That is what is required by every organ of the body, for the proper performance of its functions.

It prevents biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney complaint, rheumatism, catarrh, nervousne's, weakness, faintness, pimples,

It perfects all the vital processes. W. P. Keeton, Woodstock, Ala., took Hood's Saraparilla to make his blood pure. He writes that he had not felt well but tired for some time. Before he had finished the first bottle of this medicine he felt better and when he had taken the second was like another man—free from that tired feel-ing and able to do his work.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES

Do Not Hurt Armor When They Burst on the Surface. Experiments undertaken by the United States Government expressly to test the theory that if a sufficiently large amount of high explosive can be detonated against or in close proximity to use the pet term of promoters, anni-

Accept no substitute, but vived without the slightest sign of being injured; one was killed by a flying fragment of a shell (a result which does not affect the argument), and only one appeared to have died from shock. Iron visiting cards are popular in Prof. Alger, the greatest expert in this country, or probably in any country, on this very question, says: "This experiment would seem completely to dis pose of the theory that a high-explosive shell of very large capacity will blow in the side of an armored vessel if it exploded against it;" and he further says that "the velocity of the shell would add materially nothing to the effect of a detonation, the rush of whose gases is determined by a pressure of hundreds of tons per square

> It is the opinion of Prof. Alger and every ordnance expert the world over that for a high explosive to be effective it must be carried by the shell through the armor, and burst within the hull of the ship itself. This conclusion was strikingly borne out by the experiments on the Belleisle, made early in the present year. The high-explosive shells were burst upon contact with the armor, and left no further trace than harmless star splash on the outside of the ship.-Scientific American.

CHLOROFORM.

tice in Edinburgh An apprentice to the Esinburgh surgeon-dentist, Mr. Imlach, named T. D. Morrison, was the first patient in England to take chloroform. It was on he 10th of November, 1847, at 1 p. m., in the house, 55 Queen street, Edinburgh, that Prof. Simpson administered the chloroform to this young man. Six weeks before that Mr. Morrison had aken ether in order to have a tooth extracted, and when he desired to have another tooth pulled he was told of the discovery of a new anaesthetic by Prof. Simpson, and asked if he would submit to the test. Mr. Morrison, after reflecting for a few minutes on the blessings this discovery might bring to suffering humanity, decided to run the risk. This was about 10 in the morning, and the operation was fixed to take place at 1 clock in the afternoon in the presence of a number of scientific men. Mr. Morrison wrote a letter to Prof. Simpson freeing him from any responsibility The Mexican government exhibit at if there should be any accident or in the event of death. The anaesthetic proved efficacious in about one minute, and Mr. Morrison soon recovered, and he is still proud of the fact that he was Simpson's first patient under chloroform. And how deplorable when it is known that there is a remedy so exactly suited to the needs of suffering women that it cures the most stabborn of their diseases.

Immediately after the birth of her first child in 1896, Mrs. Grace Campbell, of No. 391 Logan street, Grand Rapids, Mich., now 28 years of age, was afflicted with a complication of diseases. Her story, as told in her own words, follows:

"The birth of my first child left me in a deplorable condition. My system was broken down and 1 suffered from general debility. I was exceedingly nervous and rheumatism also troubled me. My appetite failed and the most delicate and inviting food failed to tempt me. I was thin and pale, and had neither energy nor ambition. My case had been growing steadily worse for two years. I had used several socalled remedies but found no curative qualities in them.

"In the summer of 1898 I was visiting my grandmother in Ludington, Mich., and there learned of the wonderful cares effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I tried the pills and had not finished one box before I felt much better. I continued taking them through the year and the result was a perfect cure. I am no longer nervous or rheuamtic and have more than regained my lost flesh. I certainly recommend the pills to all who need them and their results have always been beneficial."
