment will occur at Crystal Lake cemetery.

Has Proved Unsatisfactory.

Following are the resolutions presented to the board of regents at its recent meeting by the student body of the O. A. C. Representative students were permitted to plead their cause before the board, and were given respectful hearing. It is believed their arguments had much weight with the various regents: To the Honorable Board of Regents of the Oregon Agricultural College:

Whereas, The plan of having no intercollegiate athletic contests between the Oregon Agricultural College and other institutions of learning has proved unsatisfactory for many reasons, among which are: That it causes an increased use of tobacco and intoxicants, as well as an increase in gambling and frequenting public resorts; that it causes a lack of college spirit and an inefficiency in the work of the students as shown by the largely increased number of failures and conditions; and that it discourages beneficial exercise.

Therefore, Be it resolved that the students of the Oregon Agricultural College request that intercollegiate athletic contests be again permitted.

A Sudden Death.

J. L. Clegg, a veteran of the civil war, and a resident of Corvallis for the past four months, died Thursday morning at 6 o'clock in his room at the residence of Geo. W. Smith after a very short illness. Tuesday evening he appeared in his usual health, retiring at 9 o'clock. Mr. Smith heard him tossing in his bed during the night, but thought little of it. Wednesday afternoon ST Kerr had occasion to visit his room and found him in a state of stupor. His efforts failed to arouse Clegg, and Charley Young, a friend of the deceased was sent for. The sick man recognized Mr. Young and said, "Is that you, Charley?" The last words he ever spoke. Dr. Pernot was summoned, but his efforts were unavailing. The immediate cause of death was paralysis, due to uranic poisoning.

Clegg saw service in many important engagements of the civil war, being a member of Co C 4th Illinois Cavalry. He served for a time as dispatcher for Gen. Grant. He was employed for many years as a railway conductor. Of recent years he has lived with his wife and step-son at Elk City. These relatives now reside in Idaho. The deceased was about sixty years of age. The funeral will occur this morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. F. L. Moore, officiating. Interment will take place at Crystal Lake cemetery under the auspices of the G. A. R.

Additional Local

Last Friday was the 43rd anniversary of the birthday of John T. Hurlburt, and he was agreeably reminded of that fact when a bevy of young people forced an entrance to his home, south of this city, on the evening of that day. They were abundantly supplied with refreshments, and had arranged a program of entertainment, which made the occasion a delightful one. Mr. Hurlburt was completely surprised, but soon regained composure and joined heartily in the merriment.

Rev. S. H. Shangle left Friday morning for Corvallis, but will return this evening to resume his work on the college proposition. He was feeling more encouraged when he went away, $2,600 having been subscribed up to that time. From promises and pledges not yet placed on paper, it now looks as if the full $5,000 will be raised, ensuring Roseburg a permanent educational institution that will grow with the growth and development of the country and be always a source of pride to the city, as well as contributing to its growth, and raising its standard among the cities of the state.—Roseburg Review.
